University of North Carolina Statement On Gambling

The mission of the Department of Athletics is to sponsor a broad-based athletic program that provides educational and athletic opportunities for young men and women to grow and develop. In keeping with the Department's mission and the University's commitment to educational interests, competitive athletic programs, and integrity in all areas, the Department of Athletics strongly condemns the influence of gambling on intercollegiate athletics.

Student gambling is a significant issue on college campuses. Student-athlete involvement in gambling has produced many tragic situations, both for student-athletes and the universities they represent. Student-athletes often compete in contests that generate interest from those involved in gambling and, possibly, organized crime. If given the opportunity, those interests will not hesitate to exploit the position student-athletes hold on college campuses. As such, the University of North Carolina is firmly opposed to all forms of gambling and bribery related to intercollegiate athletics.

To fulfill its educational obligation, the Department provides a gambling education program to all its student-athletes and departmental staff members. This statement and the educational program are reflections of the Department's commitment to keeping intercollegiate athletics free from the influences of gambling and its related activities.

The Department requires its staff members and student-athletes to adhere to NCAA, state and federal laws regarding gambling. In the interest of fair competition and the growth and development of student-athletes, the Department strongly urges its friends and supporters to refrain from gambling/betting on contests involving collegiate competition and to abide by state and federal laws.

The University of North Carolina and Nike extended their agreement for eight more years beginning in July 2002. The agreement provides each varsity team with shoes, apparel, equipment bags and other product. It also provides $100,000 annually to the Chancellor's Academic Enhancement Fund for undergraduate teaching and $100,000 annually to the athletic department to reward Olympic sport programs and coaches for academic and athletic excellence.

Q & A With Coach Bunting

North Carolina Head Coach John Bunting discusses his goals for the 2003 season and evaluates the Tar Heels' strengths and weaknesses.

Q: What are your expectations for the 2003 season?

A: Our goal is to get back to a bowl game, but I know a lot of important things have to take place for us to reach our goal. Our offense has to lead this team. It has to be one of the best offenses in the ACC for us to be successful. Our special teams must improve dramatically, starting with our punting and our kick returns. We have to find someone who can return kicks effectively. With the freshmen we're bringing in, I know we're going to find some guys who can cover on special teams. Defensively, we still have some obstacles to overcome because of our experience. But, we're better than we were last year right now and we have a lot more depth than we had last year. I get excited every year as August nears because I know that means we are going to soon be back on the field playing the great game of football.

Q: You mentioned how important the offense is to the success of the team. What are the strengths and weaknesses on that side of the ball?

A: I'm excited about the backs and the offensive line. My biggest concern of the entire football team is at wide receiver because we have limited experience at that position. We lost two outstanding players in Sam Aiken and Chesley Borders from last season's squad. Sam set school records for receptions and receiving yards and Chesley was a solid threat. This year, we enter the season lacking experienced depth. However, we feel like we had the best receiving recruiting class in the country and I expect all of the freshman receivers – Adarius Bowman, Mike Mason, Jesse Holley – to compete for playing time this year. In addition, we need Brandon Russell to have a great senior year. He's healthy and should contribute. We need Jarwarksi Pollock to stay healthy. He's dangerous in the open field and made some big plays last season. We need Derrele Mitchell to produce and Danny Rumley and Daunte' Fields to step up their games.

Q: Darian Durant led the league in total offense last season and is nearing several Carolina career records in just his third year. What are your expectations for Darian this season?

A: Darian was a leader this summer. He was constantly in touch with our strength and conditioning staff and his teammates. Nearly every day he was out throwing the ball with his teammates. I think he's ready to take on that last intangible of becoming a good leader. He needs to lead not just by example, but by command. He's had two great seasons statistically and he's approaching records that many thought he could never reach.

Jeffrey Camarati

Q: How important was it for Darian to come back from a broken thumb injury and play in the last game of the 2002 season against Duke?

A: I think that really was important to him, but I think it was even more important to our football team. They really recognized his desire to get back and play, how much he missed it when he was out and how much he wanted to help the team win a football game. They really gained a great deal more respect for him because of that.

Q: What are some other positions that you have questions about other than at wide receiver?

A: We lack depth at fullback and tight end. We have some talented front-line players at those positions, but we need some of the younger guys to develop quickly. At fullback, Rikki Cook was limited in the spring because of injury, but we expect him to compete for the starting position this fall.

Q: Honorable-mention All-ACC tight end Bobby Blizzard returns for his senior year. What kind of season do you expect from him?

A: Bobby Blizzard is obviously a talented player. He will be in the best shape he's ever been in his life this season. He'll be in a position to make a real move in this conference and create a great resume for himself for the NFL. He has great hands and a great ability to catch and run. He's gotten stronger and he's gotten rid of all his baby fat.

2003 HEEL PRINTS

- Carolina returns all five starters on the offensive line for the first time since 1996.
- Carolina returns 49 lettermen – 21 offensive, 24 defensive, four special teams – in 2003, the most since 1991.
- Seven starters return on offense, the most-ever under head coach John Bunting and the most at UNC since the 1999 season.
- Carolina returns eight starters on defense, the most since the 2000 season.
- Over the last two years, Carolina's high-powered passing attack has averaged 253.0 yards per game. Carolina set a single-season school record last season with 266.6 yards passing per game.
- Carolina's offense has averaged at least 350 yards per game in nine of the last 11 seasons, including last year's 369.1 yards per game, the highest since 1997.
- In 2003, Carolina returns its top tackler (Dexter Reid), top passer (Darian Durant), top two rushers (Jacque Lewis, Willie Parker), and top receiving tight end (Bobby Blizzard).
- Nineteen players who started at least one game last fall are slated to return in 2003.
- Under head coach John Bunting, Carolina's schedule has been ranked as one of the nation's 20 toughest in each of the last two years. The 2003 schedule features more bowl teams (10) than Carolina has ever faced in a season.

We have a couple of walk-on tight ends who are doing a good job for us in John Dunn and Justin Phillips. Lewis Burnham improved some in the spring and we're excited about freshman Jon Hamlett. He's another freshman who could play this year if he has a good fall.

Q: Last season, Madison Hedgecock played both fullback and defensive line. He entered spring as a fullback, but switched to defensive end midway through spring ball. Where does he fit in this fall?

A: There is always the possibility that Madison could help us on offense in goal-line situations, but we're expecting him to compete for a starting position at defensive end. He's as strong as an ox. He'll do anything to help us win, which is why he agreed to move around last year.

2003 CAROLINA FOOTBALL PREVIEW

Q: Five starters return on the offensive line. Is this the type of offensive line you envisioned when you became the head coach?

A: It's close. They have talent, they've shown some toughness and now they have some experience. They've all played together for at least one year and we've developed some competition. We have the ability to play eight or nine players on the line on any given Saturday. Jason Brown and Jeb Terry are our leaders and Skip Seagraves and Willie McNeill have a couple of years of experience. Jason has great strength and athleticism. Jeb has got great strength, size and experience. He will probably get a chance to play at the next level. Kyle Ralph and Jupiter Wilson are battling at the left guard position. Brian Chacos stepped forward this spring along with Steven Bell and could see more playing time. Chris Woods has recognized the importance of strength and conditioning and is making an improvement in the weight room. I'm excited about the offensive line and the job Hal (Hunter) has done in developing our depth.

Q: Carolina enters the season with four healthy running backs for the first time in your tenure. Are you pleased with their development?

A: I'm excited about our running backs. We've got some players at that position that I expect big things from. Jacque Lewis is the guy that we know the most about in terms of his production and his ability to contribute both on offense and special teams. He is a valuable asset on our team. We have high expectations of Chad Scott and Ronnie McGill. I think both those guys have different styles, but they have game-breaking type ability. Scott is the faster and the more polished receiver. He can catch the ball and make big plays. I think McGill will one day be able to take over a game with his ability to eat up yards. He's got balance, quickness, vision and great strength for such a young player. Willie Parker had his best spring of his career and I anticipate he's going to come back charged to play. That position has the greatest competition and that's what I want to see.

Q: What is the strength of the defense?

A: Overall, I think our secondary will play extremely well. We have a lot of depth and a lot of talented players in our secondary. Dexter Reid is poised to have an All-America-type year and he proved last year he was the best safety in the league. I think Cedrick Holt is ready to be a big-time player at cornerback. Between Michael Waddell, who is coming back from injury, Chris Hawkins, Jacoby Watkins, Lionell Green and Derrick Johnson we should be a lot better at the corners. However, the biggest question mark on defense is at strong safety.

Q: Dexter Reid is regarded as one of the top safeties in the country. How has Dexter matured over the last three years?

A: Dexter Reid has matured tremendously since I first met him. He's a very intense football player on the field and he's a very involved and caring teammate and student-athlete off the field. I've been impressed with the way he has developed as a leader both on and off the field. If he has another great season like he had last year, he will be in a position to play at the next level.

Q: What concerns you about the strong safety position?

A: We are extremely young at strong safety with Mahlon Carey and Tommy Richardson competing for the starting position. Mahlon had a fine spring, but he has a long way to go. He hasn't played defense in over a year. He's very capable of playing the position, but he needs to continue to learn the position. I moved him to safety because he's a talented player who I wanted to get on the field. I also want him to make a strong contribution on special teams. He has displayed a physical attitude.

Q: What steps have you taken to improve the play of the special teams?

A: I've assigned (assistant head coach) James Webster to be our special teams coordinator and it will be his job to evaluate every player on our team and determine if they can help us on special teams. Overall, I'm trying to improve our speed and athleticism on special teams because you are always playing in space. That's why I moved guys like Mahlon Carey and D.J. Walker to defense because they can work on their tackling which will help us on special teams. Rashaad Tindall could also be a factor on special teams.

Q: The freshman class was ranked among the top 20 classes in the country by every major recruiting service. How many freshmen do you expect to play this year?

A: I would not be surprised to see anywhere between 10-15 freshmen play this season. All of them will have the opportunity to prove they can play right away. I'm not going to hold a player back that can help us because he is a freshman. We need to get the best players on the field who can help us win.

Q: Last season, Carolina used several two-tight end formations. With the depth problem at tight end, will the offense change drastically?

A: When you use a two-tight end offense like we did last year, you always have to think about what happens if one of those players gets hurt. You have to be prepared. (Offensive coordinator) Gary Tranquill will have an offense ready no matter what our situation is at tight end. Unless someone emerges, we won't have as many two-tight end sets. I like a two-tight end offense because it gives you much more flexibility, but a lot depends on training camp and the development of our younger players.

Q: Last season, the defensive line was extremely young. How important is it for those players to have a year of experience and a summer of offseason conditioning?

A: It's extremely important. Guys have had great summers getting ready – Kendall High, Hedgecock and Tommy Davis are stronger than they've ever been. One guy that really impressed me in the spring was Issac Mooring. He moved from defensive end to tackle and was probably our best performer in the spring. He is prepared to have his greatest season as a Tar Heel. Another guy I'm counting on is Jonas Seawright. I think he's

REID ALL ABOUT IT

- Free safety Dexter Reid is the nation's top returning tackler. Last season he was second in the nation with 13.8 stops per game.
- Reid earned first-team All-ACC honors last year at free safety, becoming the first Tar Heel defensive back to earn all-conference honors since Dre' Bly in 1998.
- Reid was named by The Sporting News as the nation's fifth-best safety entering 2003.
- Reid had 166 tackles in 2002, the second-highest figure in school history and the most ever by a UNC defensive back.
- Among active ACC players, Reid ranks second in career tackles (334). He is also tied for second with 17 career double figure tackle games.
- Reid had a career-high 22 tackles, including 16 stops, against Clemson in 2002.
- In 2001, Reid picked off a pass against Virginia and raced 67 yards for a touchdown that sealed Carolina's victory. It was the 10th-longest interception return for a touchdown in school history.

Bob Donnan

Ground Game A Priority

By Lee Pace, Extra Points

According to head coach John Bunting, priority number one this season is resurrecting Carolina's once dominant running game. Carolina has not led the league in rushing since 1994 and the Tar Heels last 1,000-yard rusher was Jonathan Linton in 1997.

In fairness, the Tar Heels and their fans have enjoyed unprecedented success via the forward pass over the last decade. A look at the record book in the passing and receiving categories will find the last decade as fertile with the likes of Chris Keldorf and Ronald Curry throwing and Na Brown and Kory Bailey catching as it is bereft of tailbacking accomplishments.

The issue here, of course, is the B-word: BALANCE.

Over the years, Carolina has been good at running or throwing—but rarely efficient at both in one year. Feast on the run, famine with the pass. Or vice versa. The exception to that was Mack Brown's 1992-94 run when the Tar Heels averaged 410 yards a game—57 percent of those yards on the ground and 43 percent in the air.

Why the Tar Heels' proficiency running the ball has waned since 1995 is up for debate. Running the ball in college football has become more difficult. Defenses over this period have stressed jamming the line of scrimmage and stopping the run; Carolina isn't the only team to have had to scrape and claw for every inch along the ground.

Whatever the reason, Bunting, staff and team are committed to improving that balance. It's essential if the Tar Heels are going to have a quality offense in 2003.

"Running the ball makes everything else easier," says offensive coordinator Gary Tranquill. "The passing game opens up when you've got a good running game."

"Any quality team down through the years has been able to run the ball," says running backs coach Andre Powell. "Florida State with all their great receivers has always had great tailbacks and a good running game. Take the pass from them and they'd run it down your throat."

"We have to make defenses respect the run," adds guard Jeb Terry. "If they have to put eight in the box to stop the run, you throw it over their heads. If they can stop the run with seven in the box, you can't throw it."

The good news toward that goal is that the Tar Heels have a stable of tailbacks and more experience, size and athleticism along the blocking front than in recent years. The big story in the spring was tailback Chad Scott, a junior transfer from Kentucky who sat out last fall, and true freshman Ronnie McGill. Scott led Kentucky in rushing in 2000 with 611 yards and was named first-team freshman All-Southeastern Conference. His teammates and coaches have a certain lilt to their voices talking about the 5-9, 185-pound Scott.

"He's phenomenal," says center Jason Brown. "He'll give you 110 percent, nothing less. He's very quick, he's good with his cuts and he knows how to hit the holes."

"He hits the hole hard and is really explosive," adds Terry.

"Scott makes things happen," says Tranquill. "He's making the other guys a little better. He's making them compete."

"Chad's totally different," Powell says. "He's fast, he's got great vision, good balance and can run with power. He's putting pressure on the other guys. If our season started today, he'd probably be the starter."

"Scott adds a lot," Bunting says. "He sees the hole and hits the hole better than anyone we've had. He turns a six-yard run into a 15-yard run. He turns a 12-yard run into a 25-yard run. That's a big difference. Every day this spring, he's broken runs of 30 yards or more. No one else has done that."

McGill entered school as a freshman in January. He's a powerful runner, mature for his years and was impressive early in spring practice before being hobbled with a sprained ankle. He returned in time for the spring game and was the offensive star with over 100 yards rushing.

"Boy, he is powerful," says Powell. "He's smart and takes the ball where it's supposed to go. He runs hard and blocks hard. I think we snuck him in under the radar."

Jacque Lewis is the Tar Heels leading returning rusher from last season.

Returning veterans Jacque Lewis and Willie Parker are improved. Lewis had an outstanding off-season conditioning program, leading the team in most gains combined in the bench press, squat and power clean. He gained 15 pounds and should be stronger and more durable.

Parker has run tougher this spring and is smarter in making decisions.

"He's running the ball where it's supposed to go better than any point in his career," says Powell.

Rikki Cook, a transfer from Rutgers, is getting reps primarily at fullback but could play tailback as well.

"I think we have a chance to be a lot better," Bunting says. "Now I'd like someone to step forward and become the bell cow. We need a go-to guy."

Watching the Tar Heels scrimmage one March Saturday afternoon was Mike Voight, the Tar Heel tailback of mid-1970s vintage who posted three thousand-yard seasons. Voight was in Chapel Hill to attend Letterman's Weekend and was asked by Powell to say a few words to his running backs after the scrimmage. Voight liked what he saw in terms of talent and the staff's commitment to resurrect the running game.

"It looks like we've got the stallions and I think we've got the beef up front," Voight says. "We've got more beef than when I played. I don't see any reason why we can't march right down the field. I'm anxious to see what this team can do. Coach Bunting understands how important it is to restore our tradition.

"We've still got the most thousand-yard backs in college football. We're still number one. Sometimes you have to take a step or two back before you can step forward."

Bob Donnan

ready to make a move. Donti Coats has had injury problems over the last two seasons, but he has a lot of talent. If he stays healthy, he can make a lot of plays for us. Jermicus Banks did a good job moving inside as well. We have more depth at defensive end than we've ever had. Jocques Dumas, Hedgecock and High are on the left side and Davis, Brian Rackley and Alden Blizzard are on the right. Rackley and Blizzard need to continue to mature and fill out. I also have high expectations of Xavier Rainey and incoming freshman Isaiah Thomas.

Q: As a former linebacker, you know how important that position is on defense. What are your expectations at linebacker?

A: That position is the second biggest concern on defense to strong safety because most of those guys still don't have a lot of game experience. I'm happy players like Doug Justice, Clay Roberson and Jeff Longhany had a chance to get on the field and contribute last year. It was a great learning experience and it will make them better. Melik Brown made a real move in the spring and won the job at outside linebacker. I'm curious to see if he can maintain it. Victor Worsley has yet to see the field and his shoulder is better. Devllen Bullard moved inside and he's adapting to that position well. In addition, we recruited what could be one of the greatest linebacker recruitings classes in Carolina history.

Q: You've mentioned special teams are a priority this year. How important is the punting game?

A: We have to win the battle of field position and the punting game is the key element in that fight. We enter the fall with great competition between John Lafferty, Topher Roberts, David Wooldridge and Paul Roberts. I expect one of those guys to grab hold of the starting spot in the fall.

Q: Who will return kicks this season?

A: Jarwarski Pollock is our top option on punts and Wallace Wright did a pretty good job returning kickoffs last year. I'm interested to see what Michael Gilmore can do in that position and I'm real anxious to see a couple of the young guys like Quinton Person, Bryan Bethea or Jesse Holley. They will be given early opportunities to see if they can help us in the kicking game.

Q: You've consistently said you want to play the best teams in the country. Are you happy with this season's schedule?

A: I love the fact we start the season with Florida State. It's great for our fans because it gets them excited. It's great for our players to know that the first game is a really tough test. I like playing another good team in Syracuse at home on the second weekend. The open week is much earlier than I would have preferred, but we will use that time to prepare for a long road trip the following week at Wisconsin, a tough, physical team. We have a lot of games in a row when we get back, but I like the way the rest of the schedule shapes up. Arizona State and their big-play passing offense should be a great game and it will be a great atmosphere at East Carolina. A lot of people are already looking ahead to that game. Once again, the ACC is going to be a tremendous conference. Each game is going to be extremely intense and I can't wait for the season to start.

Super Rams

• 17 TAR HEELS EARN TOP HONOR IN JEFF CONNORS' OFFSEASON STRENGTH & CONDITIONING PROGRAM

Clay Roberson (right) earned MVP honors among the Super Rams by scoring 104 out of a possible 110 points. Chase Page was second with 103 points. After learning he was in second place, Roberson came back to the weight room and worked out for 3 1/2 hours to improve his results and pass Page on the last day.

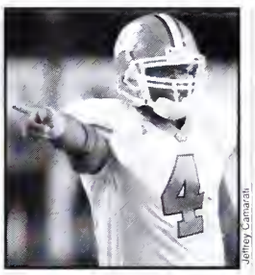
By The Numbers ...

3 Touchdown passes quarterback Darian Durant needs to pass Chris Keldorf (35) for the UNC career record.



Jeffrey Camarati

5 Starting offensive linemen returning in 2003 – C Jason Brown, OT Willie McNeill, OT Skip Seagraves, OG Jeb Terry, OG Kyle Ralph – the most at Carolina since 1996.

9 Rushing yards tailback Willie Parker needs to reach 1,000 for his career.

12 All-time bowl victories by the Tar Heels, including Carolina's 16-10 win over Auburn in the 2001 Peach Bowl.

Jeffrey Camarati

13 Consecutive wins by the Tar Heels over Duke. Last season, Carolina won 23-21 on a 47-yard field goal by Dan Orner as time expired.

13.8 Tackles per game by first-team All-ACC free safety Dexter Reid in 2002. Reid led the ACC and was second in the nation in tackles per game.

29 Carolina records currently held by quarterback Darian Durant.

34 Yards passing quarterback Darian Durant needs to become just the fourth player in Carolina history to throw for 4,000 career yards.

46 Combined number of touchdown passes Carolina has thrown in the last two years, the most in any two-year span in school history.

55 Yards of Dan Orner's school-record field goal at Syracuse. Orner also booted field goals of 52 and 51 yards in the win over the Orangemen.

Jeffrey Camarati

100 Yards receiving by tight end Bobby Blizzard in last season's game at FSU. It was the most by a UNC tight end since Mike Chatham had 144 yards receiving against Wake Forest in 1979.

266.6 School-record passing yards per game for the Tar Heels in 2002.

417 School-record passing yards Darian Durant threw for in last season's 38-35 victory at Arizona State.

CHAPEL HILL

The No. 1 College Town In America

- The American Society of Landscape Architects selected the Carolina campus as one of the most beautifully landscaped spots in the country.

- The Triangle (Raleigh, Durham, Chapel Hill), just a short drive from the ocean to the East and the mountains to the West, has become one of America's top areas in which to reside.

- In labeling Chapel Hill, America's finest college town, Sports Illustrated said it is "the purest example we could find of a college town that is defined by a university – and a good university."

- In the U.S. News and World Report magazine's 2002 "America's Best Colleges" guide, UNC was ranked fifth among the nation's top public universities and tied for 28th overall among both public and private campuses. Among undergraduate business programs, the Kenan-Flagler Business School ranked fifth nationwide.

- U.S. News also ranked numerous graduate degree programs and specialty areas at UNC among the top 25 nationwide, in April 2002. The magazine rated programs in the schools of business, education, law, medicine, nursing and public health. Several schools, degree programs and specialty areas were in the top 10.

- "The Unofficial, Unbiased Insider's Guide to the 320 Most Interesting Colleges" listed Carolina second among the top 10 "hot and trendy" national universities, based on results of the Kaplan 2002 National Survey of High School Guidance Counselors. Carolina was second behind Harvard University among top schools.

- The Journal of Blacks in Higher Education concluded in 2002 that Carolina ranked first among public campuses and sixth overall for success in integrating African-Americans. The evaluation rates the nation's 26 highest academically ranked universities in 13 categories or factors of racial diversity.

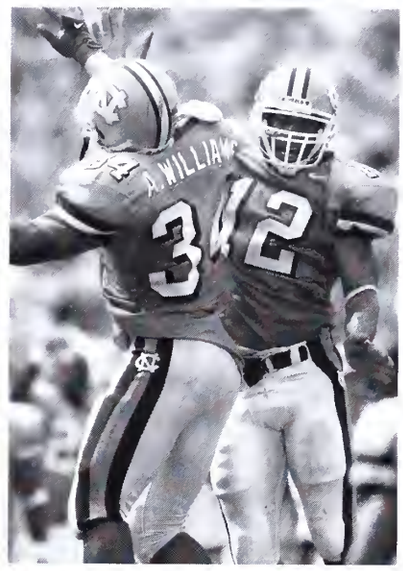
GAMEDAY

Nothing could be finer than game day at Carolina. The day begins with the team's Old Well Walk through Tar Heel Town and ends with a Carolina victory. In between, Carolina fans gather for one of the best tailgating atmospheres in the Southeast.

The Old Well Walk is a tradition started under head coach John Bunting. On game day, Carolina players arrive at the Old Well in the center of campus approximately two and a half hours prior to kickoff. Thousands cheer as the Tar Heels make their way through campus to Kenan Stadium.

The Old Well Walk



Tar Heel Town is the ultimate game day experience for all Carolina fans. This popular outdoor festival of food, music and family-oriented activities opens two and half hours prior to each home game. Tar Heel Town is located on Polk Place (the quad between Wilson Library and South Building), just a short walk from Kenan Stadium.

Since 1995, over 81 percent of Carolina's football games have been televised. Last season, nine of 12 games were broadcast on TV.

Carolina fans are decked out in blue and white on football gamedays. Did you know that more officially licensed Carolina clothing and merchandise is sold than that of any other school in the country?

OFFENSIVE LINEMEN

Carolina has produced some of the top offensive linemen in the Atlantic Coast Conference, including All-Americas Ron Rusnak, Ron Wooten, David Drechsler, Brian Blados, Harris Barton and Pat Crowley.

Jeff Saturday earned first-team All-ACC honors in 1996 and 1997, helping lead the Tar Heels to back-to-back Gator Bowl victories. Saturday is the starting center for the Indianapolis Colts.

Harris Barton earned first-team All-America honors in 1986 at offensive tackle. Barton played more than 10 years in the NFL with San Francisco and was the starting tackle on the 49ers' 1989, 1990 and 1995 Super Bowl championship teams. He earned All-Pro honors in 1992 and 1993. Barton's honored jersey will be added to the facade at Kenan Stadium in 2003.

Carolina returns all five offensive line starters in 2003, including All-ACC candidates Jeb Terry at right guard and Jason Brown at center.

Ethan Albright was a first-team All-ACC selection in 1993. He has played 10 years in the NFL and is currently in his third season with the Washington Redskins.

Tackle Kevin Donnalley (below) earned All-ACC honors in 1990. A 13-year NFL veteran, Donnalley is currently a member of the Carolina Panthers.

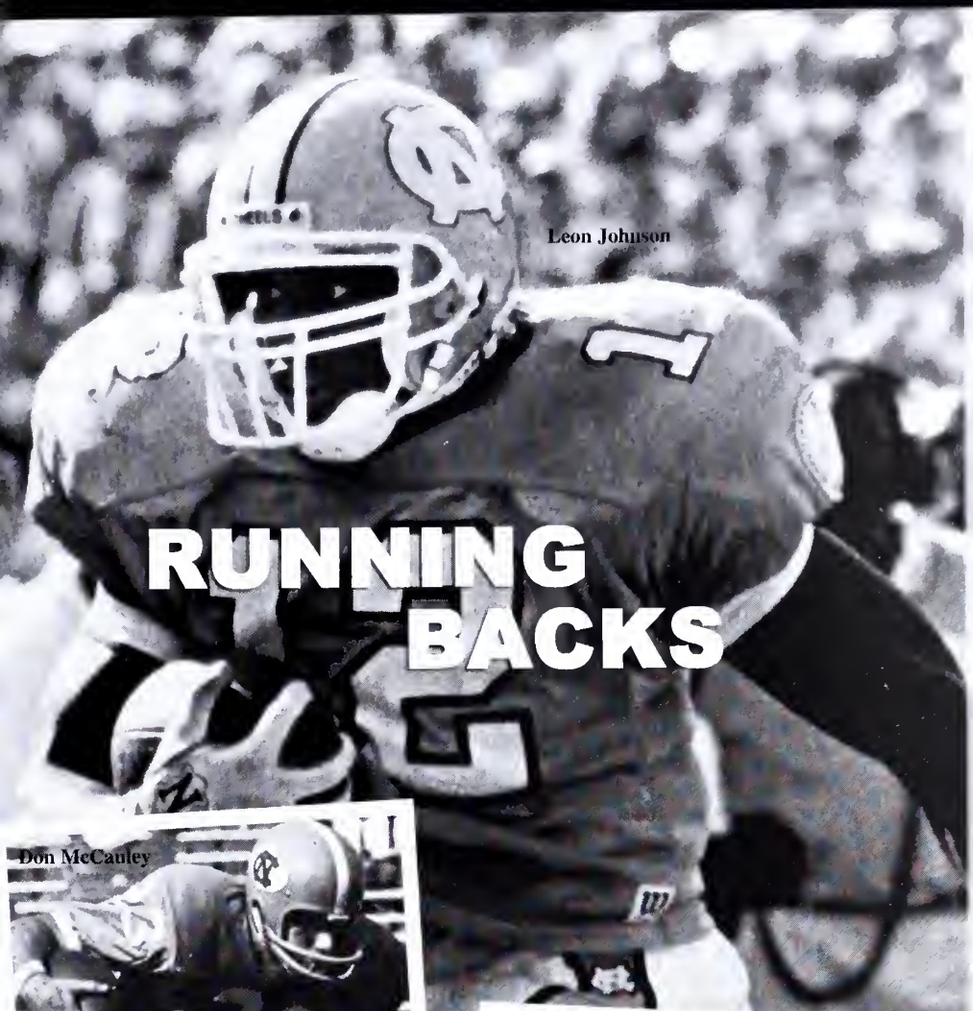
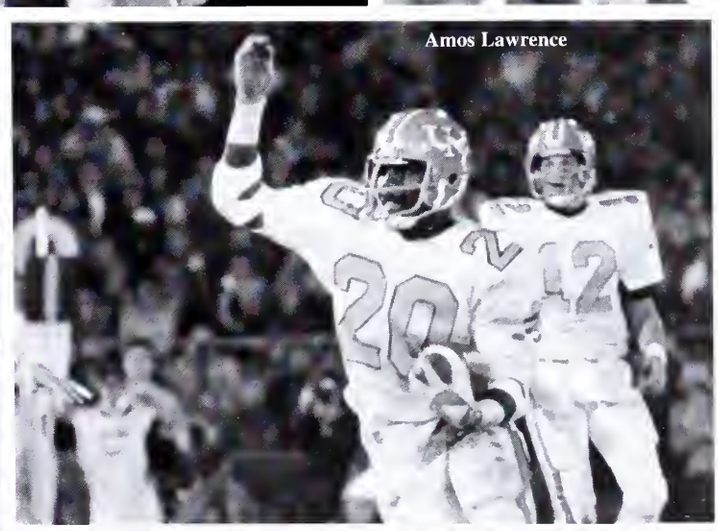
RUNNING BACKS



Leon Johnson

Don McCauley

Kelvin Bryant



Amos Lawrence

Natrone Means

Carolina leads the nation with 24 1,000-yard rushing seasons. The Tar Heels have more 1,000-yard rushing seasons than the next two ACC schools combined.

Don McCauley earned consensus All-America honors in 1970, rushing for a then-NCAA-record 1,720 yards. McCauley was twice named ACC Player of the Year and was recognized in 2002 as one of the ACC's Top 50 players of all-time. Now a development officer for the UNC Kenan-Flagler Business School, McCauley was recently elected to the College Football Hall of Fame.

Tailback Leon Johnson rushed for 1,000 yards in 1993 and he still holds the ACC record for all-purpose yards. A seven-year NFL veteran, Johnson signed a lucrative free agent contract with the St. Louis Rams in 2003.

UNC's Amos Lawrence is one of only four players in NCAA history to have four 1,000-yard rushing seasons.

Carolina has had many successful NFL tailbacks, including McCauley, Johnson, Kelvin Bryant and Natrone Means. Bryant helped lead the Washington Redskins to a championship title in 1988 and Means led the Chargers to the Super Bowl in 1994.

Tailback Charlie Justice was twice a runner-up for the Heisman Trophy in 1948 and 1949.

QUARTERBACKS

Carolina has produced some of the ACC's most exciting quarterbacks in the last decade, including Jason Stanicek, Mike Thomas, Chris Keldorf, Oscar Davenport, Ronald Curry and Darian Durant.

Over the last two seasons, Carolina has set numerous passing records. The Tar Heels set a school record for passing yards per game (266.6) last season, and in 2001 UNC set a single-season school record with 25 touchdown passes.

Four of the top six total offensive leaders in school history are quarterbacks who played in the last 12 years.

Ronald Curry, now a member of the Oakland Raiders, set the UNC career total offense record in 2001.

Current quarterback Darian Durant has set 29 school records in just two seasons. Durant needs just three touchdown passes to pass Chris Keldorf's school record of 35.

Chris Keldorf earned first-team All-ACC honors in 1996, leading the Tar Heels to a 10-2 season and passing for a single-season record 23 touchdown passes.

A quarterback has been named MVP of each of Carolina's last four bowl games.

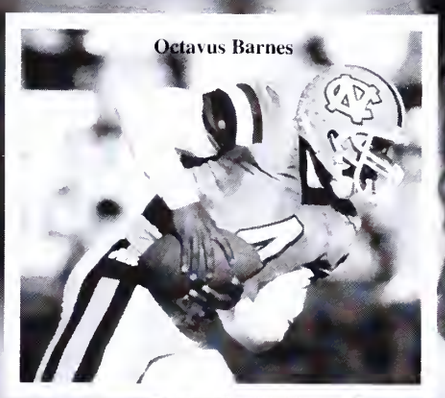
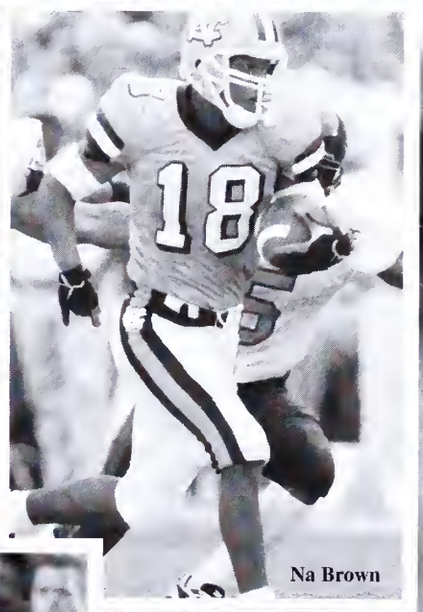
WIDE RECEIVERS

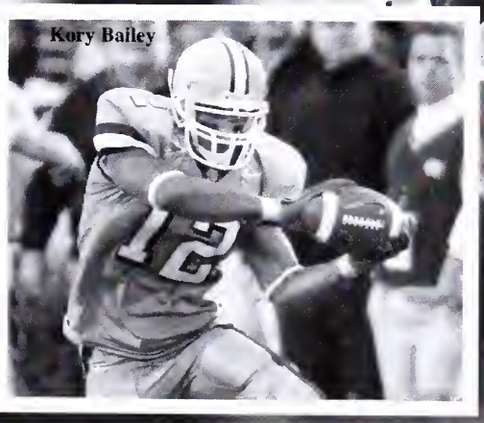
Sam Aiken



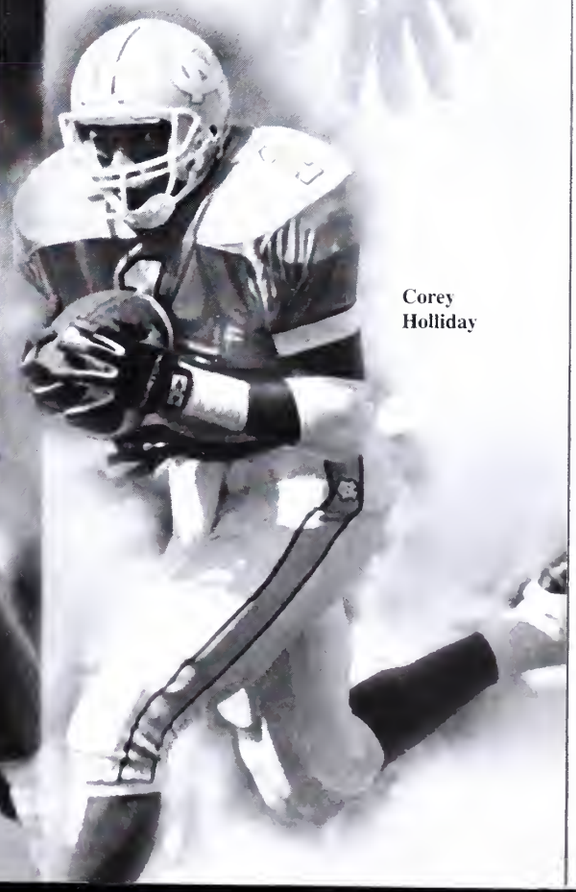
Octavus Barnes



Na Brown



Kory Bailey



Corey Holliday

The Tar Heels' record-setting passing offense has produced several outstanding wide receivers in recent years, including Sam Aiken, Kory Bailey, Na Brown, L.C. Stevens, Octavus Barnes and Corey Holliday.

In 2002, wide receiver Sam Aiken set single-season school records for receptions and receiving yards. Aiken was selected by the Buffalo Bills in the 2003 NFL Draft.

The top seven wide receivers in Carolina history all played in the last 10 years.

Na Brown caught 55 passes in both 1997 and 1998. Brown played four seasons with the Philadelphia Eagles.

In 2002, wide receiver Chesley Borders caught a school-record four touchdown passes in Carolina's 38-35 win at Arizona State.

Corey Holliday caught a pass in a school-record 45 consecutive games from 1989-93. Holliday played for Pittsburgh in Super Bowl XXX against the Dallas Cowboys and had two receptions. Holliday now works for the UNC football program as an assistant athletic director.

TIGHT ENDS

Carolina has produced an All-ACC tight end in six of the last nine seasons.

Alge Crumpler earned All-ACC honors three times in his career. He was a first-team all-conference selection in 1999 and 2000 and was a second-team pick in 1997. In 2000, he was a finalist for the John Mackey Award, which is presented to the nation's top tight end. Crumpler was selected in the second round of the 2001 NFL Draft by the Atlanta Falcons.

Freddie Jones was twice named first-team All-ACC in 1995 and 1996. A seven-year NFL veteran, Jones plays for the Arizona Cardinals.

Greg DeLong earned first-team All-ACC honors in 1994 and played five years in the NFL for Minnesota and Baltimore.

Current tight end Bobby Blizzard had an outstanding season in 2002, earning honorable-mention All-ACC honors. He had 100 yards receiving against FSU, becoming the first Tar Heel tight end to have at least 100 yards receiving in a game since Mike Chatham in 1979. Blizzard caught a team-high five touchdown passes. He is a 2003 candidate for the John Mackey Award as the nation's top tight end.

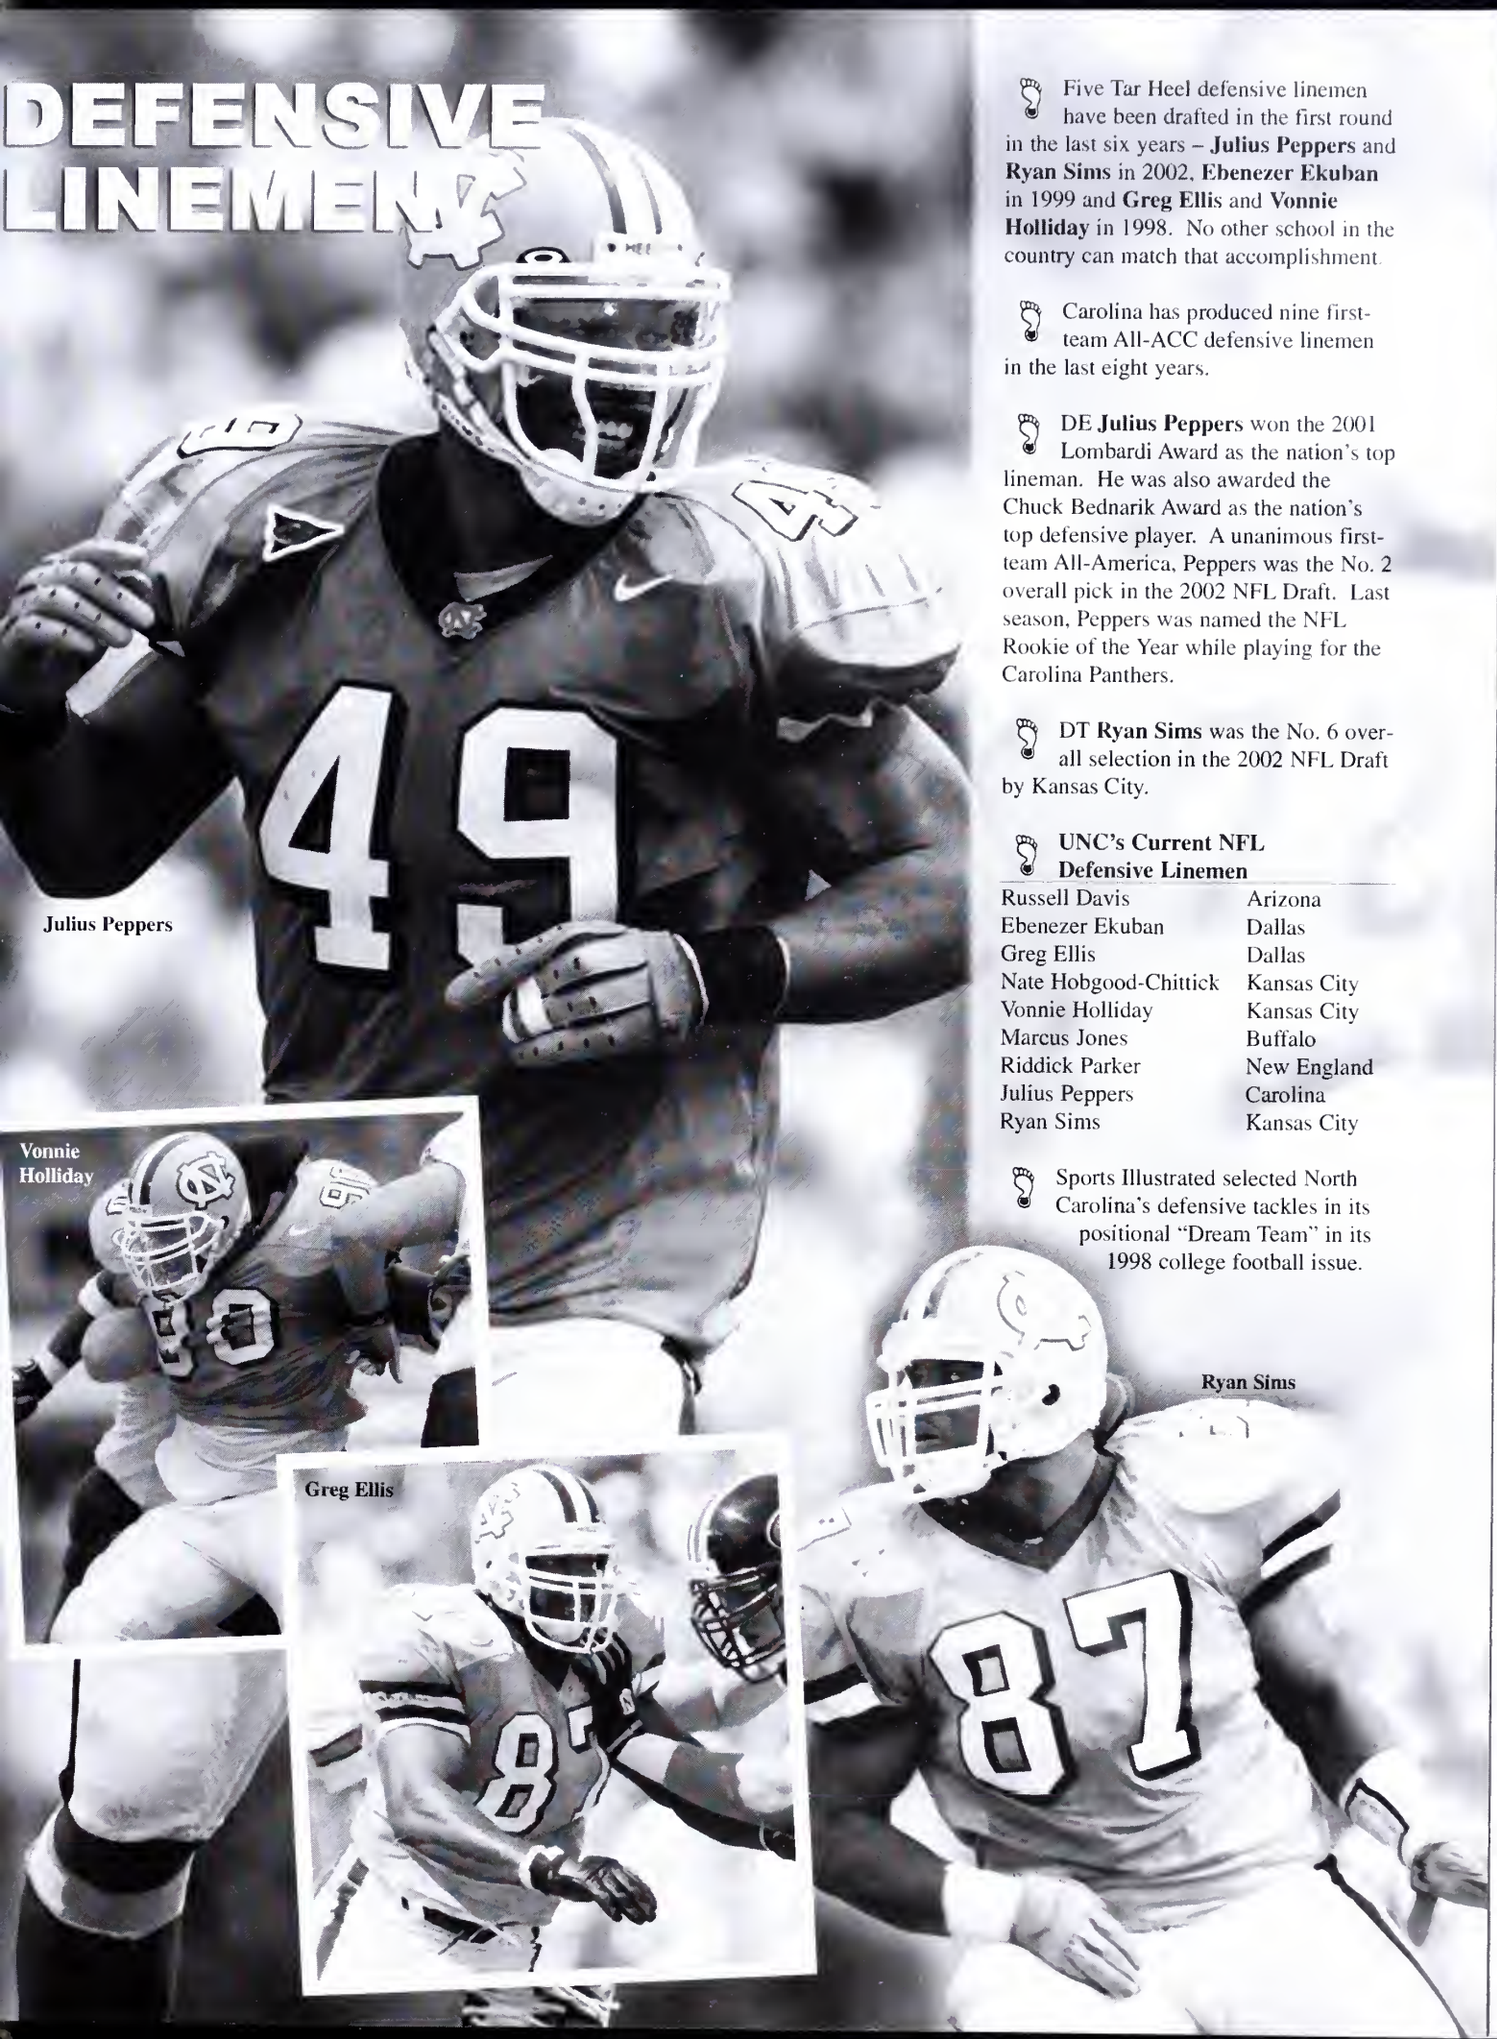
DEFENSIVE LINEMEN

Julius Peppers

Vonnie Holliday

Greg Ellis



Ryan Sims

Five Tar Heel defensive linemen have been drafted in the first round in the last six years – Julius Peppers and Ryan Sims in 2002, Ebenezer Ekuban in 1999 and Greg Ellis and Vonnie Holliday in 1998. No other school in the country can match that accomplishment.

Carolina has produced nine first-team All-ACC defensive linemen in the last eight years.

DE Julius Peppers won the 2001 Lombardi Award as the nation's top lineman. He was also awarded the Chuck Bednarik Award as the nation's top defensive player. A unanimous first-team All-America, Peppers was the No. 2 overall pick in the 2002 NFL Draft. Last season, Peppers was named the NFL Rookie of the Year while playing for the Carolina Panthers.

DT Ryan Sims was the No. 6 overall selection in the 2002 NFL Draft by Kansas City.

Sports Illustrated selected North Carolina's defensive tackles in its positional "Dream Team" in its 1998 college football issue.

LINEBACKERS

Carolina has had at least one All-ACC linebacker in 11 of the last 14 years, including David Thornton in 2001.

Twenty-two different Carolina linebackers have been selected All-ACC in the last 34 seasons.

Brian Simmons was a consensus first-team All-America in 1997 and was a first-round draft pick of the Cincinnati Bengals in the 1998 NFL Draft.

David Thornton came to Carolina as a walk-on in 1998. He earned a starting spot as a senior and earned All-ACC honors in 2001. The Indianapolis Colts made him a fourth-round pick in 2002 and last season, he was the Colts' starting nickel linebacker as a rookie.

Considered the greatest defensive player in NFL history, outside linebacker Lawrence Taylor earned consensus first-team All-America honors in 1980. A member of the Pro Football Hall of Fame, Taylor played 13 seasons with the New York Giants.

DEFENSIVE BACKS

Carolina has produced at least one All-ACC defensive back in five of the last seven seasons, including current safety Dexter Reid, a first-team selection last season, and cornerback Michael Waddell, a second-team pick in 2001.

Cornerback Dre' Bly is the only ACC player to earn first-team All-America honors in three seasons (1996-98). The ACC Rookie of the Year in 1996, Bly became the first freshman in league history to earn consensus first-team All-America honors. Named one of the ACC's Top 50 players, Bly holds the league's career record for interceptions with 20. He was drafted by the St. Louis Rams in 1999 and now plays for the Detroit Lions.

Current free safety Dexter Reid earned first-team All-ACC honors in 2002. Reid led the ACC and finished second in the nation in tackles with 13.8 per game. He should contend for All-America honors in 2003.

Safety Bracey Walker blocked two punts, returning one of them for a touchdown in Carolina's 1993 Peach Bowl victory over Mississippi State. Walker earned All-America honors in 1994 and is a 10-year NFL veteran currently playing for Detroit.

SPECIALISTS

Jeff Reed came to Carolina as a walk-on in 1998 and became the Tar Heels' starting kicker in his last two seasons. Reed earned all-conference honors in 2000 and signed a free agent contract with the Pittsburgh Steelers in 2002. Reed tied a franchise record by booting six field goals in a win over Jacksonville and enters the season as the Steelers' No. 1 place-kicker.

Brian Schmitz earned first-team All-America honors and set an ACC record by averaging 47.7 yards per punt in 1999.

Current place-kicker Dan Orner tied an NCAA record last season when he booted three field goals of at least 50 yards (52, 51, 55 yards) in a single game. The 55-yarder broke Kenny Miller's school-record 54-yarder in 1985. In the season finale against Duke, Orner kicked a game-winning 47-yard field goal as time expired to beat the Blue Devils, 23-21, in Durham.

Leon Johnson earned first-team All-ACC honors as a specialist in 1996. Johnson, who played tailback and returned kicks, holds the ACC career record for all-purpose yardage.

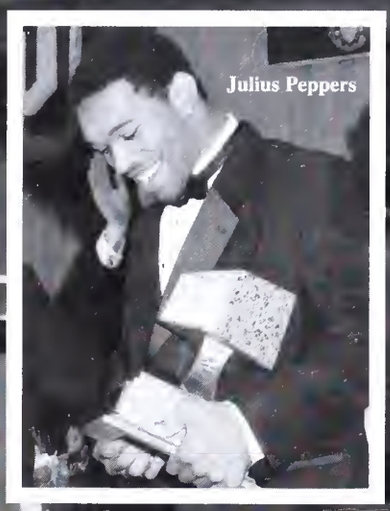
ATHLETIC HERITAGE



Julius Peppers

Michael Jordan

Davis Love III

- Carolina has had seven first-team All-Americas in football in the last eight years, including 2001 selection Julius Peppers.

- In 2003, the Carolina athletic department was ranked the best in the ACC and No. 5 in the country by Sports Illustrated.

- Carolina athletes in all sports have gone on to have outstanding professional careers, including Julius Peppers in football, Mia Hamm in soccer, Marion Jones in track, Michael Jordan in basketball and Davis Love III in golf, among others.

- Carolina leads all ACC schools with 31 NCAA titles. Carolina has won 17 national championships in women's soccer, four in men's basketball, four in field hockey, four in men's lacrosse and one each in men's soccer and women's basketball.

- Carolina finished eighth in the NACDA Directors' Cup (all sports competition) in 2003. The seventh-place finish marks the eighth time in 10 years the Tar Heels have placed in the Top 10 in the country. This is also the ninth time in 10 years UNC is the highest-finishing school in the ACC.

- Carolina has led or shared the lead in ACC team titles in 15 of the last 16 years.

- Carolina and Maryland are the only two ACC programs with at least 100 men's championships. However, in the last 12 years, Carolina has won 32 ACC men's titles and Maryland has won just four.

- Carolina has won more ACC men's championships than six other conference schools have won combined.

- The Tar Heels have won 230 team titles in ACC history, dating back to 1953-54. No other school in the ACC has won 200 titles and only three other schools have as many as 100 league crowns.

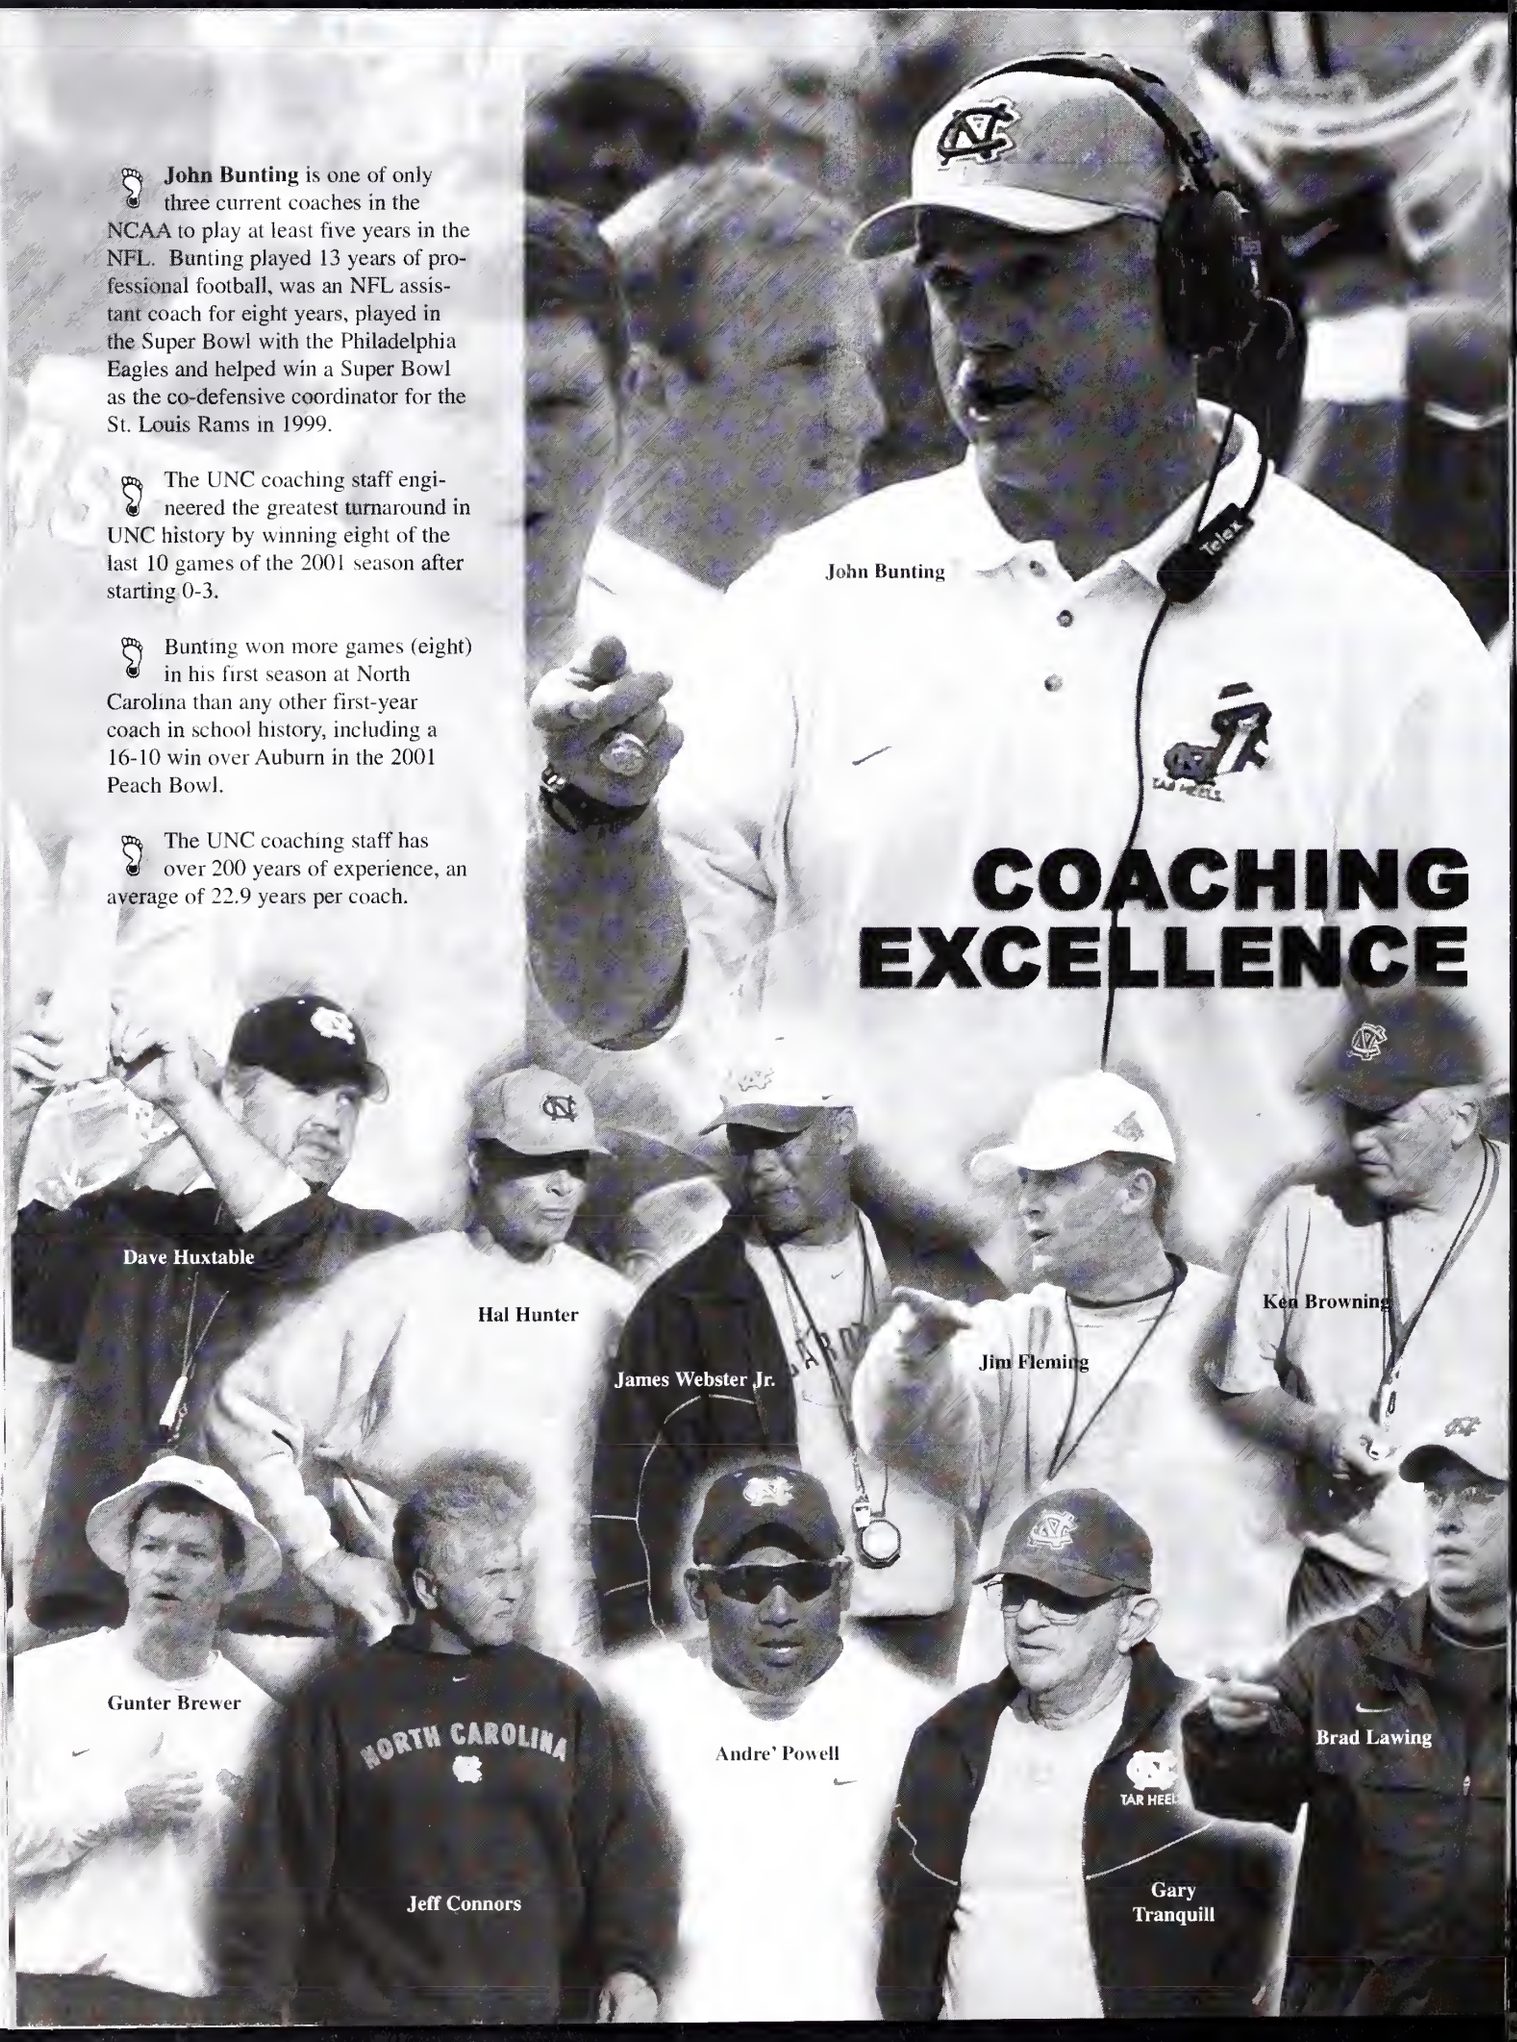
COACHING EXCELLENCE

John Bunting is one of only three current coaches in the NCAA to play at least five years in the NFL. Bunting played 13 years of professional football, was an NFL assistant coach for eight years, played in the Super Bowl with the Philadelphia Eagles and helped win a Super Bowl as the co-defensive coordinator for the St. Louis Rams in 1999.

The UNC coaching staff engineered the greatest turnaround in UNC history by winning eight of the last 10 games of the 2001 season after starting 0-3.

Bunting won more games (eight) in his first season at North Carolina than any other first-year coach in school history, including a 16-10 win over Auburn in the 2001 Peach Bowl.

The UNC coaching staff has over 200 years of experience, an average of 22.9 years per coach.



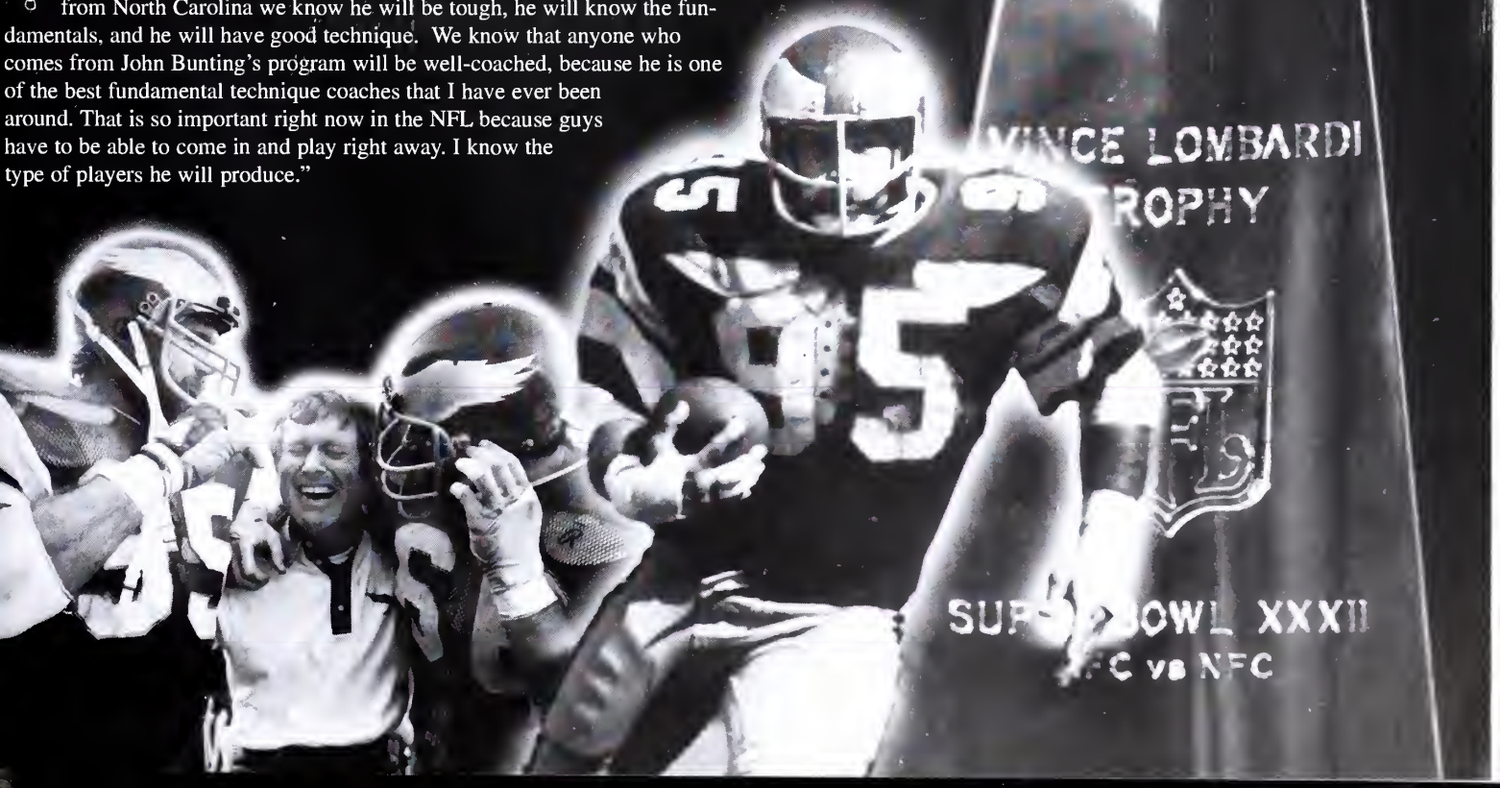
New Orleans Head Coach Jim Haslett and John Bunting

Kansas City Chiefs Head Coach Dick Vermeil and John Bunting

JOHN BUNTING'S NFL CONNECTION

North Carolina head coach John Bunting played 11 seasons with the Philadelphia Eagles from 1972-82. Despite being selected in the 10th round of the NFL Draft, Bunting started at middle linebacker in 119 of 133 career games. He helped lead Philadelphia to to the 1981 NFC Championship and an appearance in Super Bowl XV against the Oakland Raiders. Bunting played with NFL notables Ron Jawarski, Harold Carmichael, Wilbert Montgomery, Bill Bergey, Jerry Sisemore and Carl Hairston. After his playing career ended, Bunting coached eight years as an NFL assistant coach – four with Kansas City, three with St. Louis and one with New Orleans. In 1999 he won a Super Bowl title with the Rams as the co-defensive coordinator. Bunting's impact on the NFL can still be felt. In the 2002 NFL Draft, Carolina had seven players selected, including two of the top six selections.

Says Green Bay Packers' Vice President Mark Hatley, "If we get a player from North Carolina we know he will be tough, he will know the fundamentals, and he will have good technique. We know that anyone who comes from John Bunting's program will be well-coached, because he is one of the best fundamental technique coaches that I have ever been around. That is so important right now in the NFL because guys have to be able to come in and play right away. I know the type of players he will produce."



Carolina won its fifth consecutive bowl game with a 16-10 victory in the 2001 Chick-fil-A Peach Bowl. The Tar Heels are the only team in the country to win their last five bowl games. Carolina won the 1995 Carquest Bowl (20-10 vs. Arkansas), the 1997 Gator Bowl (20-13 vs. West Virginia), the 1998 Gator Bowl (42-3 vs. Virginia Tech), the 1998 Las Vegas Bowl (20-13 vs. San Diego State) and the 2001 Chick-fil-A Peach Bowl (16-10 vs. Auburn).

Carolina has appeared in a postseason bowl game in eight of the last 11 seasons.

Carolina has 12 bowl victories. The Tar Heels are 12-12 all-time in bowl competition. The Tar Heels 12 bowl victories rank fourth in the ACC behind Georgia Tech (19), Florida State (17) and Clemson (13).

Over the last 12 years, the ACC has the third-best bowl record of any Division I-A conference.

North Carolina quarterback Ronald Curry played in two bowl games during his career and was named MVP in each of those games. Curry capped his amazing career with offensive MVP honors in the 2001 Peach Bowl. As a freshman, he earned MVP honors after his performance in UNC's 20-13 win over San Diego State in the 1998 Las Vegas Bowl.

Curry is one of three Tar Heels to win two bowl MVP awards along with tailback Ethan Horton (1981 Gator, 1982 Sun) and quarterback Matt Kupec (1977 Liberty, 1979 Gator).

John Bunting is just the second coach in Carolina history to lead the Tar Heels to a bowl game as a first-year head coach.

NFL PIPELINE

Carolina ranked tied for eighth among all schools with 30 players on 2002 NFL rosters.

In 2002, Carolina placed two Tar Heels in the top six of the NFL Draft for the first time in school history. Carolina and FSU are the only two ACC schools to ever have two players drafted in the first six picks.

Carolina has had at least one player on a Super Bowl team in each of the last 17 seasons. Last season, Randy Jordan and Ronald Curry were members of the Oakland Raiders in Super Bowl XXXVII. Jordan served as one of the Raiders' team captains.

Former UNC defensive end Julius Peppers won the NFL Defensive Rookie of the Year award last season as a member of the Carolina Panthers.

"John Bunting understands what it takes to play in the NFL. He's been there and he played a long time. He can give advice to these young guys on their work ethic and what it takes to play in the National Football League – not just athletic ability-wise, but also off the field and on the field."

– Jim Haslett
New Orleans Saints Head Coach

"I have a lot of respect for John Bunting. I really favor his opinion of what players can do in this league. When it all came down to it, we felt he (Peppers) was the guy that had the best opportunity to become something special."

Picturesque Kenan Stadium has been the home of the Tar Heels since 1927.

Carolina installed a state-of-the-art video scoreboard in the offseason. The scoreboard promises to bring even more excitement to Kenan Stadium in 2003.

ESPN football analyst Mel Kiper ranked Kenan Stadium as one of the 10 most scenic venues in the country. Said Kiper, "With all the pine trees surrounding Kenan Stadium, this is a picture postcard setting any time of the year."

A new playing field was installed at Kenan Stadium prior to the 2003 season. The Tif Sport bermuda grass is the one of the leading field surfaces in the country.

As originally built, Kenan Stadium seated 24,000. In 1963, an upper deck was added to the permanent stands increasing capacity to 48,000. That was expanded to 50,000 in 1979, 52,000 in 1988, 57,500 in 1997 and 60,000 in 1998.

An overflow crowd of 62,000 packed Kenan Stadium in 1997 for the Tar Heels game against Florida State. Carolina and Florida State entered the game ranked in the top five in the country.

"Kenan Stadium brings back so many memories. So many players have given so much of themselves on that field. I had some great times as a player in Kenan Stadium. As head coach I want to help produce many more memories for our fans. In my opinion, it is the best place to experience college football."

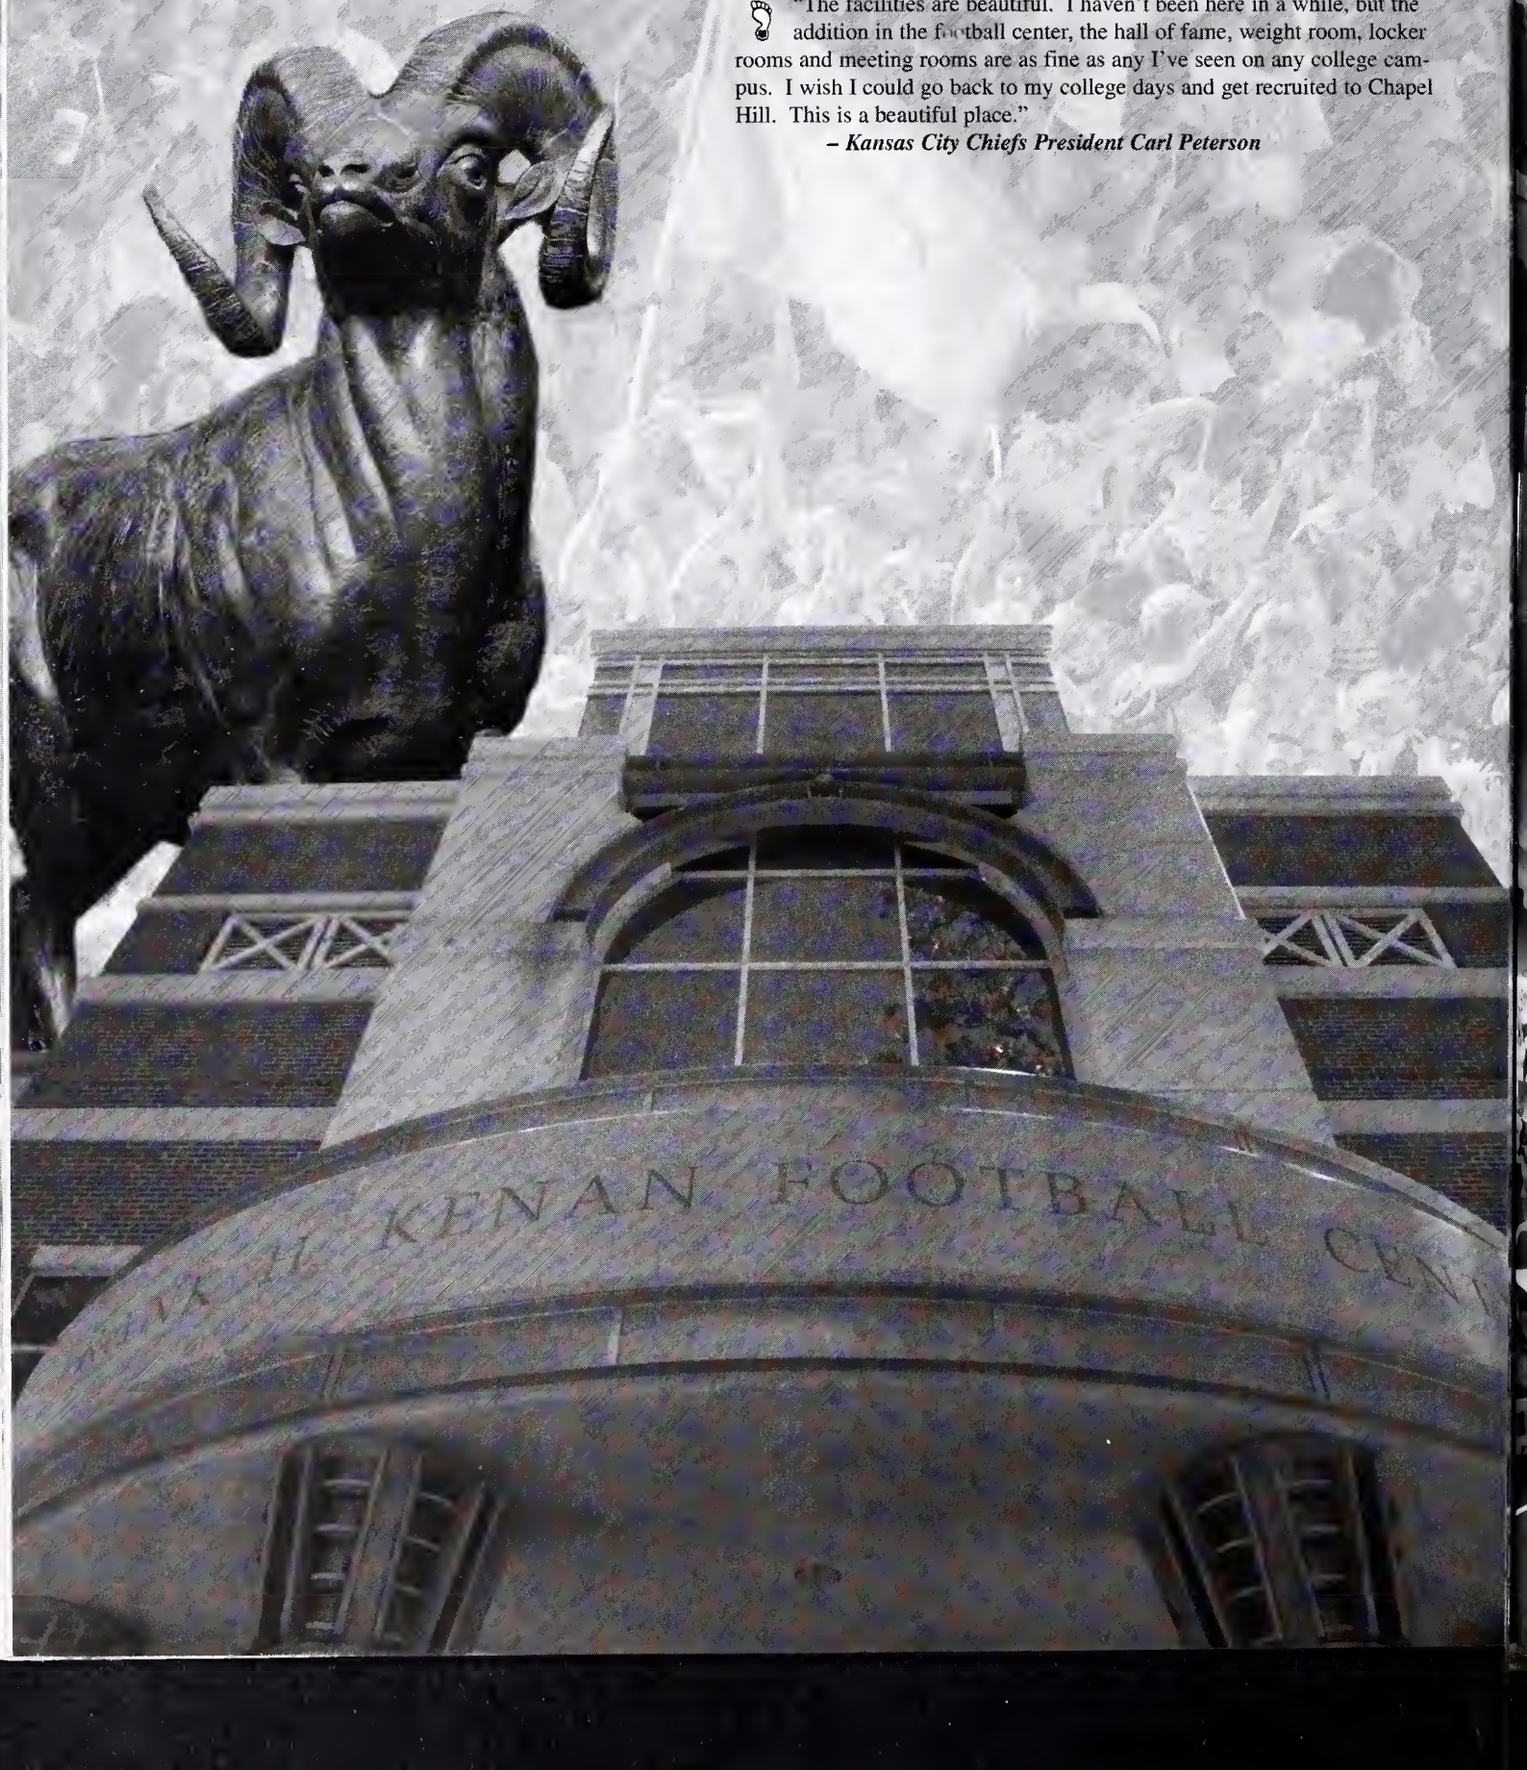
KENAN FOOTBALL CENTER

"We are in an era when football facilities represent how committed a program is to being one of the best. At North Carolina, I expect the Smith Center to be one of the best for basketball – and it is. What surprised me was how outstanding the new football facility is. They certainly have a top-notch facility. When I walked away from Chapel Hill, I was totally impressed. Now I judge every facility against Carolina's because they have the best in the country."

– ESPN's Kirk Herbstreit

"The facilities are beautiful. I haven't been here in a while, but the addition in the football center, the hall of fame, weight room, locker rooms and meeting rooms are as fine as any I've seen on any college campus. I wish I could go back to my college days and get recruited to Chapel Hill. This is a beautiful place."

– Kansas City Chiefs President Carl Peterson



The $50 million Kenan Football Center was completed in 1997 and is considered the best football facility in the nation. The football center houses the UNC football weight room, locker room, training room, equipment room, meeting rooms, players' lounge and coaches' offices. On the first floor of the Football Center is the Charlie Justice Hall of Honor, including memorabilia from over 100 years of Carolina football and a 30-seat theatre. As part of the renovation, Kenan Stadium added 8,000 seats and now has a capacity of 60,000.

ACADEMIC EXCELLENCE

The Academic Support Program assists student-athletes in exploring their interests and abilities, enjoying a broad educational experience, and reaching or exceeding their academic goals.

Located primarily in the Pope Academic Support Center, the program opened its doors in 1986. It is equipped with study facilities, a foreign language lab, tutorial rooms, a computer lab, a 128-seat auditorium, counselors' offices, and state-of-the-art video and computer equipment. At the center, students meet with staff to discuss course selection, major and career exploration, academic progress and academic eligibility.

The Academic Support Program serves approximately 750 student-athletes. The Academic Support Center is open from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. during the week and from 7:30 p.m. to 10 p.m. on Sundays. Visitors are welcome to tour the facility during afternoon hours.

The Academic Support Program helps freshmen make the transition from high school to college. In addition to attending study hall for two hours each weeknight, freshmen participate in several valuable programs. ACT (Athletes Coming Together) is a student-athlete mentoring program in which freshmen receive guidance from older athletes. FASP (Freshman Academic Success Program) teaches freshmen skills like time-management utilizing resources throughout the campus.

The graduation rate for all NFL players is approximately 30 percent. Carolina's NFL players have a graduation rate of approximately 70 percent.

Linebacker Doug Justice and offensive guard Jeb Terry were members of the 2002 Academic All-ACC team.

Defensive ends Ebenezer Ekuban and Mike Pringley both earned Academic All-ACC recognition. Pringley was an Academic All-ACC selection in 1997 and Ekuban was the Jim Tatum Award (top senior student-athlete in the ACC) winner in 1998. Both went on the play in the NFL.

All-Star Candidate - Bobby Blizzard

- ✔ 2003 All-ACC candidate
- ✔ 2003 John Mackey Award candidate (nation's top tight end)
- ✔ 2002 Honorable-mention All-ACC
- ✔ Ranked the No. 11 tight end in the country by The Sporting News

By Adam Lucas, Tar Heel Monthly

Bobby Blizzard, a tight end who tied for the team lead with five touchdown catches last year, has the skills to be one of the country's top tight ends this season. However, since his arrival in Chapel Hill, Blizzard has had to deal with constant questions about his physical condition.

One of two Tar Heel transfers from the University of Kentucky (tailback Chad Scott is the other), Blizzard left Lexington weighing 244 pounds. But after a summer of inactivity and some serious eating, he had ballooned to 280 pounds by the time he reported to Carolina in the fall of 2001.

"I came in here so out of shape," Blizzard said. "Coach Connors and his staff got me into condition and I started to get my weight down. When Chad called me to ask about Carolina, the first thing I told him was that he better be ready to work."

That led to some tongue-dragging workouts for Blizzard, a native of Hampton, Virginia and a former teammate of Ronald Curry. He trimmed down enough to play a substantial role in 2002, earning honorable-mention All-ACC honors after catching 28 passes while splitting the tight end snaps with Zach Hilton.

The now-departed Hilton had the advantage of a full career in the Tar Heel system, while Blizzard was frequently used as a wide receiver by the Wildcats. John Bunting wanted to use him strictly as a traditional tight end, forcing him to get readjusted to playing on the line of scrimmage instead of split out wide.

Despite a somewhat new position, Blizzard still seemed to consistently find defensive seams last year. His 15.7 yards/catch average was the highest on the team.

He had plenty of success, but the memory of last year that's continually brought up to him isn't quite as pleasant. Against Georgia Tech, Carolina trailed by one at halftime. On the first drive of the second half, quarterback Darian Durant found Blizzard over the middle. The rising junior fought off several tacklers and appeared headed for a 61-yard touchdown, but a Tech defender stripped him of the ball at the Yellow Jacket two-yard line and Tech recovered. The Jackets then put together an eight-minute touchdown drive that essentially sealed their 31-23 victory.

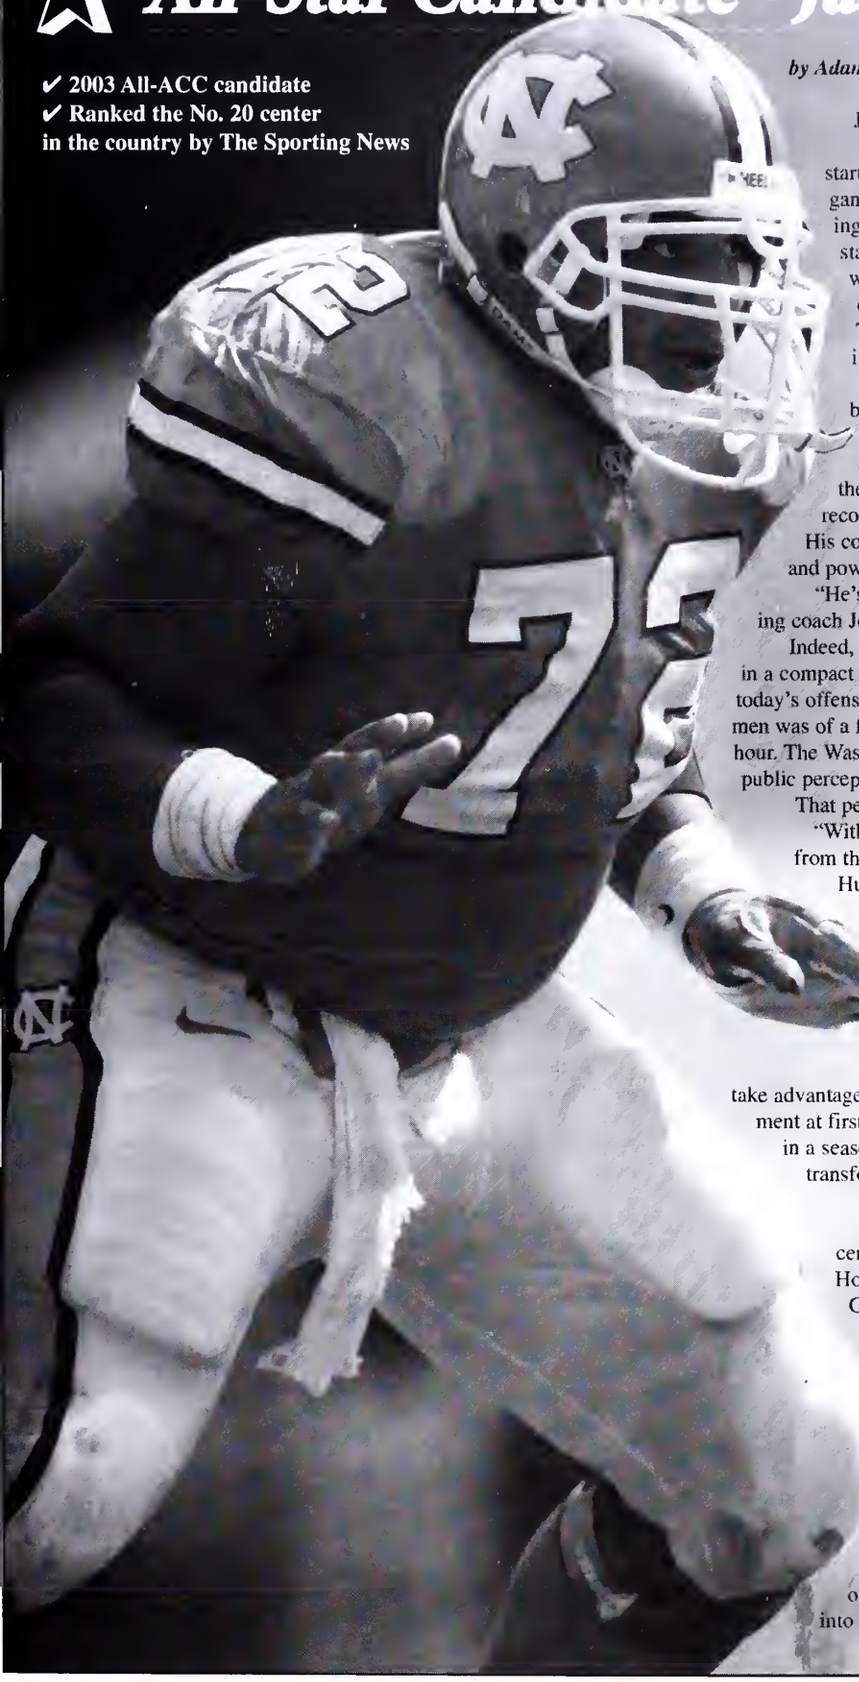
"I never had anything like that happen to me before," the affable Blizzard said after the game, clearly upset.

He's relived the moment several times since then, not just in the film room but at home. He even watched the television version of the replay at his mother's house. "You know how mothers are," he said. "They save everything."

Blizzard's not likely to make the same mistake again, not with his senior year looming and his last chance to make an impression on college football. He has the hands and versatility to become the third Carolina tight end in four years drafted when the 2004 NFL Draft arrives, and with Sam Aiken and Chesley Borders gone, Blizzard is the primary returning receiving target for his good buddy Durant.

All-Star Candidate - Jason Brown

- ✔ 2003 All-ACC candidate
- ✔ Ranked the No. 20 center in the country by The Sporting News



by Adam Lucas, Tar Heel Monthly

Jason Brown is a good football player.

That simple declarative might seem obvious. Brown started three games as a freshman in 2001, including a pair of games in which Carolina posted back-to-back 200-yard rushing performances. Last season, the junior from Henderson started all 12 games, overcoming some early difficulties with the center snap to put together a solid season that ended with him allowing just two sacks. This summer, The Sporting News ranked him among the top 20 centers in college football.

So why doesn't anyone know Jason Brown as a football player?

Perhaps it's because his weight room performances are so prolific that they frequently make what happens on the gridiron an afterthought. He already owns school records for offensive linemen in the squat and power clean. His combined mark of 1,573 pounds in the squat, bench press, and power clean are a Tar Heel record.

"He's just a beast in the weight room," strength and conditioning coach Jeff Connors said.

Indeed, Brown's impressive feats with the weights have resulted in a compact and powerful 6-foot-3 frame that is the prototype for today's offensive linemen. In the past, the stereotype of offensive linemen was of a fat slug who moved slightly faster than I-40 traffic at rush hour. The Washington Redskins had their "Hogs," and that fueled the public perception.

That perception now is as outdated as leather helmets.

"Within the last seven to nine years teams have gotten away from the fat slug linemen," Carolina offensive line coach Hal Hunter said. "There was a day when the Redskins had the Hogs, and you had those 340 or 350-pound linemen. These days, everyone has gone to more downsized, athletic offensive lines. You want guys who are 290 or 295 pounds and can move and react."

Brown fits that mold perfectly. He spent his first Tar Heel season at tackle, but Hunter shifted him to center in the spring of 2002 to take advantage of his flexibility and athleticism. It wasn't an easy adjustment at first, as center-quarterback snap problems plagued the Heels in a season-opening loss to Miami, but Brown pronounced his transformation complete this spring.

"Playing center is finally coming naturally now," he said.

It's not just Brown's muscles and feet that make him the centerpiece of the o-line—it's also his brain. A National Honor Society member and attendee of the prestigious Governor's School in high school, he's a perfect fit for the center position, where he is responsible for making all the line calls, which involves making split-second recognitions of defenses and decisions on blocking assignments.

That's the type of physical and mental package that makes coaches reach for the loftiest descriptions they can find.

"He has the potential to be one of the best centers ever to play at North Carolina," Hunter said.

And then, perhaps, Jason Brown will finally move out of the shadow of his weight room achievements and into the spotlight on the football field.

#72 Jason Brown

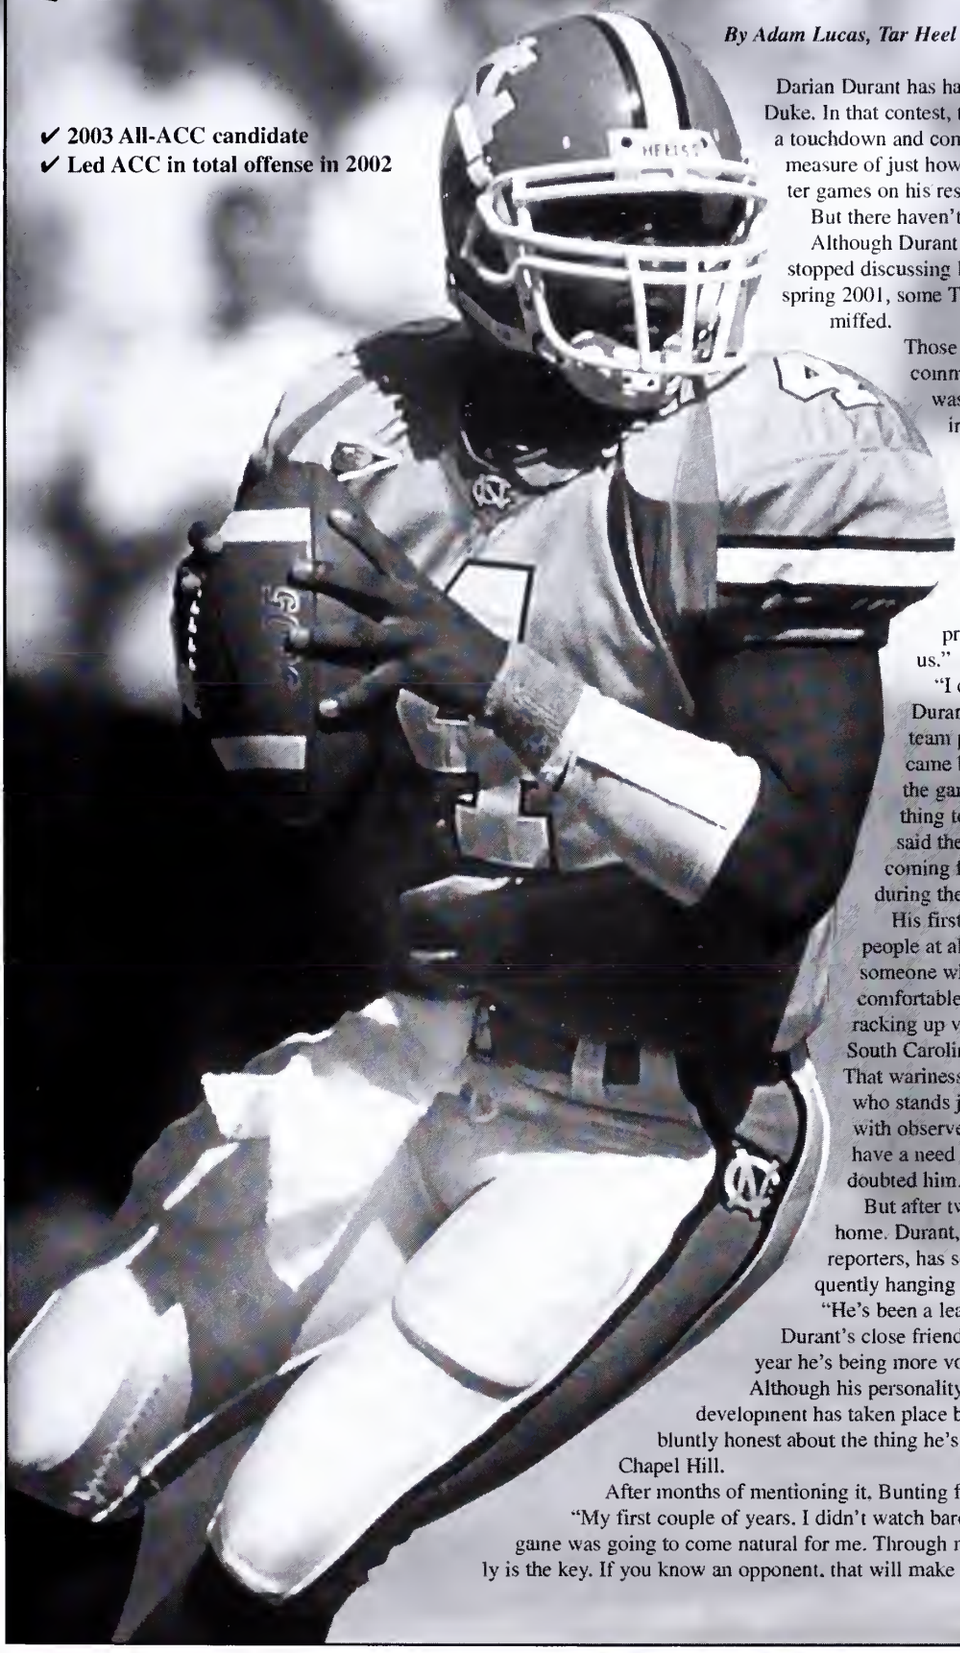
☆ All-Star Candidate - Darian Durant



- ✔ 2003 All-ACC candidate
- ✔ Led ACC in total offense in 2002

By Adam Lucas, Tar Heel Monthly

Darian Durant has had better games than last year's 23-21 win over Duke. In that contest, the sophomore quarterback ran and threw for a touchdown and completed 21 of 35 passes for 262 yards. It's a measure of just how prolific he has been that there are many better games on his resume than that victory over the Blue Devils.

But there haven't been any bigger games.

Although Durant and head coach John Bunting had long since stopped discussing Durant's brief hiatus from the football team in spring 2001, some Tar Heel teammates and fans remained a little miffed.

Those feelings were washed away when Durant committed himself to making it back from what was supposed to be a season-ending thumb injury. The game against Duke didn't clinch a bowl bid and it didn't earn the Heels a spot in the top 25. All things considered, that might have made his decision to play even more impressive.

"He didn't have to do that," offensive lineman Jeb Terry said. "He could have worried about his thumb or worried about his pro career. But he came back and played for us."

"I did it, first of all, because I'm a competitor," Durant said. "And second because I'm the ultimate team player. The guys were down, and I felt like if I came back that would be a big spark for us. After the game, a lot of guys who really didn't say anything to me during the season came up to me and said they appreciated what I did. I appreciated that coming from people I might not have talked to much during the year."

His first couple of years, Durant didn't talk to many people at all. His father, Israel, describes his son as someone who takes a considerable amount of time to feel comfortable in a new situation, and even though he was racking up video game-type numbers on the field, the South Carolina native wasn't entirely happy in Chapel Hill. That wariness has always seemed built into a quarterback who stands just 5-foot-11 and has constantly had to deal with observers underrating him. At times, he's seemed to have a need to prove himself even to those who never doubted him.

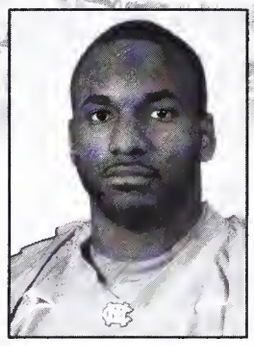
But after two record-setting seasons, Durant has found a home. Durant, a man who was occasionally reticent with reporters, has sometimes sought them out after practices, frequently hanging around the media area with his teammates.

"He's been a leader," said tight end Bobby Blizzard, one of Durant's close friends. "He's always been that on the field, but this year he's being more vocal about it."

Although his personality evolution is obvious, some of his other development has taken place behind the scenes. Ask him, and Durant is bluntly honest about the thing he's learned the most about since arriving in Chapel Hill.

After months of mentioning it, Bunting finally has a convert in the film room.

"My first couple of years, I didn't watch barely any film," he said. "I just thought the game was going to come natural for me. Through my time here, I've learned that film study really is the key. If you know an opponent, that will make it easier for you on the field."



#4 DARIAN DURANT

Offseason Conditioning Brings Praise

TB • Jacque Lewis

Jeffrey Camarati

by Adam Lucas, Tar Heel Monthly

Sorting out the candidates competing for Carolina's starting tailback spot can be a little complicated.

You've got one senior, Willie Parker. You've got a pair of transfers, Chad Scott and Rikki Cook, although Cook is likely to play more of a hybrid fullback position. You've got a true freshman, Ronnie McGill, who is in his first semester of college. And then you've got one Dog Soldier.

That's the title that was bestowed upon rising junior Jacque Lewis after offseason conditioning drills. Last year's leading rusher with 574 yards on 130 carries, Lewis spent last fall fending off those who thought he was not durable enough to be an every-down back.

In order to help his durability, Lewis threw himself into offseason conditioning. After all the winter tests were conducted, the Elizabeth City native boasted the best combined increases in three lifts (bench press, squat, power clean) of any player on the team, having improved his results by 232 pounds, easily outdistancing the player with the second-best improvement (Drew Hunter, who saw a combined increase of 147 pounds).

For his commitment, Lewis was awarded Carolina's Dog Soldier Award. Strength and conditioning coach Jeff Connors created that honor after reading about the Cheyenne Indian Dog Soldiers, who were the bravest warriors in their tribe.

"That's the kind of attitude we're trying to reward," Connors said. "We want that never-say-die, aggressive attitude."

Lewis is in good company. A past winner of the award is Dexter Reid, whose attitude towards football has been consistently praised by the coaching staff.

After playing last season at around 180 pounds, Lewis enters fall practice at 197. He's listed first on the tailback depth chart and had a consistent spring, including continuing to demonstrate the kind of pass-catching ability out of the backfield that should make him a versatile offensive weapon.

For now, though, he's not worried about catching passes-he just wants to run the football. After an offseason of significant improvement and commitment in the weight room, Connors expects solid production from Lewis.

"He was on a mission to improve," Connors said. "He showed up every day, he worked as hard as he could possibly work, and he had a lot of enthusiasm. He served as a great example for our younger players. With the competition at running back, he is the type of guy who is going to be very competitive because he wants to be the starter. One of the things he's aware of is that he needs to become more durable, and that's a reason why he worked as hard as he did."

By Adam Lucas, Tar Heel Monthly

You would have liked old Dexter. Almost everyone did. Old Dexter was a blast to be around, the life of the party at all hours.

So if old Dexter was so much fun, why is new Dexter—rising senior All-American candidate Dexter Reid—talking about him in the past tense?

Maturation. It's the only part of the package the hard-hitting safety didn't possess in his first couple of years in Chapel Hill. He had the physical skills, like a blistering 40-yard dash time and a pain-inducing ability to tackle. But since John Bunting's arrival at Carolina after the 2000 season, New Dexter has sent Old Dexter packing.

"Dexter Reid three years ago didn't really care about anything," Reid says. "My whole mindset was apathetic to others, and sometimes to authority. Dexter Reid today is a lot more mature and understands you have to think about your actions.

"For the old Dexter, the intensity from the football field carried over off the field. That was my mentality all the time. The new Dexter found a way to separate the two."

The maturity is evident in his self-assessment—it's not the kind of unflinching insight most 22-year-olds are capable of delivering. And don't take him the wrong way. Old Dexter was still a talented football player, one who played in every game as a freshman and finished the year fifth on the team in tackles.

But the Dexter Reid of those days was unpredictable off the field. The mention of his name would elicit an exasperated sigh, not a smile, from his head coach.

So a better way to measure his progress, both as a player and as a person, isn't by his statistics, even though he led the Tar Heels in tackles last year with 166 stops. That figure, when averaged out to 13.8 tackles over Carolina's 12 games, was good enough for second in the country.

But it was something that happened after the season that showed how far he had come. When John Bunting hosted recruits in Chapel Hill for weekend visits, he usually entrusted them to one player—Dexter Reid.

"Dexter Reid has grown emotionally and mentally in a way any mother or father or head coach would marvel at," Bunting says. "It's a result of the guy having the heart of a lion. His willingness to give of himself on the football field has now transferred off the field. Very soon after meeting Dexter Reid it became apparent to me that he had something special to give. I think he's going to be a great citizen and a great leader, both on this football team and when he leaves Carolina."

Everyone knew old Dexter had the chance to be a great football player. But a great citizen or great leader? That's all new Dexter.

"It wasn't something that happened overnight," Reid says. "You have to think about whether you want to be a clown and cut up and do the wrong things, or you want to do what's right and represent your mother. You have to think about what you love."

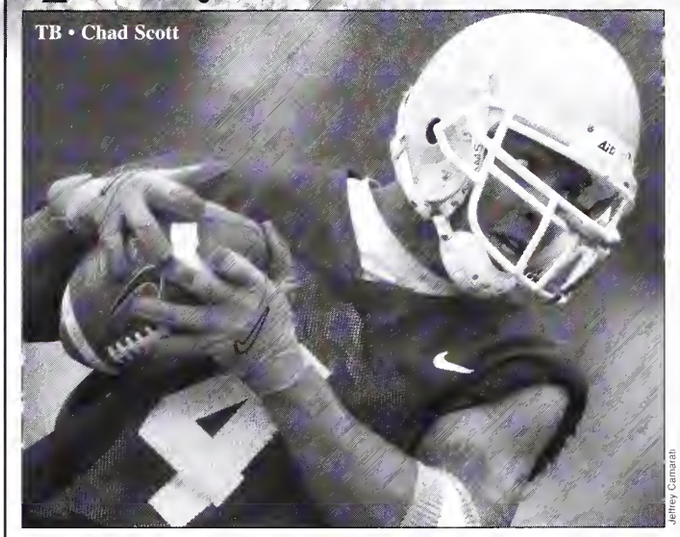
Speedy Chad Scott



TB • Chad Scott

Jeffrey Camarati

By Adam Lucas, Tar Heel Monthly

Tailback is a crowded position for Carolina football this fall, and trying to get some information on the mystery man at that position, Chad Scott, isn't easy. A transfer from Kentucky who arrived in spring 2001 and sat out the 2002 season due to NCAA transfer guidelines, Scott isn't as well-known to Carolina football fans as some of the other competitors – Willie Parker, Jacque Lewis, plus true freshman Ronnie McGill – at that position.

So let's go straight to the man who spends plenty of time in the backfield with Scott. Darian Durant, how do you describe Chad Scott?

"Speed," the Tar Heel quarterback says with a big smile. "The guy has tremendous speed and tremendous vision. The coaches have been yelling for the backs to cut back, and Chad seems to see that as soon as he gets the ball. He's fast, and you can't teach speed."

The man himself is a little more modest. "I'm a slasher," Scott said. "I can cut at full speed, and I'm able to go east and west and put my foot down and head north and south."

Scott turned in a 4.35 in the 40-yard dash in offseason conditioning drills, bested only by Jarwarski Pollock's 4.32 among offensive players. But it's that cutback ability that most excites the Carolina coaches, as John Bunting has been in search of a do-it-all tailback to carry the rushing load since his arrival in Chapel Hill.

In this case, Kentucky's loss is Carolina's gain. Whereas a freshman who ran for 611 yards in Chapel Hill, as Scott did in Lexington as a rookie, would probably have statues built to him (611 yards would have led the Heels in rushing in any of the past five seasons), the Wildcats wanted to move him to wide receiver, a position he had never played. A nagging ankle injury limited his sophomore contributions, and he left the program before spring practice in 2002.

"I felt I had proved I was a good running back, even playing through some injuries," Scott said. "They wanted me to switch positions, and I wanted to go somewhere the coaches had faith in me to play a position I knew how to play."

After surveying the college football landscape, Scott realized that former UK teammate Bobby Blizzard was now at Carolina. He contacted Blizzard and got a positive report on his experience, and UNC was essentially the only school he considered.

"I liked the pro style offense they ran," Scott said. "Carolina has a lot of coaches who have been to the next level and know what it takes to get there."

Before the next level, though, he has to navigate his way through some intense spring competition for the starting tailback spot. Madison Hedgecock's move back to defense prompted the coaches to try Williams at fullback this week, Parker and Lewis all saw significant carries last year and McGill was extremely impressive before missing a few practices with an ankle injury. Scott began last Saturday's scrimmage with the first-team offense and picked up 28 yards on five carries.

Bunting has been outspoken about his desire to find someone who meets his definition of a "great back"--a runner who picks up at least 1,000 yards in a season.

"That's my goal," Scott said. "If the competition this spring goes well and I'm the guy, it's my goal to be a thousand-yard back."

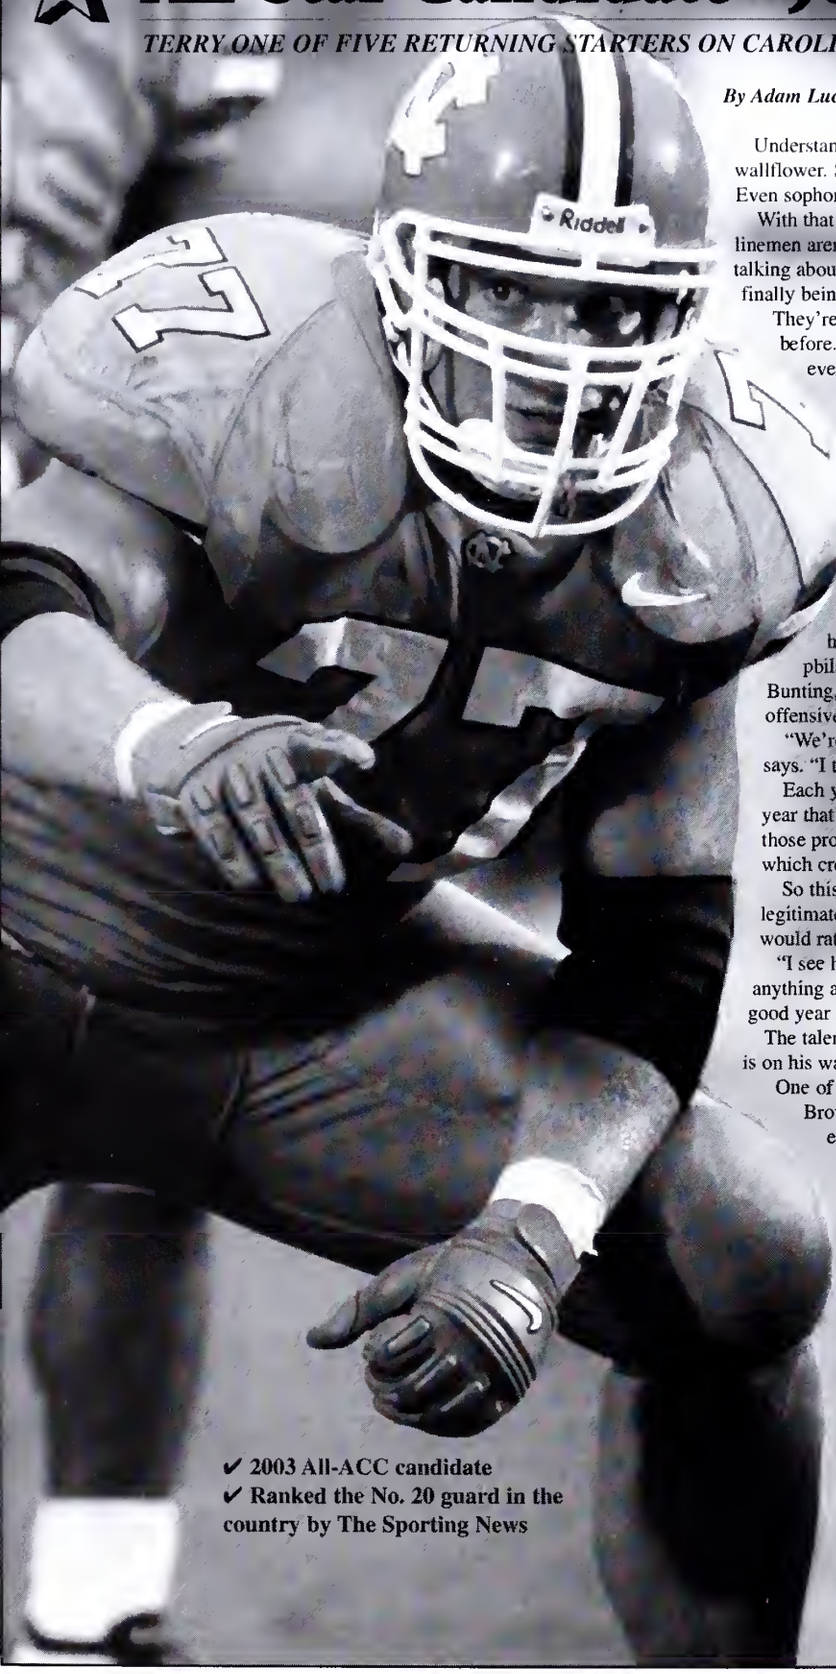
All-Star Candidate - Jeb Terry

TERRY ONE OF FIVE RETURNING STARTERS ON CAROLINA'S IMPROVING OFFENSIVE LINE



✔ 2003 All-ACC candidate
✔ Ranked the No. 20 guard in the country by The Sporting News

By Adam Lucas, Tar Heel Monthly

Understand, first of all, that Jeb Terry loves to talk. Jason Brown is no wallflower. Skip Seagraves is capable of filling up a reporter's notebook. Even sophomore Kyle Ralph knows his way around a quote.

With that knowledge, it's even more surprising that this year's offensive linemen aren't talking about their expectations for this year. They're not talking about this being a breakthrough year for the O-line, or about this finally being a unit that can blow open some holes in the running game.

They're not talking about it because, well, it's been talked about before. In fact, it's been a hot topic of conversation before most every season for the past decade.

After getting manhandled in the early- and mid-1990's, Mack Brown and offensive coordinator Greg Davis eventually decided that their teams could never overpower opponents and would have to rely on a finesse offensive attack. That mentality extended to the offensive line, where the Tar Heels often seemed a step slow, a step late, and a pound light. Another contributing factor is geography. Big Ten and Big Twelve schools stock their lines with corn-fed Midwesterners and steel-bending schoolboys from the Northeast. North Carolina, on the other hand, doesn't have a tradition of turning out bulldozers. That pbilsophy has changed under tbe direction of head coach John Bunting, who wants to build a power running game behind big, tough offensive linemen.

"We're always a question mark until we prove ourselves," Terry says. "I take offense to it, but it's just another kind of motivation."

Each year, it seems, word out of preseason camp is that this is tbe year that the offensive line turns into a dominant force. Each year, those prognostications are vaporized by a torrent of blitzes and stunts, which created 46 sacks by Tar Heel opponents last year.

So this season, with a returning group of offensive linemen that legitimately deserve optimism, it's understandable that those involved would rather just take a low profile.

"I see how good we could be," Terry says. "But I'm not going to say anything about it. I don't want to jinx it. I'll just say I think it could be a good year for the O-line and our running backs."

The talent begins in the middle of the line, where junior Jason Brown is on his way to owning every Carolina weight room record that exists.

One of Hal Hunter's first moves upon arriving at UNC was to shift Brown from tackle to center, where he thrived last year after some early struggles with the center-quarterback exchange. Brown is flanked by Ralph, who played impressively as a true freshman last year, and Terry. Willie McNeill and Skip Seagraves man the tackle slots.

All five players got multiple starts together in 2002, a crucial factor for a group that more than any other position on the football field must work as a unit to be successful. As if that's not enough cause for optimism, it's the line's second year under Hunter, who gained a reputation as one of the foremost line teacbers while toiling at Indiana.

"The offensive line is a unit that has to have total faitb in each other," Brown says. "I thought we improved a lot last year, but it seems like we've stepped it up a notch each day since then."

That's reason enough for plenty of confidence. It's just that this year, it's unspoken confidence.

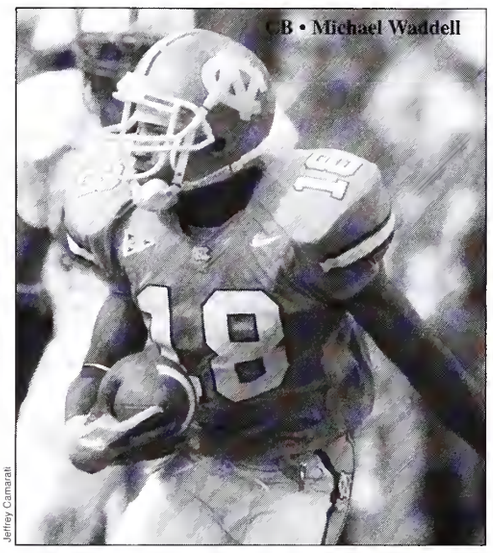
Waddell Wants Back On Field

By Adam Lucas,
Tar Heel Monthly



CB • Michael Waddell

Jeffrey Camarati

Michael Waddell had a few things to recover after his 2002 season ended with a broken leg.

He had to get his speed back. He had to get his confidence back. And, most importantly, he had to get his name back.

"A lot of the guys kept calling me Michael every time they saw me, because they know I hate being called that," said the Tar Heel cornerback who prefers the lifelong nickname "Rabbit." "They said I couldn't get my nickname back until we ran the 40 this spring. We ran it, and now I'm 'Rabbit' again."

Waddell turned in a blistering 4.29 performance in the 40, second-best on the team.

"He looks great out there," senior Dexter Reid said. "He doesn't even look like he hurt his leg."

Waddell estimates that his leg feels about 95 percent healthy this spring. But staying off the field until it is 100 percent was never an option. After breaking his leg in the Clemson game, he sat out the rest of the 2002 season. Although he hadn't been enjoying a particularly outstanding season before the injury, watching his teammates struggle from the sidelines was difficult.

"I don't even think I can explain it," he said. "It got to the point that I was confused and lost. I didn't know what to do. When I got hurt, I lost a lot of confidence. I always looked at myself like I wasn't supposed to get hurt. I'm supposed to be there for my team."

Cornerback is a position that requires a short memory and plenty of confidence. For that reason, most corners are usually fast-talking extroverts. Waddell is the exception to that rule, and he withdrew even more after his injury.

For the balance of the fall, he kept primarily to himself, not discussing his injury with most teammates and keeping his concerns about the future of his career to himself.

Were it not for classroom performance, the injury could have been Waddell's last action for the Tar Heels. As is certain to become a big story before the season, he entered Carolina as a partial qualifier. A good student at Richmond County High, he had the required GPA with plenty of room to spare. But despite studying two hours per day, three days a week during the spring of his senior year in high school, he fell 10 points – one correct answer – short of the required numbers on the SAT.

When freshmen reported to Carolina that fall and it sunk in that under NCAA rules he would have to sit out the 1999 season, Waddell went in the bathroom at the Kenan Football Center and cried. The lifelong star, the teenager who was the centerpiece of every team he had ever played on, had to sit on the bench.

Four years later, he should have his degree in hand by the start of the 2003 season. In fact, he's done so well that if he had time to take a couple extra classes, he would graduate with a double major. Instead, he should finish the summer with a degree in African-American history and a minor in Exercise and Sports Science. Graduation means that he "earns back" an extra year of eligibility, making him eligible for the Heels this fall.

He's got nothing left to prove in the classroom, where all the people who made hushed comments about his academics have long since been left behind. The coming season will be devoted entirely to proving himself on the gridiron, where Carolina suddenly has a wealth of young talent – including Cedrick Holt, Jacoby Watkins, and junior college signee Lionell Green – eager to take playing time away from the Rabbit.

"I've got a lot to prove," Waddell said. "It's like it's my first year and nobody knows me. I have to make a name for myself again. And as a team, we have to give the fans and coaches what they're expecting. We're not looking at any kind of situation that's the same as last year."

les and had eight interceptions, one of which he returned for a touchdown • Rushed for 128 yards and a touchdown in the 1997 state championship game victory • Competed in track and field, baseball and basketball.

JOHN BUNTING

HEAD COACH
3RD YEAR AT CAROLINA

by Lee Pace, Extra Points

During his two years back at his beloved alma mater, John Bunting has seen both the light and the darkness. He's felt ecstasy and misery, pride and embarrassment. He's floated on a cloud and been dragged through the gunk.

His 2001 Tar Heel football team finished 8-5. It won five straight games—including a memorable 41-9 shellacking of Florida State—was in contention for a BCS berth late in the year and finished the season with a victory over Auburn in the Chick-Fil-A Peach Bowl.

"That was a perfect team to walk into," Bunting says of his hiring in December, 2000. "That was a senior class laden with guys who were ready for me. They wanted to win. They were frustrated with losing. And they had talent. It was an ideal situation to win a bunch of ball games."

His 2002 team wheeled 180 degrees. The Tar Heels were 3-9 and endured a wretched late-season stretch when, with starting QB Darian Durant sidelined with a broken thumb, they scored only four touchdowns in four games and yielded 172 points over the same month. During the latter part of the year, Bunting gathered together the freshman and sophomore classes—the foundation to the future of the program—and pounded home the fact that this was a temporary state of affairs.

"I wanted them to understand why we were losing and losing the way we were—we were too young and not strong, not physical and not emotional enough," Bunting says. "That's what our off-season has been all about—creating toughness and competitiveness. I don't know if you're born with toughness and competitiveness. I think you learn to be tough and you learn to be competitive."

Through the ups and the downs, Carolina's 32nd head coach has demonstrated a remarkable combination of resiliency, toughness, intelligence, passion and leadership. He's needed every skill in the book as the Tar Heels are trying to overcome youth and depth problems and restore the program to the heights it enjoyed in the 1990s—including seven consecutive bowl berths and back-to-back Top 10 finishes in 1996-97.

Bunting was an All-ACC linebacker for the Tar Heels during his 1969-71 playing career in Chapel Hill. He returned to Carolina after a stellar playing career with the Philadelphia Eagles and a coaching career that included a head-coaching stint in NCAA Division III and NFL assistant positions in Kansas City, St. Louis and New Orleans. After two-plus years in the competitive fire of top-line Division I-A football, Bunting now comfortably has his arms around the challenge of running a program at the upper reaches of the college game. It's more than X-and-Os and tackling technique. It's recruiting and fund-raising, it's academic counseling and university politics.

"What I'm better at now than the first year is understanding the enormity of the entire operation," Bunting says. "I've been accused of doing too much—too much speaking, too many charities. My coach at Philadelphia, Dick Vermeil, has an expression—'The main thing is the main thing. Don't take your eye off the main thing.' That, of course, is winning.

"But in order to get this program turned around, I've got to win on a lot of fronts. I've got to get out there and meet those people so they stay supportive. We've got to keep them excited about what we're doing. I'm also more focused on the discipline within the team. My tolerance threshold is low.

"More than anything, I've got to make sure our staff recruits guys that are in touch with my mindset. We can't take anyone who's not mentally and emotionally ready for this program. We have to recruit with character in mind – tough guys who love football."

The Tar Heels are getting closer to that standard. Bunting and staff signed a recruiting class in February considered by consensus one of the two best in the ACC and among the top 20 nationally—eighth by PrepStar, 16th by SuperPrep, and 17th by Tom Lemming of ESPN. That follows a 2002 class—Bunting's first true signing class after being on the job for a year—which has some fine players but was hit from a perception standpoint by several high-profile misses late in the game.

"I never doubted my ability or this staff's ability to recruit," Bunting says. "The perception of last year's class is nowhere close to the reality. But losing those kids at end like we did was a heart-breaker. So we turned the whole operation upside-down. Some things were fine. Some needed improving. We opened it up to new ideas.

"In the end, we did a better job promoting the University of North Carolina and the Chapel Hill experience."

Those close to the program know it's simply a matter of time until Bunting gets a roster full of players who pass his rigorous standards. The Tar Heels will be better in 2003 than they were in 2002. And better the year after that.

"This class shows Carolina is a force to be reckoned with," receivers coach Gunter Brewer says. "People recognize we can turn the corner in the blink of an eye and they want to be a part of it. The statement this class makes is that Carolina can get it done and we are getting it done."

Adam Metts was a senior on the 2001 team and a part of the 7-5 Peach Bowl champion

THE BOOK ON BUNTING

- Bunting was hired as Carolina's 32nd head coach on December 11, 2000.
- Bunting won more games (eight) in his first season at North Carolina than any other first-year coach in school history.
- In his first season, Bunting lead the Tar Heels to a victory over Auburn in the 2001 Peach Bowl.
- Bunting earned first-team All-ACC and honorable-mention All-America honors as a linebacker at North Carolina in 1971.
- A 10th-round NFL pick, Bunting played 13 years of professional football, including 11 with the Philadelphia Eagles.
- Bunting was the starting linebacker on the Eagles squad that played in the 1981 Super Bowl.
- Bunting won a Super Bowl in 1999 as a co-defensive coordinator with the St. Louis Rams.

team. He sees greatness ahead for Bunting & Co.

"I think coach Bunting can be the next Dean Smith, but for football," Metts says. "He knows the game, and he also knows how to relate it to players. He's a great motivator. This whole team was concentrated and so much more consumed by the game of football this year. A lot of it I attribute to coach Bunting and his staff and how they prepared us."

Bunting's hiring by Chancellor James Moeser and Athletic Director Dick Baddour culminated a decades-long dream by Bunting, who set his sights on one day coaching at his alma mater shortly after leaving Chapel Hill in the spring of 1972. At each stop along the way—from Philadelphia to Glassboro to Kansas City to St. Louis to New Orleans—Bunting took with him a framed photograph of Kenan Stadium. It hung in his locker or over his office desk for 30 years.

"Years ago I mentioned I'd like to be the head coach at North Carolina," said Bunting. "What a stupid thing to say. I didn't even know what coaching was like. But, I knew I'd like to explore the possibility. I just didn't want to say, 20 years from now, 'Gee, I wish I'd bothered to find out.'"

Carolina's football family is glad he went to the trouble.

Prospective football players for the junior-varsity team at Springbrook High in Silver Spring, Md., gathered on the practice field in August 1965, under the watchful eye of coach Jim Collier. He noticed over the first few days that one kid seemed to be at the front of the line for the tire drill and cone drill. One seemed to have more fuel left after two hours than the others. One was stronger and certainly very fast for his size—just over 6-foot and nearly 200 pounds. He seemed to set a high standard for the other kids to follow.

Collier knew he was on to something.

"I came home one night after practice and told my wife, 'If I'm ever going to coach a pro, I have one now,'" Collier says.

"It's not anything you can explain to people. It's a sense of drive, of hunger, it's something inside that absolutely propels someone to excel. And, of course, he had the physical attributes to go with it."

The player, of course, was John Bunting.

Over the next three seasons, Bunting would inscribe the number "31" in each of his football shoes—in honor of his hero, Green Bay Packer fullback Jim Taylor—and take the field to create loads of ills for the opposition as a fullback on offense and linebacker on defense.

Bunting's efforts caught the eye of a young assistant coach on the staff of new Tar Heel coach Bill Dooley in the fall of 1967. John Atherton became impressed with the pain Bunting felt after a narrow loss to a rival. "Coach Atherton told us, 'John's had a taste of losing. He doesn't like it at all. I like that in him,'" remembers Jim Bunting, John's father.

Young Bunting already had an attraction for the Tar Heels, having been smitten with their colors and demeanor as a basketball team playing at nearby College Park against the University of Maryland. He picked Carolina over Maryland and became a three-year starter at the beginning of his sophomore year, 1969. Bunting would earn all-conference honors as a senior and help in the gradual escalation of the program's fortunes—5-5 in '69, 8-4 in '70 and 9-3 in '71.

His trademarks were not physical skills—he ran 4.9 in the 40 and stood only 6-1, 210 pounds—but toughness, mental acuity and white-hot desire to be the best.

"John's got linebackers' eyes," says John Anderson, a classmate and fellow linebacker. "The intensity burns through. It's like you can see them a mile away."

"John was so fierce," says Flip Ray, who played defensive tackle in the class ahead of Bunting. "He would take or deliver the hardest hit you can imagine, then get right back up. His jaw would tighten, his eyes would burn with intensity.

"He wouldn't have to say anything. Just seeing him stare out from behind that facemask was all anyone else needed for motivation."

Bunting's final team collected the ACC Championship and lost 7-3 to Georgia in the Gator Bowl. Since then, only the 1972, 1977 and 1980 teams have won the league title, a distinction that's become imminently more difficult the last decade with Florida State's admission to the ACC. At the news conference to announce his hiring, a reporter asked Bunting about the huge Super Bowl ring he collected during his tenure in St. Louis.

Bunting paid homage to the Rams' accomplishment—capped by a 23-17 win over Tennessee in the 2000 Super Bowl—then reached in his pocket and pulled out a smaller, older ring.

"This ring right here is just as important to me," he said. "It's my 1971 ACC Championship ring that I won with a bunch of hard-working guys who had one common goal. That's what we're going to work to get done here."

That elicited a hearty round of applause from the smattering of former players, athletic department staffers, Tar Heel players and other Carolina supporters interspersed with the news media. That was the first true insight into this coach who had lived in relative obscurity to the rank-and-file Tar Heel fan for the last three decades.

- More players were drafted from North Carolina in 2002 than any other ACC school.
- Carolina ranked sixth in the country with six NFL draft picks in 2002.
- Among the players Bunting has coached in the NFL are: Former Tar Heel All-America and current Detroit cornerback Dre' Bly, Houston linebacker Charlie Clemons, Buffalo linebacker London Fletcher and former Kansas City linebacker Derrick Thomas.

Many Carolina people were unaware that since leaving Chapel Hill Bunting had done the following:

• Served as a cornerstone to the building job Vermeil performed at Philadelphia from 1976-82, a period that included the Eagles winning the 1981 NFC Championship before losing to Oakland in the Super Bowl.

"His passion for the game and the team were clear from the beginning," says Vermeil. "He was a player you could build around, one who exemplified the characteristics you want in a football player. John defined the expression, 'Winning with character.'"

• Exhibited extraordinary courage and desire to recover from a serious knee injury during the 1978 season. He had cartilage removed and ligaments repaired—major surgery at the time with a long convalescence. Many players don't recover.

"Surgical and rehab techniques weren't what they are today," says Frank LeMaster, a fellow Eagles linebacker at the time. "He was in rehab six days a week, five hours a day. He had ice on his knee constantly. He paid the price dearly."

• Became a defacto assistant coach by organizing weekly film study sessions for linebackers and being a sounding board for defensive coordinator Marion Campbell.

"John Bunting as a player knew more about our defense than Marion Campbell, who was a defensive genius," All-Pro linebacker Bill Bergey says. "More than once Marion was challenged by John, not in a threatening way, but in a, 'Why don't we do this …' kind of way. Marion would always do it his way, because he didn't want to be shown up by a player. But afterward, you'd see them over to the side talking about it. Marion wanted to know what John thought."

• Played an integral role in the 1982 NFL players strike, which saw an eight-week work stoppage. Bunting was the Eagles' players representative to the NFL Players Association and was a member of the players' executive committee. Teammates and NFL officials felt the Eagles were one of the most unified and informed clubs in the league because of Bunting's work.

"It was amazing the power John had over a lot of guys making a lot of money," says K.C. Keeler, an Eagles teammate. "They'd follow him blindly."

• Dived heart-and-soul into the coaching business in 1988 when he was named head coach at Glassboro State College in southern New Jersey. After two rebuilding seasons, Bunting's teams won 28 games the last three years, as well as two league titles and one trip to the national semifinals.

Carolina won the 2001 Peach Bowl over Auburn in Bunting's first season at Carolina.

"Anyone who played for John, loved him," says Richard Wackar, a former Glassboro State (today known as Rowan University) coach and athletics director. "He could get more out of the kids than they believed they had in them."

"His word was gold," says Joe Low, who played for Bunting at Rowan. "It was the essence of a team playing for a coach."

• Returned to the NFL for eight years as an assistant coach—four at Kansas City, three at St. Louis and one at New Orleans. His linebacking corps at each stop were considered among the best in the league. The high point of this tour of duty was winning the Super Bowl with Vermeil when one of his linebackers, Mike Jones, made the game-saving tackle at the one yard-line on a Tennessee Titan on the final play of the game.

"He's a great teacher," says Jay Williams, a member of the Rams' defense that year. "I'm telling you, man, he's a great, great coach."

When the Carolina job became open following the 2000 season, Bunting realized that, at age 50, this would probably be his last opportunity at the job he'd coveted for so long. His bosses with the New Orleans Saints—in particular head coach Jim Haslett and general manager Randy Mueller—understood the passion Bunting had for Carolina and believed the job was such a perfect fit that they allowed him to pursue and interview for the job even though the Saints' season was not over. That is not standard operating procedure in the NFL.

Bunting had the support of his former Tar Heel teammates, who understood the man's inner workings and were willing to trust the future of their beloved program to the man who'd never coached at the Division 1-A level. Gayle Bomar, a Tar Heel quarterback in the late-1960s, had a long phone conversation with Bunting during the search process and hung up believing Carolina could not find a better man for the job.

"John blew me away with how passionate he was about the job, that Carolina was where he wanted to be, that he wanted to get the program back to where it had been," Bomar says. "I could tell he had that fire in his belly. He didn't talk about the money, didn't talk about being a head coach. All he wanted to do was help Carolina realize its potential. There was not an ounce of doubt in his voice at all. At that point, I jumped on bandwagon. I said, 'This guy needs to be here.'"

Baddour and Moeser formed the same opinion once they had the opportunity to meet with him. Bunting was hired and immediately brought a jolt of energy to a program that had lost the edge it enjoyed during back-to-back Top 10 seasons in 1996-97.

"John Bunting is a man of passion," Baddour said.

"This man will energize our fan base," Moeser said.

"He has the swagger of a winner," defensive tackle Ryan Sims said.

"You could feel the power around him," defensive tackle Will Chapman added.

Two of the most significant early moves Bunting made were to re-staff the strength and conditioning area of the program—Jeff Connors was hired from East Carolina to direct this crucial department—and to schedule defending champion Oklahoma on the road for his first game of the 2001 season. Those were major statements.

"What an incredible show of respect the Oklahoma game was for us, and he didn't even know us at the time," says Metts. "It set the tone for the offseason. If you want to be the best, you've got to play the best."

Carolina lost at Oklahoma, then on the road as well at Maryland and Texas. But a foundation had been laid and Bunting and the Tar Heels never quit. They shocked Florida State at home on Sept. 22nd, then reeled off four more victories and were in the running for a Bowl Championship Series berth going into a road game at Georgia Tech in early November. Unfortunately, the Tar Heels lost that game and the next one, at home against Wake Forest, but rallied to beat Duke, SMU and Auburn to finish 8-5.

Through the ups and downs of 2001, Bunting is confident that the consistency of demands from him and his staff made an impression on the players.

"We stayed the course," Bunting says. "We wanted to do things our way. We've been very demanding and disciplined. A lot of players couldn't meet our standards and aren't here. A lot of players had to change their ways of doing things. They had to make the right choices, do the right things or suffer the consequences."

Prior to Carolina's victory over the SEC West champion Auburn in the Peach Bowl, 13 Tar Heels received their degrees in December graduation ceremonies. Those highlights were followed in April by an NFL Draft that saw six Tar Heels selected and four more sign free-agent contracts.

• Winning.
• Graduating.
• Playing a game you love at the highest levels.
• Having an opportunity to succeed in the professional ranks.

Those are the cornerstones to what the Carolina program under John Bunting will offer to its players.

"Coach Bunting is a fair and honest man," says linebacker David Thornton, who bolted from obscurity to a fourth-round NFL selection under Bunting. "He has a passion for his players on and off the field. He gave me the opportunity to play and didn't look at me differently because I was a former walk-on. He wants to put the best players on the field. It's a blessing that he came here when he did."

Defensive end Julius Peppers was the No. 2 pick overall in the draft and pointed to Bunting's attention to detail in helping refine his talents during his final year of collegiate football.

"Coach Bunting tried to get me adjusted to the NFL with a training-camp approach and bringing an NFL mentality to Carolina. He took me in his office and told me what it was going to be like at the next level. He had me watch tape of guys like (NFL defensive end) Joe Johnson and telling me things that would improve my game."

More and more Bunting will apply his thumbprint to the Carolina program. Fans appreciate his openness, his honesty, his regular-guy persona. Players know that no one played the game any smarter or tougher than Bunting did during his run as a Tar Heel.

He's living a dream, coaching on the campus he loved so much as a young man three decades ago. One of his favorite touches is the Old Well Walk, where the team busses deliver the players and Bunting to the Old Well two hours before home games. From there they walk through a tunnel of cheering fans through Polk Place to Kenan Stadium. It's an emotional stroll each week for Bunting.

"I have to fight back the tears every time," Bunting says. "But that's the way I am. I love this place. I couldn't be happier being back here after all these years."

WHAT OTHERS ARE SAYING ABOUT JOHN BUNTING

"John is the total package as a football coach and as a person. I'm very close to him and I'm very proud of him. When you know someone as long as I've known John, you really get to know them. I have experienced the highs and the lows when he was both a player and a coach. We are both wearing world championship Super Bowl rings because of his contribution. He helped lead a defense that maybe wasn't as talented as some of the others in the league and we finished sixth in the league in total defense. We won that Super Bowl because of people like John Bunting and the type of defense he molded that season.

"I wasn't surprised that they fought through those first three losses (in 2001). He knows how to handle those kinds of things. He has the ability to take that pressure to win and get players to produce. He is going to have a team here that is disciplined, that loves to play and loves to work. It will be a family atmosphere and it will be a tight knit group of players. Carolina should be proud to have John Bunting as its head coach.

■ Kansas City Chiefs Head Coach Dick Vermeil

"He's done a great job (at UNC) and I think he'll continue to do a great job. I don't think they could have hired anybody better. I know he's got fine coaching ability. He understands the pro game as well as the college game. There's no question that he prepares guys for the NFL."

■ Carolina Panthers Head Coach John Fox

"He helped me out a lot, especially with little things. He tried to get me adjusted to the NFL with a training camp approach and bringing an NFL mentality to Carolina. He took me in his office and told me what it was going to be like at the next level. He had me watch some tape of guys like (NFL defensive end) Joe Johnson and telling me things that would improve my game."

■ Defensive End Julius Peppers
No. 1 draft pick of the Carolina Panthers
Played for Bunting in 2001

"John was, in my opinion, not the most gifted linebacker in the National Football league, but was absolutely the best prepared and the smartest. That's why he played so long and so well. He called all of our defenses in Super Bowl XV with the Eagles. I had him come to work with me with the Chiefs. I knew he'd be an outstanding coach, and he was. It didn't take him long to get to where he should be, which is as a head coach."

■ Kansas City Chiefs President Carl Peterson

"The most important thing is John understands what it takes to play in the NFL. He's been there and he's played a long time so he can give advice to these young guys on their work ethic and what it takes to play in the national Football League, both on and off the field.

"Anytime you have a guy that's played in the league and has also coached in the league, it's nothing but a plus for the organization, especially from the standpoint that every player that comes in here in college football wants to play in the National Football League, and John can give first hand advice."

■ New Orleans Head Coach Jim Haslett

"He brought a different scheme to us. He brought more of an NFL feel to our practices and to our games. He played 13 years in the pros. He's got a Super Bowl ring. He's coached the No. 1 defenses in the NFL. That speaks for itself. He's got an ACC championship ring, so whatever he tells you, it's going to be the truth. It meant a lot to me to have somebody like that."

■ Defensive Tackle Ryan Sims,
No. 1 draft pick of the Kansas City Chiefs
Played for Bunting in 2001

"I was excited for Coach Bunting and for Carolina when he took the job. He's intense, he's dedicated and he'll get things going the right way. He was our co-defensive coordinator in St. Louis and he was the mastermind in the press box. Everyone on the team will get behind Coach Bunting."

■ Detroit Lions Cornerback Dre' Bly
Former Tar Heel All-America
Played for Bunting in St. Louis in 1999

"I remember John as a fiery person, a motivator that would get in your face and holler every once in a while, but a great guy. When there's someone he wanted, he was behind you 100 percent and backed you in everything you did. He was very intense, very into his job and loved to do what he was doing. He loved to create, loved to make up schemes and loved to design things. I think the one word that describes him is 'intensity.' He's intense in everything he does, and he wants to get the best out of every player that's on the football field playing for him."

■ St. Louis Rams Quarterback Kurt Warner

2003 CAROLINA FOOTBALL COACHES

WHAT THEY ARE SAYING ABOUT JOHN BUNTING

"The fact that Coach Bunting has played in the NFL really was a benefit to all three of those players [Peppers, Sims, Thornton], because he gives them an understanding of what it takes to get to that level."

■ Indianapolis Colts
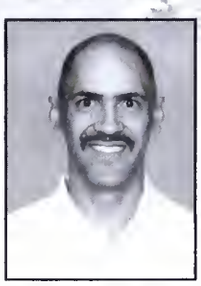
Head Coach Tony Dungy



"He has great people skills and does his job in a professional manner. He brings out the best in his players and they love to play for him."

■ Ron Jaworski
Former Philadelphia Eagle teammate & current ESPN NFL analyst

"I think John Bunting is going to be the next Dean Smith of football. Why? Because John Bunting knows the game and he's a great motivator. But not in the traditional sense. He makes you think about what you can become and he puts a lot of emphasis on the seniors to implement what he's trying to do and what his goals are for the team and spread it to the younger guys on the team. The man is a great football coach. When I'm an alum from here I'm going to be glad to say I played for him."

■ Center Adam Metts
Played for Bunting in 2001

"You have to listen to Coach Bunting (about the NFL). He knows the tricks of the trade. What made me so ready was being with Coach Bunting, because we practice full speed all the time. I was very comfortable with the way practices went."

■ Wide Reciever Sam Aiken
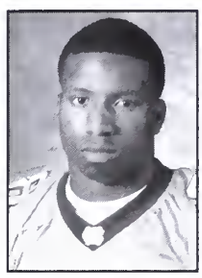
2003 NFL Draft Pick of Buffalo Bills
Played for Bunting in 2001-2002



"He's a fair and honest man. He has a passion for his players on and off the field. He gave me the opportunity to play and didn't look at me differently because I was a former walk-on. He wants to put the best players on the site. It's a blessing that he came here when he did."

■ Linebacker David Thornton
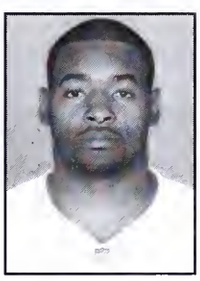
2002 NFL Draft Pick of Indianapolis Colts
Played for Bunting in 2001



"Anyone who comes here and wants to be a better football player and a better person will get that if they come to Carolina under John Bunting. This guys knows football and is totally committed. If you really want to be the best, this is the guy to get around."

■ Paul Miller (UNC '72)
Former UNC teammate

"John Bunting is a man of passion. He's passionate about the University of North Carolina. I know that he understands the mission of this University and will do everything he can to see that this program is operated in the values that are acceptable to this institution. And I also know he will motivate his players to go 110 percent every game and every practice."

■ Dick Baddour (UNC '66)
North Carolina Athletic Director

"I played with John back in the early 1970s and late 1960s. To me, John was one of the most intense football players I've ever come across and what always impressed me about John's football ability was how he studied the game. He was a real scholar in the game of football. He'll be a great recruiter and the one thing that I can assure you is that the team will be ready to play on Saturday with John Bunting at the helm."

■ Don McCauley (UNC '70)
2001 College Hall of Fame Inductee &
Former Bunting Teammate

"John is a first-class individual who was the best leader as a player that I have ever been around. He has outstanding leadership abilities, football knowledge and experience. I'm certain he will be a tremendous addition to North Carolina and to the Atlantic Coast Conference."

■ John Swofford (UNC '71)
ACC Commissioner
Former UNC Teammate

"We know that anyone who comes from John Bunting's program will be well coached, because he is one of the best fundamental technique coaches that I have ever been around. That is so important right now in the NFL because guys have to be able to come in and play right away. I know the type of players he will produce."

- 4th Year at Carolina
- 18th Year Overall
- Recruiting Areas:

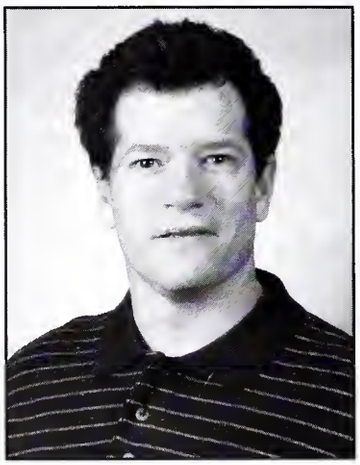
Southwestern Piedmont (Charlatte, Cancard, Kannapalis, Ansan Caunty, Richmond Caunty, Scotland Caunty), Geargia, Florida Panhandle



Gunter Brewer is in his fourth season as the Tar Heels' wide receivers coach, having joined the staff in February of 2000. Brewer came to Carolina after coaching at Marshall from 1996-99.

An energetic and enthusiastic coach, Brewer has produced several outstanding receivers at Carolina. Last season, Sam Aiken set single-season school records in receptions (68) and receiving yards (990) and Chesley Borders set a single-game record with four touchdown catches at Arizona State. Carolina's receivers helped the Tar Heel offense set school records in passing yards per game, completions and attempts.

Aiken is one of three receivers Brewer has coached – Kory Bailey and Bosley Allen are the others – who rank among the top 20 receivers in school history. Aiken ranks third at UNC with 2,205 career receiving yards and is fourth in career receptions with 146. He was drafted in the fourth round by the Buffalo Bills and Borders and Allen signed free agent contracts following the 2002 season.

Jeffrey Camargo

For the second consecutive year, Carolina had three players with at least 30 receptions in 2002, including Aiken with 68, Borders with 32 and Jarwarski Pollock with 31. In 2001, Carolina had two receivers with more than 40 receptions for just the second time in school history.

Carolina tied a school record in 2001 with 25 touchdown receptions, 23 of which were to wide receivers. In addition, Carolina's big-play offense produced 43 pass plays longer than 20 yards, including nine plays longer than 40 yards.

In 2000, four of Carolina's receivers caught at least 15 passes and three of the four averaged over 15 yards per catch. Those four – Allen, Bailey, Aiken and Jamal Jones – combined to catch 116 passes for 1,871 yards and 10 touchdowns. Carolina made 11 catches that went for longer than 45 yards, including a school-record-tying 78-yard touchdown catch by Kory Bailey. It was the longest reception ever by a Tar Heel in Kenan Stadium. Overall, Carolina had 40 pass plays of 20-or-more yards.

At Marshall, Brewer coached 1997 Biletnikoff Award winner Randy Moss, who has gone on to become of the brightest stars in the National Football League. In 1999, Marshall completed a perfect 13-0 season to earn a No. 10 final national ranking, and in Brewer's four seasons there the Thundering Herd had a 50-4 overall record. His responsibilities at Marshall were: running backs and recruiting coordinator, 1996; wide receivers and recruiting coordinator, 1997; associate offensive coordinator and wide receivers, 1998; special teams coordinator and wide receivers, 1999.

Brewer was a two-year letterwinner at wide receiver at Wake Forest, where he earned his degree in science and health sports in 1987. In 1989, he was awarded a master's in education with a specialization in exercise physiology from Mississippi.

Brewer's previous coaching stops include: strength and flexibility at Wake Forest, 1986-87; running backs at Mississippi, 1988-89; offensive coordinator for the Angles Bleus (Paris, France) of the European Football League, 1989; graduate assistant/administrative aid at Mississippi, 1989-90; running backs and recruiting coordinator at East Tennessee State, 1990-92; wide receivers and recruiting coordinator at ETSU, 1992-95; head coach at Northeast Community College in Booneville, Miss., 1995.

Brewer and his wife, Rhonda, have a son, Keaton, and a daughter, Lauren.

KEN BROWNING

- TIGHT ENDS
- DIRECTOR OF HIGH SCHOOL RELATIONS
- CAMPS AND CLINICS COORDINATOR
- 10TH YEAR AT CAROLINA
- 36TH YEAR OVERALL
- RECRUITING AREAS:

Piedmont (Raleigh, Durham), Northeost North Corolino, Tidewoter, Centrol & Southwestern Virginio

A veteran assistant coach who has been with the Tar Heels since 1994, Ken Browning enters his third season as Carolina's tight ends coach. In the offseason, he added the title of Director of High School Relations and will continue to direct UNC's camps and clinics. From 1994 to 2000, Browning coached Carolina's defensive tackles and, in 2000, he was UNC's defensive coordinator.

In two seasons as tight ends coach, Browning groomed Zach Hilton into a solid NFL prospect and Bobby Blizzard into an honorable-mention All-ACC selection. Last year, Hilton and Blizzard combined for 47 receptions for 698 yards and six touchdowns. Blizzard finished fourth on the team with 28 catches for 440 yards and a team-high five touchdowns. He enters the 2003 season as one of the league's top NFL prospects.

THE BROWNING FILE

- Also serves as UNC's summer camp coordinator
- Has the longest tenure of any current Carolina assistant coach
- Coached defensive tackles at UNC for seven seasons before switching to tight ends in 2001
- Carolina led the conference with a school-record 53 sacks in 2000 when he served as defensive coordinator
- Named the North Carolina High School Coach of the Year in 1992 and 1993

- Born: March 2, 1946
- Education: Guilford, 1968
- Playing experience: Guilford, 1964-68
- Previous coaching experience: Patrick Henry High School, Va. (1968-69), Martinsville High School, Va. (1969-70), Ledford High School (1970-75), Northern Durham High School (1976-93)

- NFL Players: Russell Davis, Nate Hobgood-Chittick, Vonnie Holliday, Marcus Jones, Riddick Parker, Andre' Purvis, Rick Terry, Ryan Sims, Zach Hilton
- Family: Wife - Susan; Has three sons, Chuck (31), John (27) and Joe (24)

Kenny Browning

As defensive coordinator in 2000, Carolina led the ACC and set a school record with 53 sacks. Carolina finished 19th in the nation against the run, allowing just 103.5 yards per game, and was second in the league and 30th in the nation in total defense.

Browning was twice named the state's high school Coach of the Year at Durham's Northern High School before joining the UNC staff. He has brought that formula for success to the Tar Heel program. Browning has developed a number of outstanding tackles, including first-round NFL draft picks Vonnie Holliday, Marcus Jones and Ryan Sims and second-round picks Rick Terry and Russell Davis. Sports Illustrated selected North Carolina's defensive tackles in its positional "Dream Team" in its 1998 preseason college football issue. Every defensive tackle Browning has coached at UNC has been drafted by or signed with an NFL franchise. That continued this past season when Sims, who played under Browning for three years, was selected by the Kansas City Chiefs in the first round with the No. 6 pick.

The Tar Heels led the ACC in total defense from 1995-97 and finished No. 2 in the nation in yards allowed in 1996 and 1997. The Tar Heels were third in the country against the run in 1996 allowing 73.9 yards per game. In 1997, Carolina was fourth in the nation stopping the run as the opponents averaged 77.9 yards per contest. UNC held opponents to less than 50 yards rushing in six games and less than 100 yards in nine of 12 games.

Browning was the head coach and athletic director at Northern High School for 18 years. He posted a 178-35 record and won the 1993 4-A state title and Shrine Bowl. Over his last three years, Northern built a 43-2 record and he was named the North Carolina Coach of the Year by the Associated Press in 1992 and 1993. He became only the third coach to win both the state title and Shrine Bowl in the same year.

Carolina has had seven winning seasons and played in six bowl games during Browning's nine seasons at Carolina.

Browning and his wife, Susan, have three sons – Chuck, John and Joe.

JEFF CONNORS

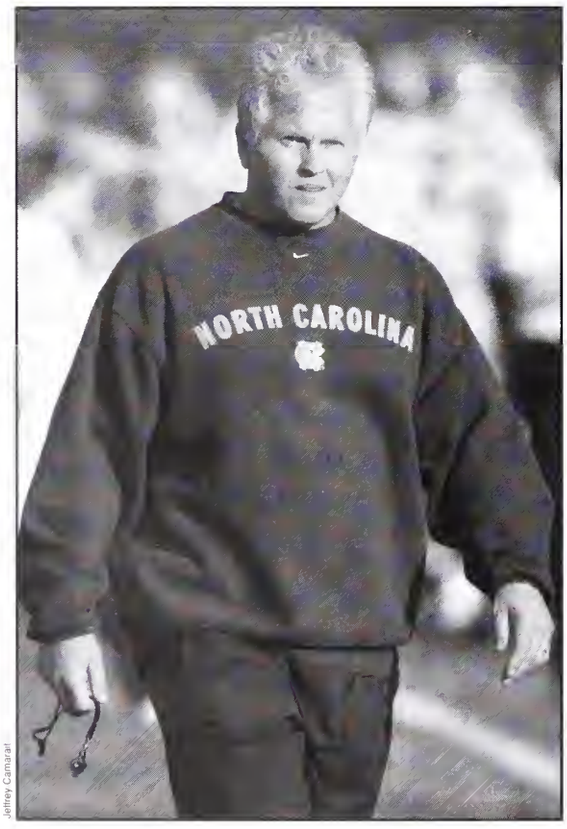
- Assistant Athletic Director
- Strength & Conoitioning Cooroinator
- 3rd Year at Carolina
- 14th Year Overall

Jeff Connors is in his third year as Carolina's Strength and Conditioning Coordinator and his second as an assistant athletic director. While his primary focus is the football team's strength and conditioning program, Connors oversees the department's entire strength and conditioning program.

This spring, Connors was honored as a Master Strength & Conditioning Coach by the Collegiate Strength & Conditioning Coaches association (CSCCa). The Master Strength & Conditioning Coach certification is the highest honor that can be achieved as a strength and conditioning coach, representing professionalism, knowledge, experience, expertise and longevity in the field.

Connors' conditioning program was one of the reasons for Carolina's strong second-half performance in 2001. The Tar Heels outscored their opponents 165-130 in the second half, including a 34-0 rout of Florida State in the second half of Carolina's 41-9 victory.

Connors came to Carolina after spending 10 seasons as East Carolina's Director of Strength & Conditioning. Under Connors, the Pirates were one of the best fourth-quarter teams in the country. In 1996, the ECU defense did not allow a point in the fourth quarter until the seventh game of the season and in 1999, the Pirates outscored their opponents, 102-56, in the final period. In 2000, ECU had a 94-57 advantage in the fourth quarter.



Several of Connors' former assistants are now head strength and conditioning coaches at other universities, including: John Williams, Director of Strength & Conditioning at Baylor; Tom Howley, Director of Strength & Conditioning at Cornell; Jay Butler, Director of Strength & Conditioning at Rutgers; Jennifer Jones, Head Coach of Strength & Conditioning for Women's Sports at Arkansas; Sonny Sano, Director of Strength & Conditioning at Ohio.

Connors was the featured speaker at the 1995 National Strength and Conditioning Association Conference in Phoenix, the 1996 NSCA Conference in Atlanta and the 2003 NSCA Conference. In 1996, he was the Regional Director of the Year and was nominated for National Strength Coach of the Year in 1991.

Connors is a competitive powerlifter and has won four state titles in powerlifting and has been ranked as high as fourth nationally. He holds Level I certification in Olympic Weight Lifting by the U.S. Weight Lifting Federation.

A 1980 graduate of Salem (W. Va.) College, Connors was a four-year starter at cornerback and was team captain as a senior. He led Salem in interceptions as a sophomore and junior.

After college, Connors served as a police officer in South Florida for two years. Prior to becoming a strength coach, Connors coached high school football and wrestling at The Benjamin School in North Palm Beach, Fla., and he later coached linebackers at the Tennessee Military Institute in Sweetwater, Tenn.

Connors and his wife, Michele, have a daughter, Kaitlin, and a son, Beau.

JIM FLEMING

- Defensive Backs
- 2nd Year at Carolina
- 19th Year Overall
- Recruiting Areas:

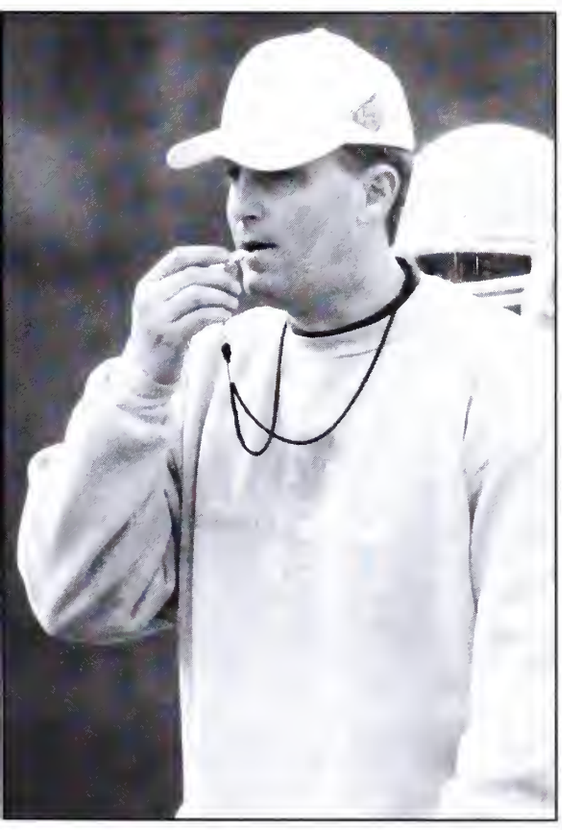
Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware, Connecticut, New York, Maryland, Washington, D.C.

Jim Fleming enters his second season as Carolina's defensive backs coach. Fleming was hired on Feb. 25, 2002 after spending the previous two seasons as head coach at Sacred Heart University in Fairfield, Conn.

Last season, free safety Dexter Reid flourished under Fleming's direction, earning first-team All-ACC honors after leading the league and finishing second in the country in tackles with 13.8 per game.

A 1982 graduate of the University of the South in Sewanee, Tenn., Fleming led Sacred Heart to an 11-0 record in 2001. The Pioneers won the Northeast Conference and defeated Duquesne, 31-15, in the ECAC Bowl on December 1st to capture the Division I-AA mid-major national championship. Sacred Heart was ranked No. 2 in the nation in scoring, pass efficiency defense and turnover margin, No. 4 in total defense and No. 7 in scoring defense and passing yards allowed. The Pioneers scored eight defensive touchdowns and the special teams units blocked eight kicks and scored five times. He was named the Northeast Conference Coach of the Year for the second year in a row.



In 2000, Sacred Heart posted a then-program-best 10-1 record, earning him the NEC's and the American Football Coaches Association's Division I-AA Region I Coach of the Year honors. Sacred Heart's eight-game improvement represented the best turnaround in Division I-AA that year, following a 2-9 record in 1999.

Defensively, the Pioneers ranked second nationally in scoring defense, limiting opponents to 13.4 points per game.

In 1998-99, Fleming was the defensive coordinator/defensive backs coach at Villanova University. Prior to that, he spent four years at East Carolina. He coached outside linebackers in 1994 and defensive backs from 1995-97. The 1995 team finished 9-3 and won the Liberty Bowl, featuring a defense that intercepted 19 passes and was seventh in the nation in pass efficiency. In 1996, ECU was 8-3 and finished first in the country in turnover margin. In his final year in Greenville, the Pirates were second in Conference USA in pass defense.

Fleming has also made coaching stops at South Carolina (graduate assistant in 1985-86), Boise State (1987-92) and Brown (1993).

In 1991, Boise State led the Big Sky Conference in all major defensive categories. Boise State was first nationally in run defense and third nationally in turnover margin (42 takeaways). He was also responsible for special teams, and the kickoff return unit was ranked first in the conference and third nationally. The 1990 squad advanced to the semifinals of the Division I-AA playoffs and finished 10-4. Boise State led the Big Sky in scoring defense and blocked 12 punts.

Jim and his wife, Leslie, have two sons, Jimmy and Will, and two daughters, Kate and Meg.

HAL HUNTER

- Offensive Line
- 2nd Year at Carolina
- 19th Year Overall
- Recruiting Areas:

Southern Piedmont (Fayetteville, Sondhills), Western Florido, New Orleons

Hal Hunter enters his second season as Carolina's offensive line coach. Hunter was added to UNC's coaching staff on Jan. 18, 2002, after two seasons as Indiana's offensive coordinator.

Last year, Carolina's offense set several school passing records, including passing yards per game, completions and attempts. The Tar Heels finished 22nd in the country in passing offense and offensive guard Jeb Terry was selected academic All-ACC. This season, Carolina returns all five starters on the offensive line for the first time in more than 20 years.

At Indiana, Hunter led the Hoosiers to two of their most successful offensive seasons ever. Under his guidance, the Hoosiers averaged more than 435 yards per game in each of the last two years and finished in the top 20 in total offense in both seasons.

In 2000, Hunter designed an offense to fit the skills of talented quarterback Antwaan Randle El, who was named Big Ten Player of the Year and earned first-team All-America honors. Indiana led the Big Ten and finished fourth in the nation in rushing offense (averaging 269.5 yards per game), was 19th in the country in total offense, rushed for 33 touchdowns and allowed just nine sacks in 11 games. The Hoosiers were one of just 11 teams to average more than five yards per carry (5.66) and IU became only the second school in Big Ten history to have two 3,000-yard career rushers on the same team (Randle El and Levron Williams).

The previous season (2000), Hunter's first at IU, the Hoosiers were seventh in the country in rushing offense, averaging 266.4 yards per game, and 12th in the nation in total offense despite starting an entirely new offensive line. Indiana led the Big Ten in rushing offense and finished second nationally in yards per carry (5.8), trailing only Nebraska. Indiana scored 34 rushing touchdowns and averaged over 30.6 points per game, the second-highest total in IU history.

Hunter came to Indiana after a successful five-year stint as offensive line coach at LSU from 1995-99. He was promoted to assistant head coach in 1999. Hunter also served as the interim head coach at LSU for one game in 1999. At LSU he developed one of the Southeastern Conference's most dominant offensive lines as the Tigers led the SEC in rushing in both 1997 and 1998. In 1997, he was credited with the development of Outland Trophy finalist Alan Faneca, a two-time All-America selection and 1998 first-round pick of the Pittsburgh Steelers. That same year, LSU's offensive line also featured first-team All-SEC and All-America center Todd McClure, a 1999 draft selection of the Atlanta Falcons. In his one game as interim head coach, Hunter led the Tigers to a season-ending 35-10 win over Arkansas. Athlon magazine recognized Hunter as the SEC's top offensive line coach in 1997.

Prior to arriving at LSU, Hunter, 42, served as an assistant coach at Vanderbilt from 1991-94, tutoring the Commodores' tackles and tight ends for three seasons. In 1994, he was placed in charge of the entire offensive line. Vanderbilt ranked second in the SEC in rushing in 1991, 1992 and 1994.

Before heading to Vanderbilt, Hunter spent four seasons as the offensive line coach at Akron.

Hunter is a 1982 graduate of Northwestern, where he earned Dean's List honors and graduated in the top 10 percent of his class with a 3.6 GPA. He graduated with a bachelor's degree in communications studies with a concentration in economics. He lettered at linebacker for the Wildcats in 1978, but a neck injury prematurely ended his career. Hunter stayed with the program and assisted with the defensive line and served as a strength coach.

In 1982, he coached outside linebackers and was the strength coach at William & Mary. Hunter also has coached the offensive line at Pittsburgh (1983-84), Columbia (1985) and Indiana University of Pennsylvania (1986).

Hunter's father, Hal Sr., has over 40 years of experience in college and professional football and is currently an area scout for the Carolina Panthers.

DAVE HUXTABLE

- Defensive Coordinator
- Linebackers
- 3rd Year at Carolina
- 24th Year Overall
- Recruiting Areas:

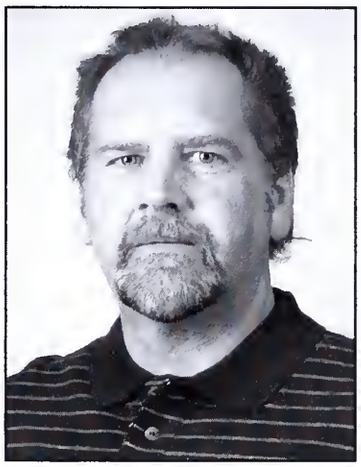
Western North Carolina, Northern Georgia



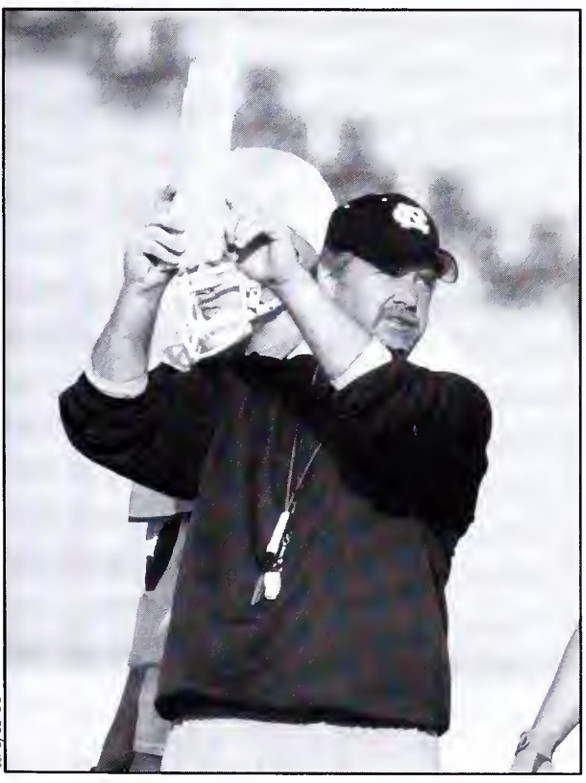
Dave Huxtable

Dave Huxtable begins his third season as North Carolina's linebackers coach and second as its defensive coordinator. Huxtable was promoted to defensive coordinator after the 2001 season.

In 2001, Huxtable helped guide a defense that finished first in the ACC and 15th in the nation in total defense. In addition, he molded a group of relatively inexperienced linebackers into one of the top units in the ACC. Former walk-on David Thornton, who had recorded just 24 tackles in his career as a special teams player prior to the 2001 season, led the team with 131 stops, was named the team's defensive MVP and earned second-team All-ACC honors. Linebacker Quincy Monk was second on the team with 125 tackles. Thornton (fourth round) and Monk (seventh round) were selected in the NFL Draft and linebacker Merceda Perry signed an NFL free agent contract. Huxtable also served as Carolina's special teams coordinator in 2001.

Huxtable came to Carolina after a year as the linebackers coach and special teams coordinator at Oklahoma State. He is a 23-year coaching veteran who has also coached at East Carolina, Georgia Tech, Western Kentucky and Iowa State.

Before coaching the Cowboys, Huxtable spent two years on the ECU coaching staff working with the defensive line in 1999 and inside linebackers in 1998. It was his second coaching stint with the Pirates. He coached linebackers and special teams at ECU in 1990-91 and was on the staff that defeated NC State in the 1991 Peach Bowl.



In 1999, the Pirates' defense was 10th in the NCAA in pass efficiency defense and 14th in the country in scoring defense. ECU earned a berth in the 1999 Mobile Alabama Bowl.

While serving as linebackers coach at Georgia Tech from 1992-97, he also served three years as special teams coordinator (1992-94) and defensive coordinator (1996-97) for the Yellow Jackets. He was part of the staff that coached Georgia Tech to a 35-30 win over West Virginia in the 1997 Carquest Bowl. He also coached at Western Kentucky from 1985-89 and was the defensive coordinator there in 1989. He began his coaching career as a graduate assistant at Iowa State in 1982 and 1983 and was the defensive coordinator at Independence Community College in 1984.

Huxtable coached first-round draft picks Robert Jones (Dallas Cowboys, 1991) at ECU and Keith Brooking (Atlanta Falcons, 1997) at Georgia Tech.

A 1979 graduate of Eastern Illinois University, Huxtable and his wife, Vicki, have a daughter, Shea, and a son, Jake.

BRAD LAWING

- Defensive Line
- Recruiting Coordinator
- 1st Year at Carolina
- 24th Year Overall
- Recruiting Areas:

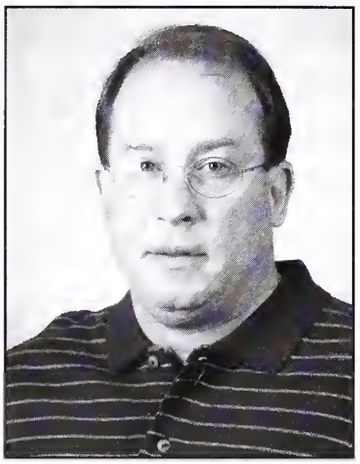
Piedmont North Carolina, Southeastern North Carolina, Eastern South Carolina, South Florida

Hickory, N.C., native Brad Lawing, most recently the defensive line coach and recruiting coordinator at Michigan State, is in his first season as Carolina's defensive line coach and recruiting coordinator.

Lawing comes to Carolina after coaching four seasons in East Lansing. During his tenure, the Spartans led the Big Ten in total defense during the 1999 and 2000 regular seasons. In his first season at Michigan State, the Spartans led the Big Ten (76.2 yards per game) and ranked fifth nationally in rushing defense. Lawing also played an integral part in helping Michigan State assemble one of the nation's top 20 recruiting classes each of the last three years. The 2000 recruiting class was ranked among the nation's top 10 by several publications.

At Michigan State, Lawing was instrumental in the development of four NFL players, including All-America and first-round draft pick Julian Peterson (San Francisco 49ers, 2000), Robaire Smith (Tennessee Titans, 2000), Jace Sayler (New England Patriots, 2001) and Josh Shaw (San Francisco 49ers, 2002). Peterson was named to the 2003 Pro Bowl.



Brad Lawing

Lawing coached 10 years at South Carolina from 1989-98, where he tutored the defensive line and served as recruiting coordinator under Brad Scott. During his stint with the Gamecocks, he helped produce three NFL players in Corey Miller (New York Giants, 1991-98), Gerald Dixon (Oakland Raiders) and Henry Taylor (Miami Dolphins). He also coached three All-Southeastern Conference players, including nose tackle Eric Sullivan, tackle Henry Taylor and end Stacy Evans. His last three recruiting classes were ranked among the nation's top 25 by the scouting services. At USC, he recruited defensive end John Abraham, a 2003 Pro Bowl selection from the New York Jets.

Lawing began his college coaching career at Appalachian State University in Boone, N.C., where he spent one season with former Carolina head coach and current Texas head coach Mack Brown. He coached the defensive line for five years and the tight ends and offensive tackles for one season. Eight of his players earned all-conference honors, including Southern Conference Player of the Year Anthony Downs in 1987, and future NFL players Tommy Dawkins and Mike Frier. Over his final four seasons, the Mountaineers compiled a combined record of 34-12-2 (.729), including back-to-back Southern Conference championships in 1986 and 1987 and consecutive trips to the NCAA I-AA playoffs.

Lawing spent three years as an assistant coach at Havelock (N.C.) High School from 1980-82. He also coached baseball for two years, leading the team to the state finals in 1983.

A 1979 graduate of Lenoir-Rhyne College, Lawing earned a master's degree from Appalachian State in 1985. He graduated from St. Stephens High School in Hickory, N.C., in 1975.

Lawing and his wife, Laura, a native of Charlotte, have a daughter, Susie, and a son, Will.

ANDRE' POWELL

- Running Backs
- 3rd Year at Carolina
- 15th Year Overall
- Recruiting Areas:

Western North Carolina, Northern South Carolina, Central Virginia, Western Pennsylvania

Andre' Powell enters his third year as the Tar Heels' running backs coach. An enthusiastic coach and recruiter, Powell coaches a position that consisted entirely of freshmen and sophomores when he began in 2001.

In fact, this is the first season he has coached a senior tailback at North Carolina. Despite the youth, Powell has developed depth at the position and Carolina enters the 2002 season with four players vying for the starting position. Last season, Jacque Lewis started eight games and had a team-high 574 rushing yards and two touchdowns, while Willie Parker gained 236 yards and scored once.

In 2001, Carolina's running attack featured a trio of tailbacks, including Parker, Lewis and Andre' Williams. Williams handled the bulk of the carries and started eight games, while Parker was the star of the Peach Bowl, rushing for 131 yards and a touchdown in the win over Auburn. Lewis was one of seven true freshmen to see playing time. Combined, the trio rushed for 1,161 yards and nine touchdowns.

Powell came to Carolina after spending the previous five seasons at the University of Virginia, where he coached wide receivers and running backs. He coached several former Cavaliers who currently play in the NFL, including tailback Tiki Barber and Thomas Jones and wide receivers Germane Crowell, Pat Washington, Charles Kirby and Terrence Wilkins.

Powell coached running backs during his first season at UVa in 1996, then tutored the wide receivers for three years before returning to teach the running backs last season. He came to Virginia from Army where he was the running backs coach in 1995. He also spent the 1991 season at Army as the inside linebackers coach. In between stints with the U.S. Military Academy, Powell was the running backs coach at VMI in 1992 and at Rhode Island in 1993 and 1994.

Powell earned his bachelor's degree in health, physical education and recreation in 1989 from Indiana, where he was a two-year letterwinner at running back. He was a member of Hoosier teams that participated in the 1986 All-American Bowl and the 1988 Peach Bowl and was the team's Most Improved Player as a senior. He was the lead blocker for 1,000-yard rusher Anthony Thompson in 1988.

Powell began his coaching career as a graduate assistant at Indiana and was a coach on the 1988 Liberty Bowl squad that defeated South Carolina. After two years at Indiana, he was a graduate assistant at South Carolina in 1990.

A native of Lockhart, S.C., Powell attended Lees McRae Junior College in Banner Elk, N.C., for two years (1984-85) before transferring to Indiana.

Powell and his wife, Joann, have a son, Andre' II, and two daughters, Alayna and Mikala.

GARY TRANQUILL

- Offensive Coordinator
- Quarterbacks
- 3rd Year at Carolina
- 42nd Year Overall
- Recruiting Areas:

Northern Virginia, Maryland

A coaching veteran with over 40 years of college and professional coaching experience, Gary Tranquill enters his third season as Carolina's offensive coordinator and quarterbacks coach.

Tranquill has a diverse coaching background that includes 11 years of experience as an offensive coordinator at five different schools, three years as a defensive coordinator and five years as a Division I head coach. He has worked with some of the top quarterbacks in the Atlantic Coast Conference during two stints at Virginia, including All-ACC selections Scott Secules, Shawn Moore and Matt Blundin. In addition, he was the Cleveland Browns quarterbacks coach from 1991-93, where he worked with NFL standouts Bernie Kosar and Vinnie Testaverde.

In his two years at Carolina, the Tar Heels have set numerous passing records and quarterbacks Darian Durant and Ronald Curry established several individual records. Despite playing just two seasons, Durant is on the verge of setting nearly every major career passing mark at Carolina. He is tied for second in school history with 33 touchdown passes and needs just 34 yards to become the fourth play at Carolina to throw for 4,000 yards.

In 2001, Tranquill designed an offense that took advantage of the skills of both quarterbacks Curry and Durant by rotating both QBs throughout the game. Carolina won all eight games in which the quarterbacks rotated and set a school record with 25 touchdown passes. UNC scored over 26 points per game for the first time since the 1997 season.

Tranquill was the offensive coordinator and quarterbacks coach for Nick Saban's Michigan State Spartans from 1995-98. During those four seasons, Michigan State averaged 161.5 yards rushing, 220.9 yards passing and 27.6 points per game. The Spartans averaged nearly 30 points per game each of the last three seasons of Tranquill's tenure – its top scoring averages of the decade.

As Virginia's quarterbacks coach from 1987-90, Tranquill helped develop some of the best passers in conference history. Secules led the conference in passing as a senior in 1987, while Moore became the school's all-time leader in passing yards, finished fourth in the 1990 Heisman Trophy balloting, was a first-team All-America and the 1990 ACC Player of the Year. Tranquill helped coach the Cavaliers to a No. 1 ranking during the 1990 season – UVa's highest ever ranking.

Tranquill left Virginia for a three-year stint with the Cleveland Browns, then returned to college as Virginia Tech's offensive coordinator in 1994 before leaving for Michigan State in 1995.

A native of Avella, Pa., Tranquill began his coaching career at Wittenberg, his alma mater, where he coached from 1963-69. He was Ball State's secondary coach in 1970 before becoming the defensive coordinator for two seasons at Bowling Green State. In 1973, he served three years under George Welsh as Navy's quarterbacks and receivers coach. He would later return to Navy as Welsh's successor in 1982 as the head coach.

Tranquill also spent two years as an assistant coach at Ohio State (1977-78) under legendary coach Woody Hayes and was an assistant at West Virginia from 1979-81. At West Virginia, he spent one season as the defensive coordinator and two years as the offensive coordinator.

Tranquill is a 1962 graduate of Wittenberg, where he won four letters in football and baseball. He played on two Ohio Conference baseball championship teams and two NCAA regional winners in that sport. In 1960, he was the conference's top football player. He was inducted into Wittenberg's Athletic Hall of Fame in 1986.

JAMES WEBSTER JR.

- Assistant Head Coach
- Special teams Coordinator
- 3rd Year at Carolina
- 26th Year Overall
- Recruiting Areas:

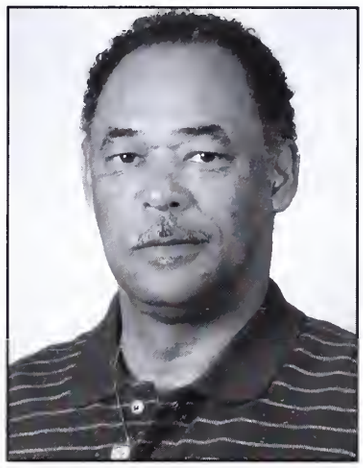
Centrol Piedmont, Northeost Florido, Tennessee



James Webster, a former Carolina teammate of Head Coach John Bunting, begins his third season as the assistant head coach and first as special teams coordinator. Webster, who is in his 26th season as a college coach, was the first assistant coach added to Bunting's staff. Webster was elevated to special teams coordinator in the offseason after coaching defensive ends the previous two years.

Like Bunting, Webster came to North Carolina in 1968 and started at linebacker for three consecutive seasons. Although the two stayed in contact after leaving the University, Webster and Bunting did not actually see each other again until the summer of 1999 at the St. Louis Rams' preseason workouts where Bunting was serving as defensive coordinator. Webster spent the summer with Bunting and the Rams, watching and learning the NFL practice routine.

In his first season back in Chapel Hill since 1973, Webster had an immediate impact on the defense and specifically, the defense ends. Carolina led the ACC and was 15th in the country in total defense in 2001, led by one of the top defensive lines in the nation. Under Webster's tutelage, defensive end Julius Peppers won both the 2001 Lombardi and Bednarik Awards, becoming the first Tar Heel to ever win a major college football award. Peppers became just the second Carolina player (Lawrence Taylor was the other) to earn consensus All-America honors. He was drafted by the Carolina Panthers with the No. 2 overall pick in the 2002 NFL Draft.

Prior to returning to Chapel Hill, Webster had spent the previous six seasons at East Carolina. Webster coached the Pirates' outside linebackers for five seasons from 1995-99 and was in charge of the defensive line in 2000. He was promoted to assistant head coach in 1999.

Webster began his coaching career at North Carolina under former head coach Bill Dooley in 1973 working with the junior varsity program. He also has been a linebackers coach at Dartmouth (1993-95) and Wake Forest (1988-93) and worked with the defensive backs at Northwestern (1982-84). Webster also served coaching stints at Florida (1974), Kansas (1975-78) and Colorado (1978-81).

A 1972 graduate of North Carolina, Webster was a standout defensive player for the Tar Heels. He was named the Most Valuable Defensive Player in the 1971 Gator Bowl and was the recipient of the ACC's Brian Piccolo Award in 1972 and the Frank Porter Graham Award as one of the top 12 seniors at UNC.

He and his wife, Cornelia, have a son, Kali, and two grandsons, Tajae and Xavier.

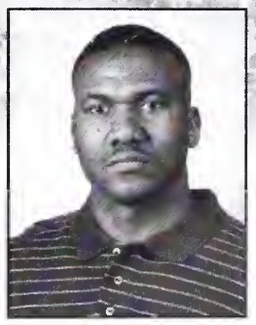
2003 CAROLINA FOOTBALL STAFF



COREY HOLLIDAY

- ASSISTANT ATHLETIC DIRECTOR
- FOOTBALL STUDENT-ATHLETE DEVELOPMENT
- 3RD YEAR AT CAROLINA
- UNC LETTERWINNER, 1990-93

Corey Holliday, who played for the Tar Heels from 1989-93, is in his third year with the football program. He was promoted to Assistant Athletic Director for Football Student-Athlete Development in 2002. Holliday works with the football team in various administrative capacities, including player relations, financial aid matters and as a liaison with the academic support services program.

Holliday was selected as one of 25 athletics administrators to participate in the inaugural 2001-02 NCAA Leadership Institute for Ethnic Minority Males.

Holliday still holds the Carolina career record for most receiving yards (2,447) and he is second in career receptions behind Na Brown. Holliday caught a pass in an ACC-record 45 consecutive games for the Tar Heels from 1990-93 and was a team co-captain as a junior and senior.

Holliday played four seasons with the Pittsburgh Steelers and was a member of four divisional championship squads. He played in Super Bowl XXX against the Dallas Cowboys and had two receptions and two special teams tackles.

Holliday also has held positions with the Atlantic Coast Conference, UNC's Educational Foundation, and The Ohio State University. Before returning to Chapel Hill, he was a Business Process Analyst for Andersen Consulting in Columbus, Ohio.

He holds two degrees from North Carolina, including a B.S. in Business Administration in 1993 and a Master's in Sports Administration in 1997. Holliday and his wife, Angela (UNC '94), have a son, Christopher.

RICK STEINBACHER

- ASSISTANT ATHLETIC DIRECTOR
- FOOTBALL OPERATIONS
- 4TH YEAR AT CAROLINA
- UNC LETTERWINNER, 1990-93

Rick Steinbacher, a 1993 University of North Carolina graduate and a four-year letterwinner on the Tar Heel football team, serves as Carolina's Assistant Athletic Director for football operations.

Steinbacher coordinates team travel plans, works with the University admissions office and the NCAA clearinghouse, supervises football office administrative personnel and handles other administrative duties as assigned by athletic director Dick Baddour and head coach John Bunting.

Steinbacher returned to his alma mater in January 2000 after working as a Vice President of Account Development with Tar Heel Sports Marketing since March 1999. He also had been affiliated with the Tar Heel Sports Network as a sideline reporter and color analyst for UNC football games for the past six seasons. From February 1994-March 1999, Steinbacher worked as an account executive with Procter and Gamble in Charlotte, N.C.

In four years as an inside linebacker at Carolina, Steinbacher made 30 starts and finished with 307 total tackles. The team's second-leading tackler in both 1992 and 1993, Steinbacher was named third-team All-Atlantic Coast Conference and a team co-captain as a senior.

Steinbacher and his wife Valerie have two daughters, Donna (8), and Kiersten (4). His brother Steve was also a football player at Carolina from 1984-88, and his sister Donna was a swimmer from 1986-87. His brother-in-law, Brian Bollinger, was an all-ACC offensive guard at Carolina (1987-91), and his sister-in-law Erika Steinbacher was an All-ACC diver at Carolina (1984-88).

CHRIS BURKEY

- GRADUATE ASSISTANT COACH
- OFFENSE
- 3RD YEAR AT CAROLINA

Chris Burkey enters his third season with the Tar Heels and first as a graduate assistant coach. He will work with the offense, focusing primarily on the offensive line. The previous two years, Burkey worked in the UNC football video office.

Burkey came to Carolina in 2001 after serving as the wide receivers and strength and conditioning coach at Tennessee Tech University in Cookeville, Tenn. Burkey lettered four seasons at wide receiver at Wingate University in Wingate, N.C. He graduated from Wingate in December 1993 with a bachelor's degree in psychology.

Following graduation, Burkey served as an assistant coach at Wingate from 1994-98. During that time, he coached quarterbacks, running backs, wide receivers and strength and conditioning.

Burkey and his wife, Susan, live in Chapel Hill.

JUSTIN ROBERTS

- GRADUATE ASSISTANT COACH
- DEFENSE
- 2ND YEAR AT CAROLINA

Justin Roberts begins his second season with the Tar Heels as a graduate assistant coach. He will work with the defense, focusing primarily on the defensive backs.

Roberts comes to Carolina after working two seasons as defensive graduate assistant at Oklahoma State where he served under Carolina defensive coordinator Dave Huxtable for one year. Roberts played four years at Missouri Southern, earning two letters as a center. He graduated from Missouri Southern in 1996 with a bachelor's degree in criminal justice and administration. Following graduation, he was an assistant coach at Columbia Hickman High School in Missouri. The next season, he became the defensive line coach at Northeast Oklahoma A&M Junior College.

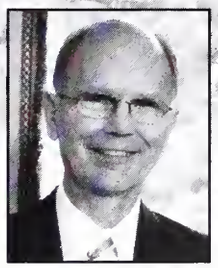
Administration

Chancellor James Moeser 110
Athletic Director Dick Baddour 111
UNC Staff Directory 112-113
Educational Foundation 114-116
University Profile 117-118



DR. JAMES MOESER

- CHANCELLOR
- 4th Year at UNC

Under the leadership of Dr. James Moeser, its ninth chancellor, the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill remains focused on an ambitious vision for the future that is both simple and profound – to be the leading public university in America.

"Our focus on Carolina's future success is driven by a desire to benefit the people and remain true to our heritage as America's first public university," Moeser says. "We want the university to be the best that it can be for the people of North Carolina and beyond. Excellence in teaching, research and public service is what our citizens deserve."

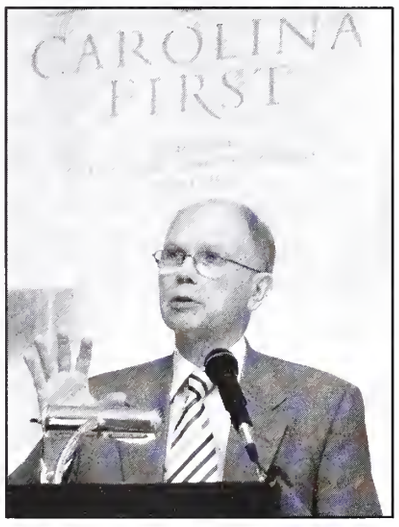
When Moeser became chancellor in August 2000, his first challenge was to help secure North Carolinians' overwhelming approval of the $3.1 billion bond referendum for higher education. The referendum, approved in November 2000, was the nation's largest higher education bond package.

That vote spurred the unprecedented transformation of what already was one of America's most beautiful campuses. The bonds are bringing Carolina $510 million for renovations, repairs and new buildings so 21st century students can learn in a 21st century environment. Also guided by a visionary master plan for growth now coming to life, the university is investing another $600-plus million from non-state sources for other buildings essential to excellence. The resulting capital construction program is believed to be the largest under way at any major American university.

Moeser leads the university's private fund-raising efforts. In October 2002 he announced a $1.8 billion goal for the Carolina First Campaign, a multi-year effort to position Carolina as the leading public university. That goal was the second largest ever announced by a U.S. public university. In May 2003, the campaign reached the $1 billion mark in gifts and pledges. Carolina First has created 100 new endowed professorships – half the total goal of 200 – and more than 330 new scholarships and fellowships toward a target of 1,000.

"I promised the people of North Carolina that if they passed the higher education bond referendum we would triple their investment with private funds," Moeser says. "The people responded overwhelmingly, and successful completion of this campaign will fulfill that pledge. The ultimate beneficiaries will be the people of North Carolina."

New academic and financial plans under development by the Moeser administration will guide long-term, mission-driven decisions about programs, facilities and initiatives. Moeser acted decisively early in his tenure to launch a campuswide initiative committing at least $245 million over the next decade to the emerging field of genome sciences. The public-private partnership received an anonymous $25 million gift for a proteomics research center. Early evidence of success includes the School of Public Health's selection by the U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention to house one of the nation's three centers of excellence for genomics and public health.



James Moeser

Attracting research funds from the federal government is among the major contributions the university makes to the North Carolina economy, and Carolina has steadily improved in this key area during Moeser's tenure. The university recently made its second appearance on the top 20 list, as compiled by the National Science Foundation, of national universities receiving federal science and engineering funding. That achievement is remarkable considering Carolina has no engineering school.

Moreover, National Institutes of Health funding for research conducted at Carolina rose almost 12 percent in fiscal 2002. Faculty attracted $264 million in NIH funding, ranking 13th overall among U.S. private and public universities. All five health affairs schools – dentistry, medicine, nursing, pharmacy and public health – ranked in the top 25 of public and private campuses.

Such success in the sciences is balanced by an equal commitment to the arts and humanities. "The humanities and social sciences are our historical areas of strength," Moeser says. "We are committed to providing our students and citizens with the finest in the arts and to preserving the magnificent architectural archive of the historic campus. I subscribe to Thomas Jefferson's view that we teach with the built environments we create in buildings and landscapes."

Moeser spent part of 2003 traveling around North Carolina meeting with legislators, talking with citizens and community leaders and, most importantly, listening. "In these difficult economic times, we at Carolina need to listen, to hear what the people are saying and to understand better what issues face all of us," he says.

Such engagement is a vital part of the tradition and culture of Carolina, where UNC President Edward Kidder Graham once told state citizens, "Send us your problems." Moeser is focusing on how the university's public service benefits citizens and how the university's faculty, staff and students can become even more engaged.

"For example, is there more that we can be doing related to the economy, to job creation, to public education and to health care?" the chancellor says. "All of these are issues that a great public university should be addressing. We're doing much of that, but I'm confident we can do even more in the future."

On campus, Moeser has strongly supported efforts to enhance undergraduate education and improve the student judiciary and Honor Court systems. He has championed the university's longtime commitment to diversity and an open intellectual community. Recent accolades include a Journal of Blacks in Higher Education ranking showing Carolina first among public campuses and sixth overall on a list assessing the success of America's leading universities in integrating African-Americans. The evaluation rated the nation's 26 highest academically ranked universities in 13 categories of racial diversity.

Moeser was unanimously elected chancellor in April 2000 by the UNC Board of Governors and arrived after four years as chancellor of the University of Nebraska at Lincoln, where he was credited with strengthening academics and private fund raising.

A concert organist, Moeser began his academic career in 1966 at the University of Kansas as an assistant professor and chairman of the department of organ. He was named dean of the School of Fine Arts in 1975. In 1984, he was named Althaus Distinguished Professor of Organ, becoming the first academic dean at Kansas ever to hold an endowed chair. In 1986, Moeser joined The Pennsylvania State University as dean of the College of Arts and Architecture and executive director of University Arts Services. Six years later, he became vice president for academic affairs and provost of the University of South Carolina, a post he held until becoming chancellor of Nebraska in 1996.

As a past member of the Board of Governors of the Josephson Institute of Ethics, Moeser helped UNC partner with the institute and the North Carolina High School Athletic Association to bring hundreds of youth coaches to an ethics seminar in 2001. The seminar was part of the institute's national campaign to implement the Arizona Sports Summit Accord, crafted in 1999 by nearly 50 influential leaders including Moeser to emphasize ethical and character-building aspects of athletic competition.

The chancellor is a past member of the Board of Directors of the National Association of State Universities and Land Grant Colleges, a voluntary group with more than 200 member institutions. He chaired the association's technology transfer commission and served on the Kellogg Commission on the Future of State and Land-Grant Universities. In North Carolina, he is a member of the North Carolina Board of Science and Technology, a trustee of the North Carolina Symphony Society Inc., a member of the Greater Triangle Regional Council and a board member for the Research Triangle Institute and the Triangle Universities Center for Advanced Studies.

A native of Colorado City, Texas, who grew up in Lubbock, Moeser graduated from the University of Texas at Austin with a bachelor's of music degree with honors in 1961 and a master's of music in musicology in 1964. The Graduate School at Texas honored Moeser with its 2001 Outstanding Alumnus Award. He studied in Berlin and Paris on a Fulbright Scholarship and earned a doctorate in musical arts from the University of Michigan in 1967. A past president of the American Guild of Organists, Moeser performed widely as a concert organist, chaired several national organ pedagogy conferences and consulted with universities and churches on organ design.

Moeser is married to Dr. Susan Dickerson Moeser, a fellow concert organist and lecturer in music and university organist at Carolina. His two children from a prior marriage are a son, Chris, an attorney in Phoenix, Ariz., and a daughter, Carter, a physical therapist in Tacoma, Wash.

2003 CAROLINA FOOTBALL ADMINISTRATION

DICK BADDOUR

- ATHLETIC DIRECTOR
- 37th YEAR AT UNC, 7TH AS A.D.

North Carolina continues to be a leader, on and off the field of competition, in the Atlantic Coast Conference and intercollegiate athletics.

Over the last six years, the Tar Heels have won more ACC championships and led all conferenee schools in the NACDA Directors' Cup on five oeeasions.

Dick Baddour, Carolina '66, has been Director of Athletics for those six years. He became the Director of Athletics on June 25, 1997, and has since overseen the most dynamic period in UNC athletics history. Within six months of taking the position, Baddour had to replace Dean Smith and Mack Brown as head coaehes in men's basketball and football, respectively.

Through the ehanges, Baddour has managed to keep the Tar Heels among the nation's best programs. Carolina is one of the most popular, successful and respected programs in the nation. He is on the verge of creating a breakthrough Leadership Training Initiative in Carolina Athletics, which should serve as a national model for student-athletes.

Dick and Lynda Baddour

Baddour combines an easy-going, visionary style of management with passion for UNC. The Goldsboro, N.C., native sets a high standard of integrity. High graduation rates, NCAA compliance, sound fiseal management, competitive success and respect are cornerstones of his mission. Baddour and his staff annually face budgetary ehallenges that go with offering a broad-based, 28-sport program that competes on an elite national level.

In 2001, he reeeived a Distinguished Service Medal from the UNC General Alumni Association.

He heads a program that is the largest in the ACC. Last year the Tar Heels finished eighth in the Directors' Cup, a program that measures NCAA post-season success. For the second consecutive year, the Tar Heels had 20 sports qualify for NCAA Tournament action. Women's soccer, traek, tennis, baseball and men's golf posted Top 10 national finishes. Women's cross country, track and swimming each had individual national champions.

Two years ago, the Tar Heels finished fourth in the Sears Cup standings. The men's soccer team won the national title, women's soccer was the national runnerup, women's lacrosse advanced to the national semifinals and the football team won the Peach Bowl. In addition, women's track and tennis posted Top 10 NCAA finishes.

Baddour hired former UNC linebacker John Bunting to direct the football program in December 2000. In his first season, Bunting engineered the greatest turnaround in school history, winning eight of the last 10 games, including the Peach Bowl, after starting the season 0-3. He won more games (8) in his first season than any other first year coach in school history.

When Smith unexpectedly stepped down in October 1997, Baddour hired Bill Guthridge to follow the winningest basketball coach in NCAA history. Guthridge took two teams to the NCAA Final Four. In 2000, Baddour named former Tar Heel Matt Doherty to replace the retiring Guthridge. Doherty led Carolina to 18 consecutive wins, a No. 1 national ranking and share of the ACC regular-season championship in 2001 and was named the Associated Press National Coach of the Year.

Following the 2003 season, Baddour turned to former Tar Heel assistant and Kansas head coach Roy Williams to lead the Tar Heel basketball program.

Baddour has hired head coaches in seven sports, including football, men's basketball, men's golf, women's tennis, baseball, men's lacrosse and rowing. Baddour hired Mike Fox, a former Tar Heel who played in the 1978 College World Series, as baseball coach; John Inman, 1984 NCAA men's golf champion and former PGA Tour golfer, as the men's golf coach; Jen Callen as the women's tennis coach; and John Haus to rebuild the men's lacrosse program. Haus won NCAA ehampionships in 1981 and 1982 as a Tar Heel defensive star and twice coached Johns Hopkins University to the national semifinals.

Fox has won 40 or more games five times at UNC; Inman led the Tar Heels to a ninth-plaee finish this year and has coached ACC champions in each of the past two years; Callen has led the women's tennis team to an ACC title and pair of Top 10 national finishes; and Haus has revitalized the men's lacrosse program and has it on the verge of a return to national prominence.

Fiscal responsibility has been a key directive. He instituted a number of measures designed to keep UNC among the nation's most competitive athletic programs, while at the same time ensuring a sound financial future. He negotiated and signed contracts with Nike to outfit the entire athletic program and with Learfield Communications, UNC's multi-media rightsholder.

The Nike deal was praised as one of the most socially conscious contracts of its kind with respect to global labor issues.

Baddour examined reeruiting, admissions and academic progress of student-athletes; finanees; student-athlete development, communications and most recently, a long-term plan for Kenan Stadium. As a result, Baddour reorganized the Athletic Department in marketing, eommunications, academic support, eomplianee, Educational Foundation, strength and eonditioning and ticket operations.

As athletics direetor, he oversaw development of UNC Finley Golf Course, the Eddie Smith Indoor Center and softball complex and the McCaskill Soccer Center and the Francis E. Henry Stadium were dedicated in 1998.

Baddour, who has served on 12 ACC committees and is past chair of the ACC Athletic Direetors, will serve as a member of ACC Committees on Football, Basketball and Television and has chaired the ACC Tennis Committee. He is a past member of the NCAA Championship Cabinet, Postseason Bowl Certification Committee and NCAA Football Issues Committee.

He is in his 37th year of continuous service to the University. Prior to his current position, he spent 11 years as the executive associate direetor of athletics.

Baddour began his UNC career in 1967 as assistant dean of men. In 1971 he became assistant dean of undergraduate admissions. In 1975, he was awarded a Master of Arts degree in education with a major in student personnel administration and a minor in business administration.

He served as Assistant Dean at the UNC School of Law from 1983 to 1986. He served as the school's director of admissions and scholarship programs, head of personnel and supervisor of career planning and placement. He was also in charge of minority recruitment.

He became associate athletic director in 1986, was promoted to senior associate director in 1990 and to executive associate in 1995.

A 1962 graduate of Goldsboro High School, Baddour and his wife, Lynda, have two sons and a daughter. Allen graduated from UNC and Carolina law school and is an Assistant District Attorney in Chatham County. He and his wife, Holly, have two sons, Henry and Jack. David is a UNC graduate, a Certified Public Accountant, a UNC law school graduate and works with Womble-Carlyle in the Research Triangle Park. He and his wife, Carey, live in Chapel Hill and have a daughter, Lauren. Jennifer is a graduate of UNC Greensboro and earned her master's from the UNC School of Social Work. She is employed as a clinical social worker with 3C Family Services in Cary. Lynda taught kindergarten and first grade for 17 years.

UNC Athletics Mission Statement

The Department of Athletics has offered high quality athletic programs for many years. Through a dedicated commitment to educational interests, competitive athletic programs, and integrity in all areas, the student-athletes, coaches and staff strive to bring credit and recognition to the University.

The mission of the Department is to sponsor a broad-based athletic program that provides educational and athletic opportunities for young men and women to grow and develop, and to serve the interests of the University hy complementing and enhancing its diversity and quality of life. Coaches, as educators, are foundational to this process. In keeping with the University's efforts to offer programs of regional and national acclaim, the Department's athletic programs strive for competitive excellence within the Atlantic Coast Conference or other similar institutions. Through its athletic programs, the University seeks to unite students, faculty, staff and alumni in a common and shared experience. The Department seeks to contribute to the diversity of the University by offering opportunities for enhanced racial/ethnic, cultural and geographic representation.

To fulfill this mission, the Department, with the approval of the Board of Trustees, has developed principles of operation to provide guidance and direction to its personnel. This Mission Statement and accompanying principles require strong dedication and commitment from all who participate in, coach in and support the Department of Athletics.

What is the purpose of the Educational Foundation?

The Educational Foundation, also known as the Rams Club, is the oldest foundation on the UNC campus. The Foundation was established in 1938 to offer financial aid to worthy student-athletes seeking an education at the University of North Carolina and to support the University's athletic program by providing services and funds for the construction of facilities or the purchase of equipment.

The Educational Foundation has provided scholarships to more than 7,000 student-athletes. Nearly 450 student-athletes will receive grant-in-aids this year at a cost of more than $8 million.

What are the different giving levels to the Rams Club?

Little Ram ($100) – Contributions of any amount are welcome, however, individuals contributing $100 or more have the opportunity to purchase season football tickets, the location of which are subject to the point system; gain access to the Rams Room in Kenan Fieldhouse for home football games; participate in football ticket exchanges; qualify for mini-season men's basketball ticket packages; purchase group travel packages; receive Tar Heel Monthly, a publication devoted to the Carolina athletics, car window decals, and invitations to annual Foundation functions which feature Carolina coaches as guest speakers.

Ram ($150) – In addition to the above, a Ram donor has the opportunity to receive a football and men's basketball media guide and participate in men's basketball ticket exchanges.

Rameses ($375)* – In addition to benefits received at the Ram level, a Rameses donor has the opportunity to purchase and maintain the assigned location of two season football tickets; additional tickets may be purchased subject to the point system.

Big Ram ($750)* – In addition to benefits received at the Ram level, a Big Ram donor has the opportunity to purchase and maintain the location of four football season tickets and receive an assigned parking space; additional tickets may be purchased subject to the point system.

Super Ram ($1,500)* – In addition to benefits received at the Ram level, a Super Ram donor has the opportunity to purchase and maintain up to eight football season tickets and receive an assigned parking space; additional tickets may be purchased subject to the point system.

Coaches Circle ($5,000) – In addition to benefits received at the Ram level, a Coaches Circle donor has the opportunity to purchase and maintain the assigned location of up to 12 football season tickets and receive two assigned parking spaces, invitations to exclusive functions throughout the year and autographed Carolina memorabilia.

*increases effective 1/1/04

Can a donor contribute in ways other than through the annual giving program?

Yes. Carolina was one of the first schools in the nation to set up an endowment program for athletics. This program consists of $75,000 half scholarships and $150,000 endowed scholarships that may be set up through various giving vehicles. A number of capital facility projects are in progress, as well, to which donors may contribute.

Does the Rams Club have chapters at the local level?

There are 45 local Rams Club chapters that meet at least once a year. Many of the coaches attend these gatherings, giving donors an opportunity to hear about the team, prospects for the upcoming season and schedules.

Who is the director of the Rams Club?

John Montgomery is in his third full year as president. The staff's offices are located at the Europa Center located across from the Sheraton off of NC 15-501 in Chapel Hill. You may contact the Rams Club by calling (919) 945-2000, by email at ef@unc.edu or by writing P.O. Box 2446, Chapel Hill NC 27515. You may also visit the Rams Club web site at ramsclub.org or the UNC athletics web site at TarHeelBlue.com.

How Can As Little As $100 Pay Big Returns?

When It's Invested In Carolina Student-Athletes Through Donations To The Educational Foundation

When you make a contribution to The Educational Foundation/Rams Club, you are not only supporting world-class athletics, but you are also ensuring the future contributions of our student-athletes to society. The far-reaching benefits of your annual donation - even as little as $100 - are impossible to measure in tangible criteria, but you can rest assured every donation pays big returns.

Because UNC ranks nationally in graduating its student-athletes, who go on to pursue professions in a wide variety of fields, your donations are not just going toward the athletic contributions a student might make while at UNC. Rather, your donations enhance the overall academic achievements of many gifted students while they represent our university at the top level of intercollegiate athletic competition.

The Educational Foundation, founded over 60 years ago, now supports 400 student-athletes in 26 varsity sports at UNC. Today's scholarship costs total over $8 million annually, and The Foundation is the only source of funds for these scholarships. If it weren't for the generous support of donors such as you, many gifted student-athletes would not receive the opportunity to obtain a superb education at one of the nation's great academic institutions. Consider your donation a wise investment!

You Also Receive Dividends As A Donor. Yearly donations to The Educational Foundation assist not only the men and women who receive athletic scholarships, but also the donors and their families. The following dividends are available at the Little Ram ($100-$149) level of giving:

- An opportunity to purchase season football tickets in Kenan Stadium.
- An opportunity to purchase mini-season basketball ticket packages.
- Access to the Ram's Room in Kenan Fieldhouse.
- Tickets to annual Super Saturday lunch featuring UNC's head basketball and football coaches.
- Invitations to other functions featuring Carolina coaches.
- Priority for tickets and group travel to away football games.
- Invitations to Foundation golf tournaments.
- Car decals, donor card, and the Tar Heel Monthly newspaper.

THE UNIVERSITY OF NORTH CAROLINA - AN ASSORTMENT OF KEY FACTS

HISTORY

The University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill was the nation's first state university to open its doors and the only public university to award degrees in the 18th century.

Authorized by the N.C. Constitution in 1776, the university was chartered by the N.C. General Assembly Dec. 11, 1789, the same year George Washington first was inaugurated as president.

The cornerstone was laid for Old East, the nation's first state university building, Oct. 12, 1793. Hinton James, the first student, arrived from Wilmington, N.C., Feb. 12, 1795.

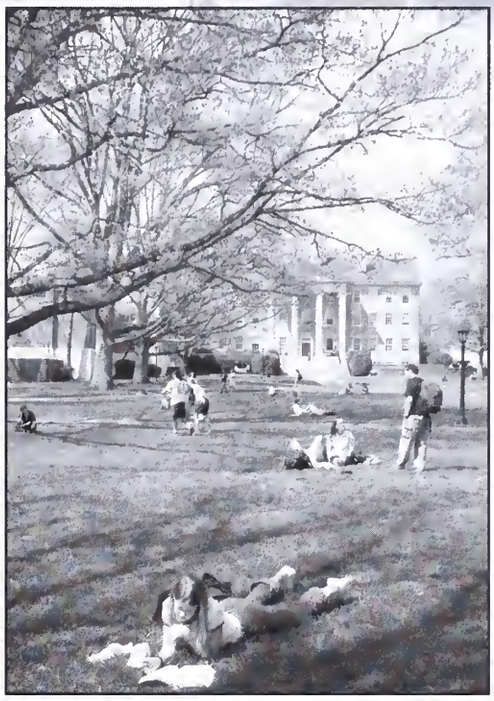
LOCATION

The 729-acre central campus includes the two oldest state university buildings, Old East and Person Hall. Old East and Playmakers Theatre, an 1852 Greek-revival building are National Historic Landmarks.

The American Society of Landscape Architects selected the Carolina campus as one of the most beautifully landscaped spots in the country. That list, released in 1999 timed to the society's centennial, is among the latest praise affirming the charm of mighty oaks, majestic quadrangles, brick sidewalks and other landscaping synonymous with UNC.

Today, the campus is undergoing an unprecedented transformation made possible in part by North Carolinians' overwhelming approval of the $3.1 billion bond referendum for higher educaiton. The referendum, approved in November 2000, was the nation's largest higher education bond package. The bonds are bringing Carolina $510 million for renovations, repairs and new buildings so 21st century students can learn in a 21st century environment. Also guided by a visionary master plan for growth now coming to life, the university is investing another $600-plus million from non-state sources, including private gifts, for other buildings essential to excellence. The resulting capital construction program is believed to be the largest underway at any major American university.

UNC anchors one corner of the famed Research Triangle Park, which has played a vital role in nurturing the economic development of North Carolina.



The University of North Carolina has been called the perfect college town by several publications.

RECENT RANKINGS

• In the U.S. News and World Report magazine's 2002 "America's Best Colleges" guide, UNC was ranked fifth among the nation's top public universities and tied for 28th overall among both public and private campuses. Among undergraduate business programs, the Kenan-Flagler Business School ranked fifth nationwide. Carolina also was mentioned for becoming the nation's first major highly selective public university to announce an end to early decision admissions.

• U.S. News also ranked numerous graduate degree programs and specialty areas at UNC among the top 25 nationwide, in April 2002. The magazine rated programs in the schools of business, education, law, medicine, nursing and public health. Several schools, degree programs and specialty areas were in the top 10.

• "The Top American Research Universities," in a 2002 edition, ranked Carolina fifth among public universities. The publication is produced by TheCenter, part of the Lombardi Program on Measuring University Performance, at the University of Florida. The rankings are based on data covering areas such as research, private support, faculty and advanced training.

• Kaplan/Newsweek's "How to Get into College" guide, in a 2003 edition, ranked Chapel Hill one of 12 "hot colleges." Wrote the editors, "... As America's oldest public university, (Carolina) has a deep sense of tradition, and that makes students feel connected."

• "The Unofficial, Unbiased Insider's Guide to the 320 Most Interesting Colleges" listed Carolina second among the top 10 "hot and trendy" national universities, based on results of the Kaplan 2002 National Survey of High School Guidance Counselors. Carolina was second behind Harvard University among top schools.

• Kiplinger's Personal Finance Magazine ranked UNC first among 100 best public colleges combining great academics and affordable tuitions. These rankings are based on cost, quality and financial aid factors. "Overall the rankings aren't radically different from our 1998 and 2000 surveys," according to the magazine." In fact, the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill tops the rankings for the third time - a remarkable threepeat for the Tar Heels."

• The 2003 Fiske Guide to Colleges labeled UNC one of 21 public universities in the United States and Canada that are a "best buy university" based on the quality of the academic offerings in relation to the cost of attendance.

• The Journal of Blacks in Higher Education concluded in 2002 that Carolina ranked first among public campuses and sixth overall for success in integrating African-Americans. The evaluation rates the nation's 26 highest academically ranked universities in 13 categories or factors of racial diversity. "The university is particularly strong in the categories dealing with student diversity," according to the journal. "The university is ranked second in the percentage of total black enrollments and first in the percentage of black freshmen. Chapel Hill also fares well in most measures of black faculty. The university has nine African-American faculty members who hold endowed chairs. That is the highest number in the United States."

• Business Week magazine listed the Kenan-Flagler Business School's master's of business administration degree program 18th in its 2002 rankings.

• The Wall Street Journal ranked Kenan-Flagler 12th among MBA degree programs. Kenan-Flagler was the only Southeastern university program listed among the top 15.

• The Financial Times, a London-based newspaper, has issued recent rankings listing Kenan-Flagler's MBA program 23rd among the top 100 worldwide and its executive education program 28th. Kenan-Flagler also was 8th among U.S. schools for top salary increases among alumni surveyed.

KEY STATISTICS

• Now in its third century, UNC belongs to the select group of 61 American and two Canadian campuses forming the Association of American Universities. UNC's academic offerings span a broad range of fields and include 69 bachelor's, 111 master's and 75 doctoral degrees as well as professional degrees in dentistry, medicine, pharmacy and law. Five health schools -- which, with UNC Hospitals, comprise one of the nation's most complete academic medical centers -- are integrated with liberal arts, basic sciences and high-tech academic programs.

• In fall 2002, Carolina enrolled about 26,000 students from all 100 North Carolina counties, the other 49 states and more than 100 other countries. Eighty-one percent of Carolina's 15,961 undergraduates were from North Carolina. Sixty-onepercent of Carolina's students were undergraduates, 30 percent graduates and another 9 percent were professional degree-seekers.

• Those students learn from a 3,000-member faculty. Many of those faculty members hold or have held major posts in virtually every national scholarly or professional organization and have earned election to the most prestigious academic groups.

• The Carolina academic community benefits from a library with more than 5.3 million volumes and perennially ranks among the best research libraries in North Americaas judged by the Association of Research Libraries.

• Carolina's 230,072 alumni live in all 50 states and in 141 countries around the world. Notable alumni include writers Thomas Wolfe, Shelby Foote and Jill McCorkle; athletes Michael Jordan, Vince Carter, Mia Hamm, Marion Jones and Davis Love III; and journalists Roger Mudd, Charles Kuralt, Stuart Scott and Tom Wicker. Others include former White House Chief of Staff Erskine Bowles; former White House Communications Director Don Baer; U.S. Sen. John Edwards; Bill Harrison, chief executive officer of Chase Manhattan Bank; Scott Livengood, Krispy Kreme Doughnut chairman, president and chief executive officer; Sallie L.

Krawcheck, chairman and chief executive officer of Smith Barney, a division of Citigroup; U.S. President James Polk; geneticist Francis Collins; actors Jack Palance, George Grizzard and Andy Griffith, as well as actresses Louise Fletcher and Sharon Lawrence; editorial cartoonist Jeff MacNelly; corporate banker Hugh McColl, and fashion designer Alexander Julian.

STUDENTS

• Recent freshman classes at Carolina have set new standards of excellence as measured by the rigorous coursework students have taken in high school, as well as their grades and SAT scores. The incoming freshmen of 2003 are continuing that trend. Besides setting a new record for high school preparation, the newest class will become the very best group of first-year students Carolina has ever admitted.

• UNC students have a long tradition of outstanding achievement. In December 2002, senior Morehead Scholar Karine Dubè of Canada was chosen for a Rhodes Scholarship, becoming the 36th UNC student to be so honored since 1902 and the 13th UNC winner since 1980. Carolina ranks second among public universities for the number of Rhodes Scholars produced.

• In all, 11 Carolina undergraduates won prestigious national and international scholarships in 2002-03: one Rhodes, one Truman, one Luce, one Churchill, one Udall, three Goldwaters, two Cookes and one Rieser. Besides Dube, those outstanding student leaders honored were: David Lyndon W. Angeles of Kings Mountain, a junior international studies and French major, won a Harry S. Truman Scholarship, which nurtures students with a commitment to public service careers. Fourteen UNC students have been Truman winners since 1992.

• The newest Tar Heels entering Carolina this fall will include 14 Robertson Scholars. Along with 18 others who will matriculate at Duke University, they are part of the third class of this unique scholarship program, created by a $24 million gift from Julian and Josie Robertson. The full-tuition scholarship will allow each student to spend a semester in residence at theother campus. The scholarships bring together two of the nation's finest universities. The Robertson program also fosters enhanced collaboration between both campuses.

• Carolina's freshman class also will include 40 new Morehead Scholars: 23 of North Carolina's most dynamic young leaders, 12 from 8 states across the U.S., two from Great Britain and three from Canada. Among the largest and most competitive scholarships at U.S. colleges and universities, the Morehead Awards cover all expenses for four years of undergraduate study, including summer enrichment experiences. The program, now more than a half-century old, is modeled after the Rhodes Scholarships to Oxford University in England

FACULTY

• Professor Oliver Smithies was a recipient of the 2001 Albert Lasker Award for Basic Medical Research, the nation's most distinguished honor for outstanding contributions to basic medical research. The Albert and Mary Lasker Foundation presented the award. Smithies, excellence professor of pathology and laboratory medicine, shared the honor with two other scientists for their pioneering work using mouse embryonic stem cells to create animals models of human disease. The Lasker Awards have often been called "America's Nobels," and more than 60researchers who won a Lasker went on to receive the Nobel Prize.

• Carolina's most recent member of the prestigious National Academy of Science is Dr. Richard V. Wolfenden, Alumni Distinguished Professor of chemistry, biochemistry and physics. He studies enzyme mechanisms and water affinities of biological compounds. His work helped lead to the development of a category of drugs known as ACE inhibitors, used to treat hypertension.

• Carolina now has 10 faculty members in the prestigious National Academy of Sciences,along with five members of the National Academy of Engineering, 23 members of the academy's Institute of Medicine and 25 members of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences.

• Recent Carolina additions to the Institute of Medicine areDr. Luis A. Diaz, C.E. Wheeler Jr. distinguished professor at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill School of Medicine; and Sheila T. Leatherman, an adjunct professor in the UNC School of Public Health's department of health policy and administration.

• Two faculty members and Carolina alumnus C.D. (Dick) Spangler Jr. also were recently elected fellows of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences in recognition of "preeminent contributions" in their fields. Faculty fellows, honored for their contributions in the humanities and arts, were Drs. Thomas E. Hill Jr., Kenan professor, philosophy, and Alan R. Shapiro, William Rand Kenan Jr. Distinguished professor, English. Spangler was recognized for business, corporate and philanthropic leadership.

RESEARCH

• Attracting research funds from the federal government is among the major contributions the university makes to the North Carolina economy. A new ranking affirms that the Carolina faculty's ability to do just that places them among the nation's best. The university ranks 13th overall for total funding awarded by the National Institutes of Health in fiscal 2002 - a 12 percent increase. Carolina is the top public university in the South and one of only five Southern universities, public or private, cited in the NIH's top 20. NIH, part of the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, is the principal biomedical research arm of the federal government. NIH research institutes are fighting diseases including AIDS, alcoholism, arthritis, cancer, diabetes and stroke, as well as tackling health topics related to aging, women and children, drug abuse, the environment and rapidly emerging multidisciplinary fields such as genomics and proteomics.

• Carolina placed 17th in the National Science Foundation's most recent report on federal academic science and engineering obligations for fiscal 2001- advancing three spots from the fiscal 2000 funding totals. UNC ranks as the top public university in the South and one of only two N.C. campuses featured in the top 20 for fiscal 2001, the latest year of funding reported by the NSF.

• UNC ranked third in the NSF's funding for social sciences research during fiscal 2001, the highest achieved by UNC in the various science and engineering fields included in the NSF's research and development expenditure tables. The department of sociology is theleading department in the nation for such NSF funding.

EDUCATIONAL AND CULTURAL RESOURCES

• From the Ackland Art Museum to the Morehead Planetarium and Science Center to the North Carolina Botanical Garden, Carolina offers a vast array of educational and cultural opportunities. The Ackland exhibits from a permanent collection of more than 15,000 works of art, particularly rich in Old Master paintings and sculptures by artists including Degas, Rubens and Pisarro; Indian miniatures; Japanese paintings; and North Carolina folk art. Astronomy enthusiasts and schoolchildren from across North Carolina enjoy the Morehead Planetarium. Besides its displays of native and unusual plants and its nature trails, the Botanical Garden offers art exhibits, nature walks and courses on topics ranging from home gardening to botanical illustration.

• Construction is currently under way for a new building to house the Sonja Haynes Stone Center for Black Culture and History, funded by private Donations. It will house classrooms, seminar rooms, a gallery, dance studio and spaces for performances, lectures, meetings and offices. Now based in the Frank Porter Graham Student Union, the center is among the nation's leading centers for research, teaching, learning and public service related to black history and culture. The new building is scheduled to be completed in 2004.

PUBLIC SERVICE

• UNC's public service programs reach every region of North Carolina, helping communities protect public health, improve schools and medical services, stimulate business, plan for growth, understand cultural heritage, and enrich the quality of people's daily lives. Launched in 1999, the Carolina Center for Public Service coordinates and catalyzes campus outreach activities around the state. Other mainstays of UNC's public service efforts include the Institute of Government, the nation's largest and most diversified university-based government training and research organization, and the N.C Area Health Education Centers (AHEC) Program, which is based at the School of Medicine and helps meet health-care needs statewide.

• Destiny, Carolina's traveling science laboratory, takes the latest technology and teaching tools to North Carolina schools. The 40-foot bus - dubbed "The Best Thing in Science Education to Hit the Road" - is full of state-of-the-art equipment for wet laboratory experiments, Internet exploration and carefully honed curriculum materials. The project, supported by a grant from GlaxoSmithKline, is among the first of its kind nationwide. Destiny's key goal is to increase student access to modern-day science and information-technology learning, especially in underserved and rural areas. Since October 2000, Destiny has served 700 educators, 7,500 students through lab experiences aboard the bus, 250 schools, 90 school systems and 88 counties.

• Kenan Institute Charlotte, a joint venture between the Kenan-Flagler Business School and The Belk College of Business at UNC-Charlotte, works closely with government agencies, non-profit organizations and local and statewide partners to strengthen the Charlotte-area business climate. Services provided include research services, small business managerial and technical assistance, and workshops and training programs.

KENAN STADIUM

Carolina football plays its home games at Kenan Memorial Stadium (cap. 60,000), one of the most picturesque athletic venues in America. Kenan Stadium has been the home of the Tar Heels since 1927 and the thrill of playing in or attending a game there is as exhilarating now as it was when it was first constructed.

The stadium's beauty, charm and simple elegance have not been diminished with the expansion project that added nearly 8,000 seats, a state-of-the-art football facility, chancellor's box and preferred seating box. The renovation and expansion project was financed through a combination of private contributions through the Educational Foundation and bonded indebtedness from the athletic department through the sale of revenue-generating bonds. The Educational Foundation and its members have committed more than $50 million to the project.

Considering its majestic setting among the Carolina pines, many observers say Kenan Stadium is the most beautiful football facility in the country.

Flying Fotos

The most recent addition to Kenan Stadium is a $2 million scoreboard at the east end of the stadium that was financed through an agreement with Learfield Communications, UNC's multi-media rights holder. The $2-million-figure includes the cost of the video board, installation and a new public address system. Over 40 new speakers have been added throughout Kenan Stadium.

Considering its majestic setting among the Carolina pines, many observers say Kenan Stadium is the most beautiful football facility in the country. One national sports magazine rated Kenan one of the five best places in America to watch a college football game. For scenery, atmosphere and charm, it cannot be surpassed.

The stadium has been expanded several times since its completion in 1927. In each instance, though, great care was taken to keep its fundamental beauty intact. The addition of the Frank H. Kenan Football Center and the North Side Stadium Preferred Seating Box have further enhanced the stadium's status as a campus landmark.

"Kenan Stadium brings back so many memories," says Head Coach John Bunting. "So many players have given so much of themselves on that field. I had some great times as a player in Kenan Stadium and as head coach, I want to help produce many more memories for our fans. In my opinion, it is the best place to experience college football."

The Kenan Football Center houses the Carolina football program, including the locker rooms, weight room, training room, equipment room, players' lounge, computer labs and study areas, 100-plus seat auditorium, coaches' offices, theater and Hall of Honor.

The Hall of Honor, located on the ground floor, is a multi-media history of Carolina football. Photographs, awards, trophies and artifacts detailing the rich and storied history of the sport in Chapel Hill are on display. The 18 Carolina players who have been honored by placing their names and numbers on display in the stadium are also featured in the Hall of Honor. Special plaques, flags and an audio-visual presentation on each player are highlighted.

The James A. Heavner Theater was made possible by a special gift by the former executive producer of the Tar Heel Sports Network and president of Vilcom. The theater is a 30-person mini-theater equipped with surround sound and seven dramatic videos presenting the history of UNC football.

A number of rooms in the Kenan Football Center have been dedicated in the honor or memory of Carolina's benefactors, fans and athletic personalities. They include the Brinkley Lounge, the fourth floor reception area named for Harvey M. Brinkley Jr.; the Don McCauley/Paul Miller Head Coach's Suite; the Norman M. (Buddy) Black Jr. Lounge, the fourth floor hospitality area; the Oscar Davenport/Chris Keldorf Quarterback Meeting Room, as given by Bob Biggerstaff; the Jo Allison Clary Smith Weight Room; the Carolina Football Players' Locker Room, named in behalf of the more than 400 former Tar Heels who donated more than $2 million to the project; Koury Box North, box seating on the north side of the stadium named for Maurice J. Koury; the John W. Pope Academic Support Facility; the John W. Pope Stadium Box, a stadium box on the north side; the John D. Swofford Auditorium and the Jimmy W. Garrell coaches meeting room.

The expansion project, in which great care was taken to ensure that the surrounding environment would be altered as little as possible, ties the north and south concourses to either end of the lower deck via the third level of the Kenan Center, making fan movement around the stadium much easier.

The football center is named in honor of the late Frank H. Kenan, one of the school's most generous benefactors. Kenan was a Durham resident and chief executive officer of Kenan Transport Company in Chapel Hill. He passed away at age 83 in 1996.

Kenan, a 1935 Carolina graduate, was the great-great-grandson of General James Kenan, a member of the University's founding board of trustees. An Atlanta native, Kenan had a tremendous impact on the growth of the University. He served on many campus boards, including the Board of Visitors and the Educational Foundation Board of Directors.

In recent years the William R. Kenan Jr. Charitable Trust, of which he was a trustee, has donated more than $100 million to schools in the state's consolidated university system, including Carolina, NC State and the N.C. School of the Arts. Among other things, the trust funds 92 William R. Kenan Jr. Professorships at 56 colleges and universities nationwide.

Kenan served on the steering committee of Carolina's Bicentennial Campaign, the University's largest fund-raising effort. Gifts by him, his family and the trust during the campaign exceeded $31 million. The largest portion of that was targeted for the business school. In 1991 the school was renamed the Kenan-Flagler Business School after a $10 million gift.

The preferred seating box that rises above the second deck of the grandstand on the north side of the stadium has outdoor seating for almost 1,200 spectators. That includes the Chancellor's Box on the second level of the box 45 feet above the ground. The fourth level, 68 feet high, has outdoor seating for more than 1,000, plus concessions and a 7,500 square foot lounge. There is a smaller lounge and food preparation areas on the third floor.

The Kenan Football Center and preferred seating box are the predominant changes in a multi-year renovation plan that began in 1995. A new playing field was installed that spring. The new turf includes an improved drainage system beneath the field that drains through the field itself rather than off the sides of the field as in the past. Prior to the 1996 season the restrooms and concession stands were expanded and renovated.

Another significant stadium expansion took place prior to 1988 and involved adding 2,000 choice seats between the 40-yard lines where the press box and chancellor's box formerly stood. A new press box was constructed on top of the upper deck on the stadium's south side. It is a one-level elongated structure, running from 10-yard line to 10-yard line.

Also part of the 1987-88 project were a permanent lighting system, a chancellor's lounge on the north side of the field and a football lettermen's lounge on the south side. The lights are part of a General Electric low-mount system which minimizes the height of the lightpoles. Cost of the entire project was $7 million. It was funded by private gifts and bonds.

William Rand Kenan Jr. deserves the credit for originally making the stadium a part of the University. He was born in North Carolina in 1873 and graduated from Carolina in 1894. An international industrialist, Kenan discovered carbide and made monumental progress in the field of chemistry. During his business career he was president of The Florida East Coast Railroad, The Florida East Coast Hotel Company, The West Palm Beach Water Company and the Florida East Coast Car Ferry Company.

A state-of-the-art scoreboard was constructed in the offseason and will be operational for the 2003 season opener.

He was a director of Florida Power and Light Company and built the first power plant in Miami in the early 1900s.

The stadium was built as a memorial to his parents, William R. Kenan and Mary Hargrave Kenan. Construction began in November 1926 and was completed the following August. Complete cost of the stadium and accompanying fieldhouse was $303,000.

Originally, the stadium was to be built through funds raised by alumni donations, and by June 1926, a group of nearly 40 alumni had contributed $27,926. At this time, however, a copy of the prospectus and plan of financing the stadium came into the hands of Kenan, who expressed an interest in the proposal. Kenan was considering establishing a memorial to his parents, and the pressing need for a stadium and the possibilities of the beauty, dignity and permanence it presented, suggested to him that the benefaction he contemplated may well take the form of a memorial stadium. The Stadium Committee immediately endorsed his proposal and on the very day in November 1926 on which Kenan visited the planned site, he announced his financial gift to build the stadium.

"I can say that here at the University of North Caralina they have facilities secand ta none in college faatball. (Our visit) has been very impressive."

• Carolina Panthers Head Coach Jahn Fax

"The facilities are beautiful. The additians in the football center, the hall af fame, weight roam, lacker raams and meeting raoms are as fine as any I've seen an any callege campus. I wish I cauld ga back ta my callege days and get recruited ta Chapel Hill. This a beautiful place."

• Kansas City Chiefs President Carl Petersan

Kenan remained very interested in Kenan Stadium throughout his lifetime. In the 1950s he gave a $1,000,000 contribution to construct a second deck on the stadium. After Kenan's death in 1965 the William R. Kenan Jr. Charitable Trust, which was established by his will, donated $1,000,000 to enlarge and modernize Kenan Fieldhouse.

In 1988 the Kenan Trust made another $1,000,000 gift to complete the new chancellor's box on the North Side. Another lasting memory of William R. Kenan Jr. is the Kenan Athletic Scholarship Endowment, valued at over $1,000,000. Each year a student-athlete is awarded a full scholarship from this fund.

Besides giving the stadium to the University, Mr. Kenan also sponsored and financed the famous Kenan Professorships. He was awarded the honorary degree of LL.D. by his alma mater in 1944.

In the first game played there, Carolina defeated Davidson, 27-0, on November 12, 1927.

Carolina's all-time record at Kenan Stadium is 238-148-16. The most points scored by the Tar Heels in Kenan came in the third game played there as Carolina whipped Wake Forest, 65-0, in the 1928 season opener.

As originally built, the stadium seated 24,000. However, in 1963 the benefactor added portable stands and then an upper deck to the permanent stands, which increased capacity to 48,000. That was expanded to 50,000 in 1979, 52,000 in 1988, 57,500 in 1997 and 60,000 in 1998.

At the East end of the stadium is the Kenan Fieldhouse, home of the Student-Athlete Development Center. A 20,000 square foot building, it is a one-of-a-kind facility. For study purposes, it contains a language lab, video room, computer lab, theatre-style lecture hall, several reading rooms and numerous tutorial rooms. UNC's academic counseling staff has the advantage of using the most modern techniques in assisting student-athletes.

Capacity crowds have come to be expected at Kenan. In 1997, the Tar Heels played in front of a record-shattering crowd of 62,000 on Nov. 8, 1997, as fifth-ranked Carolina battled No. 2 Florida State. The largest crowd to watch a game prior to the most recent major expansion was 54,300 as Carolina defeated N.C. State, 31-17, in 1994.

The 1983 season saw another first in the stadium — a game played under artificial lights. The Carolina-Duke game was played in the late afternoon so it could be televised throughout the ACC area. Portable lights were brought in since the second half was played after sunset. Portable lights were also used in the 1987 Clemson game which was televised nationally by ESPN.

The 1991 season opener versus Cincinnati and that season's Clemson game, which was televised nationally by ESPN, were the first true night games ever played at Kenan Stadium.

TAR HEELS CLOSE OUT SEASON WITH 13TH CONSECUTIVE WIN OVER DUKE

Dan Orner booted a 47-yard field goal as time expired to give Carolina a dramatic 23-21 victory over Duke. The win was Carolina's first ACC win of the season, but the 13th consecutive victory over the Blue Devils, who have not beaten the Tar Heels since 1989. Orner, who earlier in the game had missed two field goals and an extra point, redeemed himself with the game-winning kick. It was the first time Carolina had won on a last-second field goal since Lee Gliarmis beat Maryland in 1986.

Quarterback Darian Durant came back from a five-week absence due to a broken thumb and completed 21 of 35 attempts for 262 yards and one touchdown. Durant was expected to miss the remainder of the season after hitting his right thumb on a helmet and breaking a bone in the loss at Virginia on Oct. 19.

Carolina finished the season 3-9 overall and 1-7 in the Atlantic Coast Conference.

AIKEN SETS SCHOOL RECORDS

In 2002, wide receiver Sam Aiken set the single-season school record with 68 receptions and 990 receiving yards, becoming just the second Tar Heel ever with more than 900 yards receiving. Aiken led in the ACC in receptions per game (5.67) and was second in receiving yards per game (82.5). He finished his Carolina career third in receiving yards (2,205), third in touchdowns (15) and fourth in receptions (146).

Aiken posted two of the top six single-game receiving totals in school history this season with 174 yards in the season opener against Miami (Ohio) and 179 yards at Virginia. In the final game of the 2002 regular season, Aiken caught eight balls for 88 yards to help Carolina defeat Duke for the 13th consecutive time. Aiken's biggest catch was a 10-yard receptions on 4th-and-4 that set up Dan Orner's 47-yard game-winning field goal.

Against Maryland, Aiken had a career-high 10 catches for 102 yards to become just the fifth player in Carolina history to top 2,000 receiving yards in a career. He also tied Bob Lacey for the school record for most catches in a game by a senior with 10. Lacey had 10 catches against South Carolina in 1963.

Aiken had one of his best games as a Tar Heel at Virginia, catching seven passes for 179 yards and two touchdowns. In the first half against the Cavaliers, Aiken caught a quick slant from Durant, split two defenders and raced 77 yards for a touchdown. It was his career-best and the ninth-longest pass play in school history. Aiken later caught a 14-yard touchdown pass from C.J. Stephens.

Aiken had three touchdowns over 70 yards in his career. Last season, he caught a 75-yarder vs. Wake Forest and a 72-yarder vs. Duke. He and L.C. Stevens are the only two UNC players with three receptions over 70 yards in Carolina history. He had three 100-yard games in 2002 and five in his career.

An outstanding person, Aiken lived in Fuquay-Varina (approximately 45 minutes from Chapel Hill) during his senior season so that he could help his mother take care of his three brothers and one sister.

PASSING OFFENSE SETS RECORDS

Carolina led the ACC and ranked 21st in the country in passing offense, averaging a school-record 266.6 yards per game. The Tar Heels also set school records for total passing yards (3,199) and passing attempts (433) and 237 pass completions.

HEEL PRINTS

- More than 73 percent of the players on Carolina's 2002 roster (84 of 115) were freshmen or sophomores.
- Carolina played seven true scholarship freshmen in 2002, the most since seven saw action in 1990.
- According to the Sagarin rankings, Carolina's regular-season schedule was the sixth-most difficult in the country.
- Tight end Bobby Blizzard had 100 yards receiving against Florida State. That is the most yards receiving by a tight end at UNC since Mike Chatham had 144 in 1979.
- Free safety Dexter Reid led the ACC with 13.8 tackles per game (166 total). The school record for tackles in a season is 171 by linebacker Buddy Curry in 1979.
- 21 of Carolina's 28 touchdowns this season come through the air.

2003 CAROLINA FOOTBALL REVIEW

CHANGES IN THE LINEUP

Due to a rash of injuries, particularly along the defensive line, Carolina head coach John Bunting shuffled the starting lineup throughout the 2002 season. Carolina started a different defensive lineup in every game this season and only three players on defense started every game at the same position.

Injuries to nine of Carolina's projected starters this season cost the Tar Heels a total of 49 games (Robert Harris - 12; Eric Davis - 11; TB Andre' Williams - 8; DE Will Chapman - 5; QB Darian Durant - 5; DE Issac Mooring - 4; CB Michael Waddell - 2; LB Clarence Gaddy - 1; OT Willie McNeill - 1).

TAR HEELS STRENGTH OF SCHEDULE

According to the Sagarin rankings, Carolina played the sixth-most difficult regular-season schedule in the country.

REID FIRST IN ACC, SECOND IN NATION IN TACKLES

Junior free safety Dexter Reid was one of the bright spots on the Carolina defense in 2002, leading the ACC and finishing second in the nation with 13.8 tackles per game. Reid was named first-team All-ACC after finishing the year with 166 total tackles, the second-highest figure in school history and just five shy of the school record of 171 set by linebacker Buddy Curry in 1979. The last player to have over 150 tackles in a season was linebacker Dwight Hollier in 1990.

He set a school record for most tackles by a defensive back with his 119th stop against Maryland. The previous record was 118 by Billy-Dee Greenwood in 1999. Reid had a career high 22 tackles vs. Clemson on Nov. 9, including 16 solo stops and six assists. Reid also had 21 tackles in the season-opener against Miami (Ohio). He registered double digits in tackles in all but two games.

DURANT'S NUMBERS IMPRESSIVE EVEN AFTER MISSING FOUR GAMES

Despite suffering a thumb injury against Virginia which caused him to miss four games, sophomore quarterback Darian Durant ranked among the best quarterbacks in the nation in 2002. Durant's total offense (285.6) and passing yards per game (265.2) were tops in the ACC. However, because Durant did not play in 75 percent of Carolina's games (he played in 8 of 12), he was not listed among the NCAA statistical leaders. The last time a Tar Heel led the ACC in total offense was Paul Miller in 1971.

Durant threw for a school-record 417 yards and five touchdowns against Arizona State on October 5 and was named ACC Offensive Back of the Week. It was the first 400-yard game of his career and was the second-best game by an ACC quarterback in 2002. The following week against NC State, Durant threw for 266 yards, setting a school record for most passing yards (683) in two consecutive games. The previous record of 680 was set by Ronald Curry in 2000 season against Marshall and Georgia Tech.

Durant passed for more than 230 yards in seven of eight games in 2002. He had just 158 yards passing against Texas, but had his best day rushing the ball with 74 yards on 12 carries, including a career-long 27-yard run for a touchdown.

In just his second year, and after making just 10 career starts, Durant is already making a mark on the UNC career record book. He currently ranks first in career completion percentage (.614), second in career touchdowns (33), fourth in career passing yards (3,966), sixth in career total offense (4,255) and seventh in career completions (289).

In 2001, he set freshmen single-season records for touchdown passes (17), completions (142), passing yards (1,843) and total offense (1,971).

KEEPING THE TIGHT ENDS INVOLVED

After rarely looking to its tight ends for offense in 2001, Carolina enjoyed good production out of Zach Hilton and Bobby Blizzard in 2002.

While Hilton caught just 12 passes for 88 yards and two touchdowns in 2001, he and Blizzard combined for 697 yards and six touchdowns on 47 catches in 2002.

A UNC tight end caught a touchdown in six of the 12 games. Blizzard had 28 catches for 439 yards and five touchdowns and was voted honorable-mention All-ACC. Hilton had 19 catches for 258 yards and one touchdown.

YOUTHFUL TAR HEELS

John Bunting's Tar Heels fielded one of the most inexperienced teams in the ACC in 2002. Over 73 percent of Carolina's roster (84 of 115) was made up of freshmen or sophomores and there were only 12 seniors on the squad. UNC had a total of 49 freshmen, including 34 scholarship and 15 walk-ons. Of those 49, 21 were true freshman and 13 were redshirts. In 2002, 16 freshmen saw playing time, including four players – DT Kendall High, LB Doug Justice, LB Jeff Longhany, OG Kyle Ralph – who started at least one game.

Carolina's roster contained 49 freshmen, 35 sophomores, 33 juniors and 12 seniors. Of the 45 upperclassmen (juniors and seniors) only five started more than one game prior to 2002. Tight end Zach Hilton is the only senior that had ever started more than one regular-season game entering the 2002 season.

ORNER OUTSTANDING

Place-kicker Dan Orner, who transferred to UNC from Michigan State and sat out last season, kicked three field goals over 50 yards (52, 51, 55) in Carolina's 30-22 victory vs. Syracuse. They were his first three career college field goal attempts. Orner never attempted a field goal at Michigan State and Carolina did not attempt a FG in the season-opener vs. Miami (Ohio). Orner tied an NCAA record with three field goals of at least 50 yards in the same game. The others to accomplish the feat were Jerry DePoyster of Wyoming in 1966, Sergio Lopez-Chavero of Wichita State in 1984 and Tim Douglas of Iowa in 1998. Orner's 55-yard kick was a school record and the longest ever by a Syracuse opponent. The previous UNC record was a 54-yarder by Kenny Miller against Florida State in 1985.

Orner finished the season with a 47-yard game-winning field goal at Duke, preserving Carolina's 13-game winning streak over the Blue Devils.

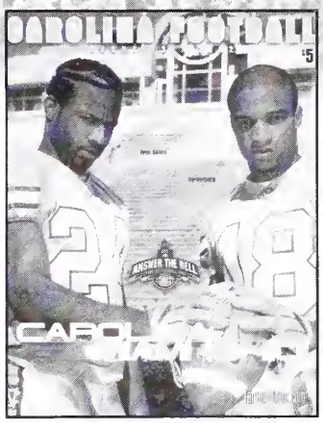
GAME 1: MIAMI (OHIO) 27, NORTH CAROLINA 21



August 31, 2002
at Kenan Stadium
Chapel Hill, N.C.

Carolina rolled up 447 total offense yards and 24 first downs in less than 22 minutes time of possession, but the Tar Heels committed nine turnovers and lost the season opener to Miami (Ohio), 27-21.

The Tar Heels lost six fumbles and threw three interceptions. The nine turnovers match the Atlantic Coast Conference single-game record and were the most by UNC since the 1930s.

Quarterbacks Darian Durant and C.J. Stephens combined to complete 28 of 46 passes for 353 yards and two touchdowns. Durant was picked off three times, however, and lost two fumbles. He was involved in a third fumble when a shotgun snap bounced off his facemask.

Miami twice built two touchdown leads late in the game, but the Tar Heels cut the lead to six points on each occasion. A last-minute onsides kick recovery by the Tar Heels fueled hopes of a miracle rally, but a last-gasp pass fell incomplete in the end zone as time expired.

The game was played in constant rain, which was heavy at times.

Carolina committed six of the nine turnovers in the first half. Durant was picked off while throwing deep downfield on the first drive of the game. Amazingly, the Tar Heels then lost fumbles on each of their final five full possessions of the half.

The RedHawks opened the scoring midway through the first quarter as they drove 64 yards in seven plays. Luke Clemens capped the drive with a 1-yard touchdown run. The key play on the drive was a 35-yard pass from Ben Roethlisberger to wide receiver Jason Branch on a 3rd-and-8 play from the UNC 37.

The Tar Heels answered right away, moving 68 yards in 10 plays. Durant completed four passes, including two to Jarwarski Pollock, and Jacque Lewis muscled into the end zone from three yards out.

Turnovers dominated the game in the second quarter. Miscommunication on the exchange prompted a fumble Miami recovered at the Tar Heel 19. Five plays later, Roethlisberger tossed a 3-yard touchdown pass to give Miami a 13-7 advantage.

Then, Durant drove UNC into Miami territory, but he lost a fumble at the RedHawk 35.

Carolina marched 71 yards to the Miami 11-yardline on its next series, but Andre Williams was stripped of the ball at the 8-yard-line.

After forcing another Miami punt, the Tar Heels gave the ball back on a Willie Parker fumble. That miscue led to a field goal attempt, but Miami's holder dropped the snap.

Remarkably, UNC fumbled once again on its next possession. Durant tried to step up in the pocket, but was sacked and lost the ball at the UNC 35. The Tar Heel defense held yet again, as Malcolm Stewart forced a fumble that Eric Davis recovered.

Miami threatened to extend its lead early in the third quarter as they drove for a first-and-goal at the UNC 1. But the UNC defense held on five consecutive plays from the one. Safety Dexter Reid, who finished with a career-high 21 tackles, had two tackles, including the one that gave the ball to UNC on downs.

However, Durant was intercepted at the 19-yard line as he attempted to throw a third-down pass out of bounds. Four plays later, Cal Murray scored on a 2-yard run to give Miami a 20-7 lead.

Durant hit tight end Bobby Blizzard with a 9-yard scoring pass with 11:03 to play to pull within 20-14. The RedHawks answered with a 67-yard scoring drive in seven plays to go ahead, 27-14, with 8:13 remaining.

C.J. Stephens came off the bench and hit three passes for 66 yards, including a 37-yarder to Aiken for a touchdown that narrowed the gap to 27-21 with 39 seconds left to play.

Topher Roberts' onsides kick was recovered by Michael Waddell at the Miami 47. A Stephens to Brandon Russell completion and a pass interference penalty gave UNC one final chance from the 23, but Stephens' pass fell incomplete.

GAME 2: NORTH CAROLINA 30, SYRACUSE 22

September 7, 2002
at Carrier Dome
Syracuse, N.Y.

Dan Orner tied an NCAA record by kicking three 50-yard field goals and Darian Durant threw a pair of touchdown passes in the fourth quarter to lead the Tar Heels to a 30-22 win over Syracuse at the Carrier Dome.

Orner, a junior transfer from Michigan State, connected on the first three field goals of his collegiate career – from 52, 51 and 55 yards. He became the first player in ACC history and the fourth in college football history to make three field goals from at least 50 yards in a single game. The 55-yarder, which gave Carolina a 16-14 lead in the third quarter, set the UNC record for longest field goal.

Durant completed 19 of 34 passes for 284 yards and had a pair of key runs in the second half. He connected with 10 different receivers, including Sam Aiken, who had five grabs for 91 yards.

Carolina outgained the ground control minded Orangemen, 436-254. The Tar Heels had 22 first downs (seven more than Syracuse) and had a time of possession edge of 35:22 to 24:38.

The Tar Heels dominated the second half. Over the final two periods, UNC gained 275 yards and compiled 15 first downs in 23 minutes. By comparison, the Orange had the ball for just seven minutes and gained 99 yards and four first downs.

Unlike the season opener against Miami, the Tar Heels were fast out of the gate, racing to a 10-0 lead after one quarter. The Tar Heels kicked off to the Orange to start the game, but safety DeFonte Coleman intercepted a tipped pass on the third play from scrimmage to give Carolina the ball in Syracuse territory. Orner capitalized on the turnover with a 52-yard field goal on his first collegiate attempt.

Later in the first quarter, linebacker Malcolm Stewart thwarted a Syracuse drive by sacking quarterback R.J. Anderson for a 7-yard loss. The Tar Heels began the ensuing drive at midfield and scored on their first play of the series. Tailback Willie Parker dashed around the left corner, got a crushing downfield block from receiver Chesley Borders and scored untouched from 50 yards for a 10-0 lead.

Syracuse pulled ahead in the second quarter with a pair of short touchdown runs within 58 seconds of one another.

Walter Reyes capped a 14-play, 84-yard drive with a 1-yard scoring run. Durant then fumbled while being chased out of the pocket, a turnover that gave the Orange the ball at the UNC 14. On the first play following the fumble, Johnnie Morant scored on a reverse to give Syracuse the lead.

Late in the first half, UNC began a drive on its own 4-yard line, but Durant marched the Tar Heels 62 yards on 12 plays into field goal range. Orner drilled a 51-yarder with seven seconds to play to send the teams to intermission with Syracuse ahead, 14-13.

Orner gave UNC a 16-14 advantage early in the third period with a 55-yarder, the longest in school history. Tight end Zach Hilton's 25-yard catch-and-run set up the field goal.

The Orangemen took the lead for the final time on their only productive drive of the second half. Anderson capped a six-play, 56-yard drive with a quarterback sneak. A halfback option pass resulted in a two-point conversion and a 22-16 Orangemen lead.

The rest of the game was all Carolina as the Tar Heel defense limited Syracuse to 10 plays and 45 yards over the final quarter and a half.

The Tar Heels took the lead for good 3:35 into the final quarter. UNC took possession at its own 13-yard line. Durant found tailback Jacque Lewis for 15 yards, scrambled for 17 yards to midfield, then hit sophomore Jawarski Pollock on a deep post pattern for 48 yards and a touchdown.

Carolina's defense, led by safety Dexter Reid, who had a game-high 14 tackles, then held the Orange on a three-and-out. It was the first three-and-out for the Orange offense since the opening quarter.

The Tar Heels began their next drive at their own 23 with a one-point lead and 10:13 left in the game. Fourteen plays, 77 yards and 7:07 later, Durant rolled right and hit tight end Bobby Blizzard from 12 yards out for a touchdown.

The Durant-to-Blizzard scoring pass was the fourth third-down conversion for UNC on the drive. Lewis converted one on a short run, Durant passed (for 22 yards to Aiken) and ran (for 12) for the others. For the game, Carolina cashed in on 11 of 20 third- and/or fourth down opportunities and held the Orange to three of nine on third down.

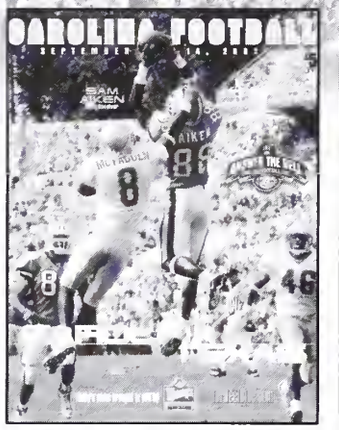
GAME 3: TEXAS 52, NORTH CAROLINA 21



September 14, 2002
at Kenan Stadium
Chapel Hill, N.C.

Cedric Benson rushed for 208 yards and two touchdowns and Chris Simms passed for four scores to lead third-ranked Texas to a 52-21 win over the Tar Heels.

The game marked Longhorn coach Mack Brown's first game in Chapel Hill since 1997. The second-largest crowd in Kenan Stadium history, 60,500, was in attendance.

Benson rushed for 54 yards in the first quarter and gained 115 yards by halftime.

The Longhorns compiled 569 total yards – 271 on the ground and 298 in the air.

Carolina also was able to move the ball. The Tar Heels gained 343 yards, had 24 first downs (two more than Texas), scored three touchdowns and were in scoring range three other times.

The Longhorns scored on their first three and four of their first five offensive possessions to build a 24-0 lead midway through the second quarter.

A 42-yard screen pass to Cedric Robin set up a short field goal by Dusty Mangum for the first points of the evening.

Simms then connected on consecutive passes of 28 yards to Brock Edwards and 35 yards to Ivan Williams, the latter giving the Longhorns a 10-0 lead.

Carolina tailback Jacque Lewis gained 39 yards on six carries as the Tar Heels moved to the UT 22-yard line. Linebacker Lee Jackson sacked Darian Durant for an 8-yard loss, however, and Dan Orner's 49-yard field goal try smacked the right upright.

Benson dominated the next series, carrying the ball on seven of Texas's eight plays on a 68-yard scoring drive. Benson capped the drive with a 4-yard touchdown run to give the Longhorns a 17-0 lead.

Later in the second quarter, Benson and Simms again led UT to the end zone. Benson gained 23 yards on four carries and Simms found Roy Williams deep for 34 yards to the UNC 9-yard line. Three plays later, Simms lofted a pass to the back of the end zone and found Williams for the score and a 24-0 lead with 6:02 left in the first half.

At that point, the Tar Heel offense got untracked. Durant led UNC to the Texas 23, largely on a 27-yard pass to Sam Aiken. However, Durant overthrew a receiver and was intercepted by Dakarai Pearson in the end zone.

The Tar Heels did get on the board late in the second quarter after UNC's defense forced Texas to punt on consecutive possessions. Durant completed three straight passes, then scrambled through the heart of the Texas defense for 27 yards and a touchdown. It was the longest rush of his brief career.

Carolina took the opening kickoff of the third quarter and threatened to score, advancing to the Texas 31. But Durant was picked off in the end zone again by Pearson to thwart the drive.

However, on the next series, Durant hit freshman Durelle Mitchell for 38 yards, then called his own number on a draw for 25 yards to the Longhorn 6-yard line.

On the next play, Lewis, who carried 20 times for 84 yards, carried to the 1, but fumbled. The ball was recovered in the end zone for a touchdown by center Jason Brown. Carolina had cut the deficit to 24-14.

Texas returner Selvin Young returned the ensuing kickoff 38 yards and got an extra 15 yards tacked on via a disputed face mask penalty against UNC.

Simms took over at the Carolina 45 and put Texas into the end zone in just two plays. He found Williams down the middle for 35 yards and hit Chad Stevens for 10 yards and the touchdown.

The Tar Heels answered right back, marching 80 yards in 10 plays. The key play was a 17-yard reverse run by wide receiver Chesley Borders; Carolina scored on a 15-yard pass from Durant to Aiken to make it 31-21 Texas, with 14:55 left to play in the game.

The Longhorns also answered immediately, extending their lead back to 17 points in just five plays. On third-and-4 from the Carolina 42, Simms beat a safety blitz and hit Roy Williams in the left flat. Williams spun away from cornerback Michael Waddell and raced 58 yards down the left sideline for the quick-strike score.

Benson saved one last set of heroics for later in the fourth quarter. He had back-to-back runs of 39 and 17 yards, the latter a touchdown run which gave Texas a 45-21 lead.

The Longhorns tacked on a final score on a 30-yard run by Young.

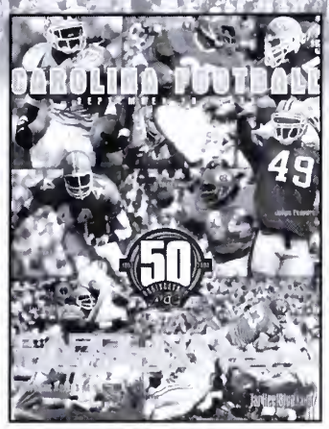
GAME 4: GEORGIA TECH 21, NORTH CAROLINA 13



September 28, 2002
at Kenan Stadium
Chapel Hill, N.C.

Freshman tailback Ajenavi Eziemefe rushed for 136 yards and one touchdown to lead Georgia Tech to a 21-13 win over the Tar Heels.

Poor tackling, a key fumble that wiped out a Carolina score, and the inability to make third-down stops were the primary culprits in the loss for Carolina.

Eziemefe, a freshman, was making his first start in place of injured starter Tony Hollings. Eziemefe rushed 32 times, the second straight game in which Carolina's opponent had a back rush at least 30 times.

The Yellow Jackets dominated the time of possession, especially in the second half. The visitors had the ball for 37:23, including 20:06 in the final two periods. Tech had two long third period drives which consumed 10:41, then had the ball for another 9:54 in the final period.

Carolina's offense ran only 52 plays, 30 less than Georgia Tech. UNC had an advantage in yards per play, gaining 5.8 yards per play. That was a full yard better than Georgia Tech.

The Yellow Jackets converted 11 of 17 third-down opportunities, including 8 of 12 in the second half. The Tar Heel defense repeatedly made stops on first and second downs, only to give up a first down conversion on third-and-long.

The Tar Heels got on the scoreboard first, capitalizing on a Georgia Tech turnover. Cornerback Michael Waddell intercepted A.J. Suggs and returned the interception 33 yards to the Tech 22-yard line. Dan Orner kicked a 39-yard field goal to give the Tar Heels a 3-0 lead just 3:58 into the game.

The Yellow Jackets took their first lead of the game later in the opening quarter behind the run-nign and passing of Damarius Bilbo. The quarterback rushed for 18 yards and completed a pair of passes to Kerry Watkins, the second of which went for 10 yards and a touchdown.

The Tar Heels took just 2:27 to regain the lead. Sophomore quarterback Darian Durant and wide receiver Sam Aiken connected for 30 yards to cross midfield. Tailback Jacque Lewis gained 21 yards on three carries to advance to the Tech 19-yard line, then Durant found tight end Zach Hilton all alone in the end zone for a touchdown. That score gave UNC a 10-7 lead with 14:56 left in the first half.

Carolina linebacker Malcolm Stewart set up UNC's final score of the day when he picked off Bilbo and returned the ball 31 yards to midfield.

The Tar Heels drove to the Tech 13-yard line, but the drive stalled when Durant's third-down 5-yard scramble came up two yards shy of a first down. Orner was called on for a 31-yard field goal that increased UNC's advantage to 13-7.

The Yellow Jackets took the lead with 4:42 left in the first half on a 27-yard play-action pass from Suggs to wide receiver Will Glover.

Carolina almost regained the lead on its first offensive series of the third quarter. Facing 2nd-and-15 from the UNC 39, Durant hit tight end Bobby Blizzard over the middle. Blizzard eluded several defenders and was headed for the end zone. However, cornerback Rueben Houston stripped the ball away at the 2-yard line and cornerback Jonathan Cox recovered the ball in the end zone for a demoralizing touchback.

The Yellow Jackets then went on a seemingly unending 18-play, 80-yard drive that resulted in a touchdown and consumed more than eight minutes off the clock.

Georgia Tech converted three third-down chances on the drive, but the Tar Heels held at the 5-yard line and forced a short field goal attempt. Tech converted the field goal, but UNC cornerback Derrick Johnson ran into the kicker, a penalty that gave the Yeliow Jackets a first-and-goal from the 3-yard line. Eziemefe cashed in on the mistake with a 1-yard touchdown run to extend Tech's lead to 21-13.

Carolina started its best drive of the second half from its own 26-yard line with 8:52 left in the fourth quarter. Durant found Chesley Borders for 34 yards and completed three other passes to march the Tar Heels to Tech's 18-yard line. However, on 4th-and-5, Durant was sacked on a safety blitz.

The Tar Heel defense then had a chance to force a punt, but on 3rd-and-6, Watkins eluded a tackle and made seven yards for a first down. That first down all but ended the contest.

Carolina was able to get the ball back one more time, but took over at its own 20-yard line with only 14 seconds to play.

Durant completed 14 of 25 passes for 231 yards and one touchdown. Lewis led the Tar Heels with 51 yards rushing.

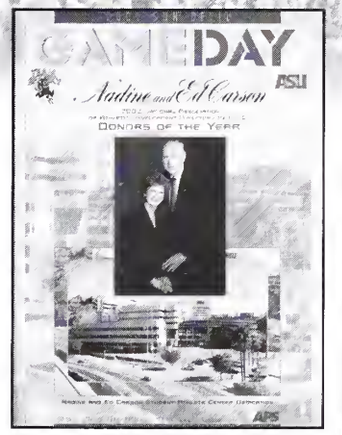
GAME 5: NORTH CAROLINA 38, ARIZONA STATE 35



October 5, 2002
at Sun Devil Stadium
Tempe, Ariz.

Darian Durant passed for 417 yards and five touchdowns, including a game-winning 74-yard strike to Chesley Borders, to lead the Tar Heels to a wild 38-35 win at Arizona State.

Durant set UNC records for total offense yards (426) and passing yards and tied the school record with five touchdown passes.

Borders had nine catches for 192 yards and became the first Carolina player in history to catch four touchdown passes in a game. The 192 yards are the third-most in UNC single-game history.

The teams combined for 1,115 yards – 891 of which came in the air. Arizona State rolled up 657 yards, the most UNC has allowed in a game in school history.

It was the first game in Carolina history that both teams passed for more than 400 yards.

Sun Devil quarterback Andrew Walter, who came into the contest as the top-rated passer in the nation, was 27 for 45 for 474 yards, the second-most yards UNC has allowed in a game.

However, the Sun Devils committed five turnovers – three more than the Tar Heels – and missed all four of their field goal attempts, including a 50-yarder that would have tied the score late in the game.

The 35 points allowed by the Tar Heels were the most in a UNC victory since a 41-40 win at Duke in 1994.

The 38 points were the most Carolina has scored on the road since beating Duke, 59-21, on Nov. 18, 2000.

Carolina averaged 6.8 yards per play, and the Sun Devils averaged 8.2 yards per snap.

Durant broke Chris Keldorf's passing yardage record (415 vs. Texas Christian in 1997) and Mark Maye's total offense mark (420 vs. Georgia Tech in 1987). He also joined Kevin Anthony (vs. Wake Forest in 1985) as the only Tar Heels to throw five touchdowns in a game.

Borders caught scoring passes of 11, 31, 28 and 74 yards. Seven other Tar Heels had previously had three touchdown receptions in a game.

Carolina scored first, but trailed 14-7 late in the second quarter. The Tar Heels tied the game just before halftime, however, on a 13-play, 90-yard drive. Durant completed four passes on the drive, including a 31-yard scoring strike to Borders on a 3rd-and-6 play.

Dan Orner gave Carolina a 17-14 lead in the third quarter with a 47-yard field goal.

The lead then changed hands six times in the last 18 minutes.

Arizona State went ahead 21-17 on a 19-yard run by Mike Williams, his second score of the night.

Durant and Borders gave Carolina a 24-21 lead with 1:08 to play in the third quarter on a 28-yard pass. A 17-yard pass to Jawarski Pollock and a pass interference penalty on ASU (defending Pollock) set up the score.

Walter then marched the Sun Devils 80 yards in nine plays. Hakim Hill scored from a yard out to put ASU ahead again, 28-24 with 12:41 left.

Following a Carolina punt, the Sun Devils drove to the Tar Heel 29-yard line. However, cornernack Michael Waddell intercepted Walter in the end zone.

Five plays later, Durant found Pollock in the left flat. Pollock turned the corner and outraced the Sun Devil secondary 65 yards for a touchdown to give Carolina a 31-28 edge with 7:11 remaining.

That lead too was short-lived as it took Arizona State just over three minutes to go back on top. Walter drove ASU 90 yards in nine plays, accounting for five of the Sun Devils' 34 first downs along the way.

A 3-yard scoring run by Hill gave Arizona State its fourth and final lead of the game at 35-31 with 3:53 to play.

Durant gave Carolina the lead for good on the ensuing possession. First, he found Pollock for nine yards. On 3rd-and-1, he snuck over for a first down. Then, he lofted a pass deep down the right sideline. Borders was interfered with, but came away with the catch and dashed into the end zone for a 74-yard touchdown.

That pass, the 15th-longest in UNC history, gave the Tar Heels a 38-35 lead with 2:39 left in the game.

Arizona State once again threatened to score. Walter connected with Hill for 26 yards to the Tar Heel 33. Chase Page and Larry Jessup stopped Hill for no gain, then Walter tossed a pair of incompletions. On 4th down, Sun Devil kicker Mike Berth missed wide left for the tie from 50 yards.

The Sun Devils had one more opportunity to tie or win, but cornerback Kevin Knight picked off Walter at midfield with 25 seconds to play.

The win was Carolina's second non-conference road victory of the season, the first time the Tar Heels had accomplished that since 1996.

GAME 6: NC STATE 34, NORTH CAROLINA 17

at Kenan Stadium
Chapel Hill, N.C.

Freshman tailback T.A. McLendon rushed for 164 yards and two touchdowns to lead NC State to a 34-17 victory over Carolina.

The win was the 12th in the last 15 meetings for the road team in the UNC-NC State rivalry (not including the 1998 and 1999 games that were played in Charlotte).

McLendon scored on runs of 5 and 4 yards, the latter giving NC State the lead for good midway through the third quarter.

Carolina led 10-7 at the half and extended its advantage to 10 points with an impressive drive to start the third quarter. However, NC State answered with a pair of touchdowns 24 seconds apart en route to 27 unanswered points.

Carolina head coach John Bunting called his team's first-half performance the best of the season. The Tar Heels outgained the Wolfpack, 234-204, and had 15 first downs in the first quarters.

In the second half, however, NC State outgained the Tar Heels, 224-117 and had 13 first downs, six more than UNC.

NC State quarterback Philip Rivers completed 16 of 25 passes for 170 yards with just one sack and no turnovers.

Carolina's Darian Durant passed for 266 yards and two scores, but was intercepted once, lost a fumble on Carolina's own 4-yard line that led to a State touchdown and was sacked five times.

The Wolfpack took the opening kickoff and marched 80 yards in 11 plays for a touchdown and early 7-0 lead. McClendon carried four times for 19 yards on the drive, including a 5-yard dash around right end for the score.

Carolina's defense forced State to punt on the next two possessions, the second of which led to the Tar Heels' first score.

A 26-yard completion by Durant to Jawarski Pollock and first-down rushes by Durant and Lewis set up a 29-yard field goal by Dan Orner.

A third straight hold by the UNC defense led to Carolina taking the lead early in the second quarter. Durant found Sam Aiken for 16 yards to the State 22. One play later, Durant lofted a touchdown strike to tight end Bobby Blizzard from 21 yards out with 10:12 left in the half.

The lead held for the rest of the half as Carolina forced another NC State punt and a 51-yard field goal try which missed to the right.

Carolina got the ball to start the second half and went 78 yards in 10 plays to extend its lead to 17-7. Tailback Willie Parker, who took over much of the second-half running due to a bruised leg suffered by starter Jacque Lewis, had six carries for 22 yards on the drive. Durant completed all four of his pass attempts, including a 20-yarder to tight end Zach Hilton, an 18-yarder to Pollock, a 13-yarder to Derelle Mitchell and a 5-yard touchdown pass to fullback James Faison.

NC State, ranked 14th in the country, turned to its running game to get back into the contest. The Wolfpack immediately answered Carolina's long touchdown drive with one of its own. The Pack went 70 yards in just six plays – all of them on the ground. McClendon carried on each of the first four snaps to gain 64 yards, 38 of which gave State a 1st-and-goal at the UNC 3-yard line. Two plays later, River stretched across the goal line for a touchdown.

UNC cornerback Michael Waddell blocked the ensuing extra point try, keeping the Tar Heels' lead at 17-13 with 7:33 to play.

On the next play from scrimmage, Durant was chased from the pocket and tripped up by defensive tackle Terrance Martin. Durant lost possession of the ball, which was recovered by linebacker Dantonio Burnette at the 4-yard line.

McClendon dashed into the end zone on the next play to give State the lead it would not relinquish.

Carolina would manage just 60 yards and three first downs over the remaining 22 minutes.

NC State tacked on a pair of fourth-quarter touchdowns to increase the final margin to 34-17.

Josh Brown, who rushed for 88 yards on the day, gained 46 yards on six consecutive runs. Rivers then threw for his only score of the game on a 13-yard pass to Bryan Peterson early in the fourth quarter.

Brown gained another 37 yards on a time-consuming fourth quarter drive. He capped a 14-play, 74-yard drive with a 12-yard scoring run. That drive took 7:52 off the clock.

The Wolfpack had the ball for 17:35 in the second half.

GAME 7: VIRGINIA 37, NORTH CAROLINA 27

October 19, 2002
at Scott Stadium
Charlottesville, Va.

Marquis Weeks opened the third quarter with a 100-yard kickoff return for a touchdown and sparked the Virginia Cavaliers to a 37-point second half in beating the Tar Heels, 37-27.

Weeks' kickoff return instantly changed the game's momentum, which had been all in UNC's favor in the first half. The Tar Heels blanked the Cavaliers in the first two quarters and had gone into the half with a 21-0 advantage.

Virginia pulled even less than two minutes into the fourth quarter and put the game out of reach with two more touchdowns and a field goal in a nearly nine minute span of the final quarter.

The loss extended Carolina's losing streak in Charlottesville, which dates back to 1983.

The Tar Heels dominated the first two quarters, compiling a 266-127 edge in total yards. Sophomore quarterback Darian Durant completed nine of 12 passes for 155 yards and three touchdowns by halftime.

Carolina opened the scoring midway through the first period after defensive tackle Jonas Seawright recovered a Matt Schaub fumble deep in Virginia territory. Two plays later, Durant hit Jaworski Pollock over the middle for a 17-yard touchdown.

Early in the second period, Durant threw a quick slant to wide receiver Sam Aiken and Aiken split the Cavalier defense and raced 77 yards for a touchdown.

Virginia countered on its next possession, led by quarterback Schaub, who scrambled 35 yards, and advanced to the UNC 3-yard line. However, linebacker Doug Justice intercepted a pass to thwart the drive.

Just two plays later, the Tar Heels lost a fumble at its own 16-yard line, but the Cavaliers spoiled another scoring opportunity by missing a short field goal.

Carolina extended its lead to 21-0 on the final series of the first half. Durant found tight end Zach Hilton for 28 yards, punter John Lafferty completed a fourth-down pass to Bobby Blizzard and Durant hit Chesley Borders for four yards and a touchdown.

Weeks' kickoff return made it 21-7, but the Tar Heels threatened to score on the next possession. Durant converted a 3rd-and-17 play with a 20-yard pass to Aiken. Facing another 3rd-and-4 from the Virginia 13, what followed was the single most important play of the year. Durant passed along the right sideline to Aiken, who gained enough for a first down and more. However, Aiken fumbled at the 1-yard line and cornerback Almondo Curry recovered for Virginia. Replays showed Curry's helmet was touching the sideline when he recovered the ball, but the play stood and the Cavaliers took over the 2-yard line.

The Wahoos marched 98 yards in 12 plays, capped by an 8-yard touchdown pass to Billy McMullen.

On the same play Aiken fumbled, Durant was hit and suffered torn ligaments on his right (throwing) thumb. He played in the next series, but was unable to throw the ball effectively and was forced out of action for the rest of the game and the next four contests, as well.

The Cavaliers tied the game early in the final quarter on a 2-yard run by Wali Lundy. That was the first of four straight possession on which Virginia scored. All four scores followed punts by the Tar Heels.

Schaub gave UVa the lead with a 35-yard touchdown pass to Ottawa Anderson, Kurt Smith connected on a 22-yard field goal, and Alvin Pearman capped the scoring on a 17-yard run.

Durant finished the game 14 of 18 for 226 yards.

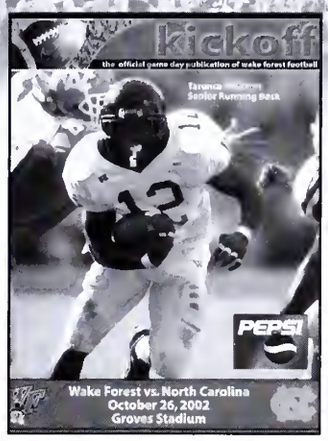
GAME 8: WAKE FOREST 31, NORTH CAROLINA 0



October 26, 2002
at Grove Stadium
Winston-Salem, N.C.

Wake Forest averaged six yards per play and punted just two times all game as the Demon Deacons shut out the Tar Heels, 31-0.

The game marked the first time Wake Forest had blanked UNC since a 3-0 shutout in 1966.

Carolina played its first full game without Darian Durant at quarterback. Junior C.J. Stephens started and went the distance for Carolina. It was Stephens' first collegiate start. He completed 17 of 27 passes for 221 yards, was intercepted once and sacked four times.

The Deacons outgained UNC, 458-312, and had 25 first downs. Wake Forest had a balanced attack as it rushed for 245 yards and passed for another 213.

The Deacs held the ball for more than 33 minutes.

Quarterback James MacPherson completed just nine of 15 passes for 177 yards, but he threw for two touchdowns.

Tarence Williams rushed for 101 yards on 21 carries, an average of 4.8 yards per play.

The Tar Heels threatened to score on its opening series as they moved 65 yards in 12 plays down to the Wake Forest 15-yard line. But a 32-yard field goal attempt by Dan Orner sailed wide to the right and the Tar Heels failed to mount another serious scoring challenge the rest of the game.

The Demon Deacons, however, did score on their first possession. MacPherson capped an 80-yard drive with a 17-yard touchdown pass to Ray Thomas.

Wake Forest moved into scoring range on its next series, as well, but linebacker Doug Justice recovered a fumble at the UNC 7-yard line.

Leading 10-0 in the second quarter, the Deacon defense forced a Tar Heel punt, which Fabian Davis returned 25 yards to the UNC 32. On the next play, MacPherson hit Jason Anderson for 32 yards and a touchdown to give Wake Forest a 17-0 lead at the half.

The Deacons outgained Carolina by only 32 yards and had the ball for nearly three fewer minutes, but led by 17 points through the first two quarters.

The second half was dominated by the Deacons, who outgained UNC, 210-100. Wake Forest put the game out of reach by scoring touchdowns on its first two series of the third quarter. First, the Deacs went 80 yards in 10 plays. MacPherson set up the score with a 33-yard pass to Thomas to the UNC 2-yard line. On the next play, Ovie Mughelli barreled in for a score and a 24-0 lead.

Then, Caron Barclay carried six times in seven plays, including a 9-yard run that finished the scoring for the day.

GAME 9: MARYLAND 59, NORTH CAROLINA 7

November 2, 2002
at Kenan Stadium
Chapel Hill, N.C.

Maryland spotted North Carolina an early 7-0 lead, then scored the next 59 points to post a 59-7 win over the Tar Heels.

It was the most points ever allowed by Carolina in Kenan Stadium and was the third-worst margin of defeat in UNC history.

The Terrapins compiled 588 yards, including 388 on the ground and another 200 in the air. Maryland averaged an astonishing 9.3 yards per play.

In fact, the Terps had just one more first down than UNC (21-20) and had possession of the ball 1:06 less than the Tar Heels.

The Terps averaged 7.9 yards per rushing attempt, led by Chris Downs, who gained 157 yards and scored four touchdowns.

Downs was one of a number of Maryland players who had big games.

Josh Allen added 91 yards and a pair of touchdowns on only six carries; quarterback Scott McBrien completed only six of 11 passes, but he threw for 190 yards and a score; wide receiver Scooter Monroe had three receptions for 167 yards.

The Tar Heels opened the scoring on their first offensive possession. Quarterback C.J. Stephens began the series with completions of 24 and 39 yards to Sam, Aiken and Chesley Borders, respectively, and finished the drive by scoring from a yard out.

Maryland got on the board on its third possession as McBrien hit Monroe with an 80-yard touchdown pass, the longest ever in Kenan Stadium history.

Leading 10-7 in the second quarter, the Terps gained controf the game through their defense and special teams. First, Curome Cox intercepted Stephens and returned it 17 yards to the UNC 30. Downs rushed three times, including a 9-yard dash for a touchdown that gave the Terrapins a 17-7 advantage.

Maryland then forced a punt and Steve Suter returned the kick 77 yards for another touchdown and a 24-7 lead with 5:46 left in the first half.

The Terps got the ball back for one last possession in the half and scored on a 36-yard run by Downs with 1:11 remaining.

Downs and Allen added two rushing touchdowns apiece in the second half to account for a 28-0 shutout over the final two quarters.

Downs scored from a yard and six yards out early in the third quarter. Allen tacked on a 2-yard run in the third and capped the scoring with a 60-yard dash with 5:25 left in the game.

Maryland gained 343 yards and held UNC to 126 in the second half.

GAME 10: CLEMSON 42, NORTH CAROLINA 12

November 9, 2002
at Kenan Stadium
Chapel Hill, N.C.

Freshman quarterback Charlie Whitehurst completed only 12 passes, but four of them went for touchdowns, to lead the Clemson Tigers to a 42-12 win over the Tar Heels.

The Tar Heels jumped out to an early lead for the second time in as many weeks and the third time in four games. Carolina led 9-0 10 minutes into the contest, but was outscored 42-3 the remainder of the game.

Whitehurst was 12 for 20 for 274 yards. He passed for touchdowns of 83, 58, 14 and 2 yards.

Wide receiver Sam Aiken was the Tar Heels' offensive star as he made eight receptions for 58 yards.

The Tigers punished the Tar Heels on the ground. Clemson gained 5.1 yards per carry, gaining 256 yards on 50 carries.

Bernard Rambert had 106 yards and Tye Hill gained another 105. That marked the fourth time in five games that Carolina's opponents had at least one back gain 100 yards and another gain at least 80. It also marked the first time two players rushed for 100 yards in the same game against UNC since Houston in 1999.

The Tar Heels scored first on defense and then added an offensive touchdown for a 9-0, first quarter advantage. Senior cornerback Kevin Knight sacked Whitehurst for a 6-yard loss and a safety to give Carolina a 2-0 lead.

The Tar Heels increased their lead on the ensuing possession. Wallace Wright returned the Clemson free kick 46 yards to the Tiger 28-yard line. C.J. Stephens tossed a 13-yard completion to Aiken, then hit tight end Bobby Blizzard for 18 yards and a touchdown.

The Tigers struck back almost immediately. On 2nd-and-10 from the Clemson 17, Whitehurst hit a streaking Airese Currie, who had slipped behind the secondary. Currie raced 83 yards for a touchdown. It was the longest passing play in Kenan Stadium history. In fact, it was the second consecutive game in which the opponents had completed the longest pass play in Kenan Stadium history.

The Tigers took over at the Carolina 45-yard line after an 8-yard punt and went 45 yards in seven plays for the go-ahead score. The key play of the drive was a 14-yard run by Rambert. Two plays later Rambert scored from three yards out.

Carolina drove to the Tiger 20, sparked by a 29-yard carry by Jacque Lewis. However, on 4th-and-1 from the 20, Stephens pass to Blizzard fell incomplete.

Later, the Tigers began at their own 31 with 1:23 remaining in the first half. Whitehurst connected with Rambert for 16 yards. Following a procedure penalty against Clemson, Whitehurst went deep again and found J.J. McKelvey for 58 yards and a score to send the Tigers off to halftime with a 21-9 lead.

The visitors tacked on touchdowns on three of their first four drives in the second half; the other drive was halted by a Tiger fumble at the UNC 11-yard line.

Clemson drive 85 yards in seven plays to start the third quarter and scored on a 14-yard pass from Whitehurst to Chad Jasmin.

The Tigers then went 80 yards in 14 plays, taking more than six minutes off the clock. Whitehurst and Jasmin hooked up again for the score, this time from two yards away.

Clemson finished the game with 25 first downs, nine more than the Tar Heels. The Tigers averaged 7.6 yards per play, exactly twice as many as UNC.

GAME 11: FLORIDA STATE 40, NORTH CAROLINA 14

November 16, 2002
at Doak Campbell Stadium
Tallahassee, Fla.

Quarterback Adrian McPherson and wide receiver Anquan Boldin connected on three touchdown passes to lead the Florida State Seminoles to a 40-16 win over the Tar Heels before a crowd of more than 81,000.

Carolina battled the Seminoles to a scoreless tie through the first period and did not allow Florida State to dent the end zone until midway through the second period.

McPherson and Boldin then hooked up on a pair of touchdown strikes in the final seven minutes of the second quarter and sent the Seminoles to the half with a 17-0 advantage.

Florida State finished the contest with 430 total offense yards, and the Tar Heels had 359 yards.

North Carolina tight end Bobby Blizzard had six receptions for 100 yards and a touchdown.

McPherson completed 15 of 30 passes for 237 yards, four touchdowns and no interceptions.

C.J. Stephens started for the Tar Heels and completed 16 of 40 for 175 yards, one touchdown and one interception.

Freshman quarterback Matt Baker saw his most extensive action of the season. Baker went 3 for 9 for 55 yards and a touchdown.

Neither team was able to score in the first quarter. Florida State had the best scoring chance of the opening 15 minutes, but Xavier Beitia missed a 37-yard field goal on the Seminoles' initial drive.

Beitia did get the Noles on the board with a 47-yarder with 10:26 remaining in the second quarter. Cornerback Derrick Johnson's 10-yard sack of McPherson led to the field goal attempt.

A Florida State sack of Stephens led to a punt that gave FSU the ball back at midfield and McPherson struck quickly. On 3rd-and-4, McPherson found Boldin for 43 yards and a score and a 10-0 lead.

Moments later, FSU recovered a fumble at the Tar Heel 9-yard line, but cornerback Kevin Knight blocked a 27-yard field goal attempt by Beitia.

The Seminoles added seven more points with 46 seconds left in the first half. McPherson had one scramble for 17 yards and completed passes of 23, 16 and 19 yards, the latter being a touchdown strike to Boldin.

McPherson finished the first half 8 for 17 for 146 yards.

Beitia began the scoring in the second half, converting a 31-yard field goal. That score was set up by an interception by Bryant McFadden.

Carolina got on the board on its next possession. Stephens hit tight end Zach Hilton for 25 yards. Tailback Jacque Lewis gained 32 yards to the Florida State 20, fumbled, but the ball was recovered by Carolina wide receiver Sam Aiken at the 14-yard line.

Three plays later, Stephens and Blizzard connected on a 14-yard touchdown pass to cut FSU'slead to 20-7.

The Seminoles responded by scoring touchdowns on each of their next three series. McPherson threw touchdown passes of four yards to Boldin and 20 yards to Talman Gardner. McPherson was then replaced by former starter Chrix Rix, who tossed a 52-yard scoring dart to Craphonso Thorpe.

McPherson's fourth and final touchdown pass of the game was set up by a Tar Heel fumble.

The Tar Heels added a late touchdown after an 11-play, 76-yard drive. Baker completed a 31-yard pass to Derelle Mitchell to set up the score and found Danny Rumley in the end zone from 14 yards out for the score.

GAME 12: NORTH CAROLINA 23, DUKE 21

at Wallace Wade Stadium
Durham, N.C.

Dan Orner kicked a game-winning, 47-yard field goal with no time left on the clock to lift the Tar Heels past Duke, 23-21.

The field goal was the first game-winner on the final play of the game since Lee Gliarmis beat Maryland in 1983.

The win was Carolina's third road victory of the season and extended the Tar Heels' winning streak over Duke to 13 consecutive games.

Orner's kick capped a last-minute engineered by sophomore quarterback Darian Durant, who started and played for the first time since injuring his thumb at Virginia on October 19th.

Durant led the Tar Heels 45 yards in seven plays. Carolina had fallen behind, 21-20, with 53 seconds to play and began its final drive at its own 25-yard line.

On the first two plays, Durant hit Sam Aiken for 17 yards and scrambled for 12 more yards and a first down at the Blue Devil 46-yard line.

Following two incomplete passes, Durant threw a 6-yard pass to tight end Bobby Blizzard, setting up 4th-and-4 from the Duke 40 with eight seconds to play. Out of field goal range, Carolina called timeout to set up one more play from scrimmage. Durant then hit Aiken on a quick slant for 10 yards and a first down with four seconds remaining. The Tar Heels took their second timeout of the half to stop the clock.

Orner then hooked a 47-yarder through the uprights for the victory.

That kick capped a wild second half in which the teams combined to score 30 points in the final 22 and a half minutes.

The teams only managed one touchdown apiece in the first half – a 1-yard run by Carolina tailback Jacque Lewis 54 seconds into the second quarter and a 3-yard run by Duke tailback Alex Wade with 35 seconds left in the period.

Lewis, who also was seeing his first extensive playing time in four games because of injury, was UNC's offensive standout of the first half as he gained 90 yards on just 11 carries.

Wade also carried much of the load for the Blue Devils as he rushed for 99 first-half yards.

Wade finished the game with 138 yards and Lewis posted his first 100-yard game as a Tar Heel with 103 on 17 carries.

Duke took the lead midway through the third quarter on a 19-yard pass from Adam Smith to Chris Douglas.

Carolina answered on the ensuing drive. Durant hit Aiken for 17 and 13 yards and found Bobby Blizzard for 20 yards to the Duke 4-yard line. Durant scored on a 1-yard run to force a 14-all tie.

The Tar Heel defense then stopped Wade on 3rd-and-1 from the Duke 11, and Carolina took over at the Blue Devil 45 following a punt.

On 2nd-and-5 from the 37, Durant completed a pass to Jarworski Pollock, who dashed past the Duke defense into the end zone. Orner's extra point was no good, and the lead was a precarious one at 20-14.

Duke's Brent Garber missed wide right on a 41-yard field goal attempt with 8:08 to play. The Devils had driven to the 14-yard loine, but Carolina forced a field goal try after a sack by linebacker Malcolm Stewart.

The Blue Devils regained possession with 2:54 to play at their own 28-yard line. Facing a 4th-and-9 from the Tar Heel 47, Smith completed a 14-yard pass to Lance Johnson for a first down. On the next play, Smith found Senterrio Landrum all alone down the right sideline for a 33-yard touchdown and a 21-20 lead with 53 seconds left in the game.

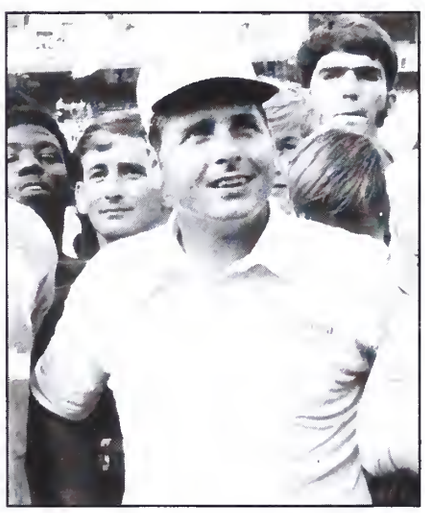
Hugh Morton

Carl Snavely served two stints as Carolina's head coach - from 1934-35 and 1945-52. He led the Tar Heels to three New Year's Day bowl games, including the 1947 Sugar Bowl, 1949 Sugar Bowl and the 1950 Cotton Bowl. He compiled a record of 59-35-5 and coached the great Charlie "Choo-Choo" Justice.



Bill Dooley coached 11 years at North Carolina - more than any other head coach - and is tied for second all-time with 69 victories. Dooley revitalized the program in the early 1970s, capturing ACC titles in 1971 and 1972. John Bunting was a part of Dooley's first recruiting class in 1969.

Robert Crawford

In his first year as head coach in 2001, John Bunting led the Tar Heels to an 8-5 season, including a 16-10 victory over Auburn in the Peach Bowl. Bunting won more games in his first season at UNC than any other first-year coach in school history.

CAROLINA HISTORICAL ESSAY

The University of North Carolina embarks on its 113th season of football competition in 2003. The Tar Heels do that with a history of gridiron greatness, including some of the top coaches in the game, a lineage of talented running backs and one of the most beautiful and historic facilities in college football.

Surprisingly, football is actually not the oldest varsity sport at UNC. Baseball holds that honor, having fielded its first varsity squad back in 1867. But while football started 21 years later in 1888, its history is replete with memories that have thrilled legions of Carolina fans as the decades have elapsed.

The first UNC team played but two games, losing both and being outscored 22-4. That inauspicious beginning belies the success of the program since then, but those football pioneers are nevertheless credited with starting football at Carolina.

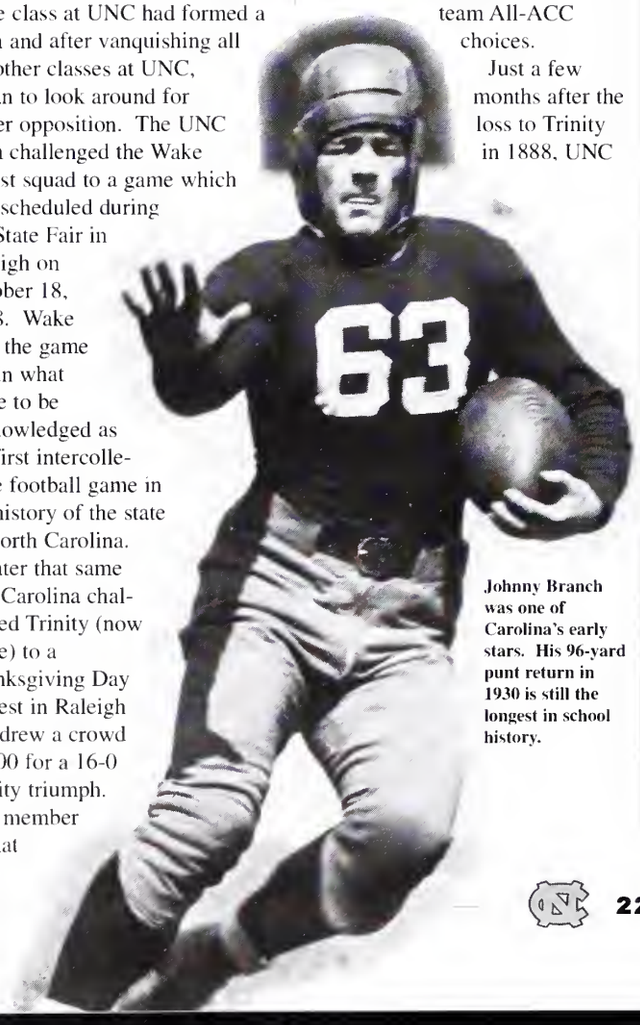
In the fall of 1888, the sophomore class at UNC had formed a team and after vanquishing all the other classes at UNC, began to look around for stiffer opposition. The UNC team challenged the Wake Forest squad to a game which was scheduled during the State Fair in Raleigh on October 18, 1888. Wake won the game 6-4 in what came to be acknowledged as the first intercollegiate football game in the history of the state of North Carolina.

Later that same fall, Carolina challenged Trinity (now Duke) to a Thanksgiving Day contest in Raleigh that drew a crowd of 600 for a 16-0 Trinity triumph. One member of that 1888 UNC team was John Motley Morehead, who went on to great fame as the founder of Union Carbide and who endowed the Morehead Scholarship program and several buildings on the Carolina campus.

That first Carolina team's results may not have been what was expected, but the leaders of the '88 team did get the ball rolling. In Carolina's first 111 seasons of football competition, the Tar Heels have compiled a record of 608-430-54, a winning percentage of .582. Carolina has played in 24 bowl games in its history and won five Southern Conference championships and five Atlantic Coast Conference titles.

Thirty Tar Heel players have been honored as first-team All-Americas on 38 occasions. Carolina had 32 All-Southern Conference selections when it played in that league until 1952 and since joining the ACC in 1953, has had 164 first-team All-ACC choices.

Just a few months after the loss to Trinity in 1888, UNC acquired the services of Hector Cowan, former great tackle and captain at Princeton, to help teach the UNC players the fundamentals of the game. Cowan arrived in February 1889 and drilled the Tar Heel troops on the existing athletic field, located on the current site of Bynum Hall.



Johnny Branch was one of Carolina's early stars. His 96-yard punt return in 1930 is still the longest in school history.

The 1889 team played two games in the spring and two in the fall. On March 1, 1889, Carolina earned its first win in football as it routed Wake Forest 33-0 before a crowd of 500 in Raleigh. UNC went on to post a 2-2 record that year and earn a share of the state championship with Trinity and Wake Forest.

After a Carolina player suffered a broken collarbone that fall, the University faculty voted to discontinue the sport of football in January 1890 and Carolina did not compete at all the following fall. That is one of only three years since the start of football in 1888 in which the Tar Heels have not fielded a team; play was also suspended during World War I in 1917 and 1918.

The following year, students petitioned to have football restored at UNC and the ban was lifted with the help of Professors Horace Williams, F.P. Venable and Eban Alexander. At this time, athletic control passed from the hands of students to the faculty, a situation that still exists today.

Football returned to UNC that fall with W.P. Graves as coach and UNC compiling an 0-2 record.

The following year, 1892, is considered by most to be the first year of real football at UNC with a representative six-game schedule being played. That squad also earned the distinction of being UNC's first good team. Mike Hoke acted as team captain and the entire squad consisted of just 15 players, with UNC using only one substitute the entire season. The team opened the year with a 40-0 rout of Richmond and after a loss to Virginia in the next game, it went on to win its last four. Carolina's 5-1 mark was the best record in the South that year. That season also marked the first year in which University teams were referred to as "Carolina," with the appellations "University" and "Chapel Hill" being dropped from the popular vernacular.

A meeting in February 1893 signaled the start of the formation of what would become the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Association in later years. Ten schools, including UNC, were involved in the meeting and Dr. Venable was voted temporary chairman of the group. Later that same year, on May 12, the UNC athletic association approved the awarding of varsity letters for the first time.

Although the 1893 team managed only a 3-4 record, it did have the distinction of being the first Southern team to play in New York City as Carolina lost a 34-0 decision to Lehigh on November 25, 1893. A year later, Carolina brought in Vernon K. Irvine from Princeton as coach and he led Carolina to a 6-3 mark, attesting to the fact that experienced coaching benefited the team's performance. That UNC team finished second in the South and won the state championship. It was also the first to be forced to stage closed practices because of problems with crowd control at open sessions.

In 1895, T.C. "Doggie" Trenchard came from Princeton to coach the Tar Heels and he led UNC to an outstanding 7-1-1 season marred only by a loss to Virginia. A crowd of 12,000 was on hand for the meeting between the Tar Heels and the Cavaliers in Richmond, which UVa won 6-0. Twice during the game spectators ran onto the field to block the path of Tar Heel runners who had broken into the clear on apparent touchdown runs.

Carolina began to gain some consistency in the sport of football with the arrival of Will A. Reynolds of Princeton as head coach in 1897. Reynolds produced four winning Carolina teams in his four-year tenure at Chapel Hill. His first squad finished at 7-3 and was followed in 1898 by what is still the only unbeaten, untied team in school history. That 1898 squad was a perfect 9-0 and outscored its opponents by an amazing 201-8. The team finished the season by beating Virginia for the first time in six years, 6-2, in Richmond.

Reynolds' final two teams also posted respectable records, going 7-3-1 in 1889 and 4-1-3 in 1900.

Reynolds yielded the coaching reins after the 1900 season to Charles Jenkins, who led UNC to seven straight wins prior to a pair of season-ending losses in 1901. Carolina beat all of its state opponents to win its seventh state championship since 1892. In 1901, letters began to be awarded by an advisory committee of the athletic association. Previously, anyone who played had lettered.

The next 11 seasons saw Carolina with nine different head coaches. The 1905 Carolina squad was coached by William Warner, the brother of the famed "Pop" Warner.

Trenchard returned as Carolina's coach in 1913 for a three-year run. His 1914 squad was outstanding. Sixty men reported for the team and UNC went on to win its first 10 before losing to Virginia 20-3 before a record crowd of 15,000 in Richmond. That UNC team outscored its opponents 359-52 and became the first team in the South to display players' numbers on their jerseys.

Trenchard's 1915 squad did not fare as well, finishing the campaign with a 4-3-1 mark. Seven regulars missed the VMI game and the reserves struggled, fumbling 16 times en route to a 3-3 tie. That same year, Trenchard started the first athletic training table at UNC in his home, feeding the 56 squad members on a daily basis.

Edison Foard scored the first touchdown in Kenan Stadium in 1927.

The year 1916 found the Tar Heels in a new home as Carolina began to play its games at Emerson Stadium, the site of the current Davis Library. Freshmen were banned from varsity participation for the first time and the team went 5-4 and won its sixth successive state championship.

All of the members of the 1916 squad had entered the military service in World War I by the following fall and varsity football was dropped for the second time in UNC history, this time for a two-year hiatus.

Carolina made its full-fledged return to the gridiron in 1919, going 4-3-1 under Coach Thomas J. Coleman. Carolina twice broke its single game home attendance record that year as it won the state championship. The Tar Heels defeated N.C. State, 13-12, before a crowd of 7,500 and then topped that with 9,000 for a 6-0 win over Virginia. That game marked the first time the Cavaliers had ever played in Chapel Hill.

The 1920 campaign was a dismal one as UNC went 2-6 and scored only 16 points in eight games. But a more positive era in North Carolina football began a year later with the hiring of Bill and Bob Fetzer as co-head coaches. Their hiring also marked a change in athletic policy at UNC as the Fetzers were assured of long-term positions instead of the usual one-year contracts. Carolina went 5-2-2 under the Fetzers in 1921 and 10,000 filled Emerson Field for Carolina's 7-3 win over Virginia.

That year also marked the first for UNC's participation in the Southern Intercollegiate Conference, the official name for what has come to be known today simply as the Southern Conference. At a February 25, 1921 meeting in Atlanta, the SIC was formed with a 16-school membership. The conference agreed to bans on postseason play, freshman eligibility and athletic training tables, required eligibility forms for players and disallowed organized practice before September 10.

Carolina would go on to have great success in the Southern Conference, tying for the league crown in 1922 and winning it outright in 1934, 1937, 1946 and 1949.

The Fetzers' greatest team was probably the 1922 edition which posted an impressive 9-1 mark, won the South Atlantic championship and tied for the Southern Conference crown. That team lost only to Yale, 18-0, and had three touchdowns called back by penalties in the game. The squad was ranked 11th in the nation by I.B. Thomas in the January 1923 issue of Intercollegiate Athletics and played before a record 68,500 fans during the course of the campaign.

The 1923 team was ravaged by injuries but limped to a 5-3-1 record nevertheless and a state championship for a second straight year. A year later, the Tar Heels were only 4-5 but they did play before their largest crowd to that date, 25,000 at New Haven's Yale Bowl in a 27-0 loss to the Bulldogs.

The 1925 season would prove to be the Fetzers' last as co-coaches. The Tar Heels responded with an excellent season, going 7-1-1 and winning the state championship. The only loss came at the hands of Wake Forest. A crowd of 16,000 jammed Emerson Field (capacity 2,400) to see the Heels and Virginia play to a 3-3 tie in the season finale.

The following year began a new era in Carolina football as Chuck Collins came on the scene as head coach. He had the longest tenure (eight years) of the early Carolina coaches. Collins, who was one of the seven mules in the offensive line for Notre Dame's famed Four Horsemen, served as Carolina's coach from 1926 through 1933.

The 1926 season also brought onto the scene the infamous Kay Kyser, later to be a renowned Big Band leader and radio and motion pictures personality, as head cheerleader and his Cheerios as the first major organized cheer block at Carolina.

New stadium plans were also in the works in 1926. Carolina alumni in Durham and Chapel Hill met on May 24, 1926, to form the Durham Stadium Committee. On November 13 of that same year, William Rand Kenan, a New York City engineer and 1893 UNC football letterman, gave the University a gift of $275,000 to help build the stadium.

The first game was played in Kenan Stadium on November 12, 1927 with UNC beating Davidson 27-0 before a crowd of 9,000 fans. The following Saturday, UNC beat two-touchdown favorite Duke 18-0 in Durham. The stadium was officially dedicated on Thanksgiving Day 1927 with 28,000 attending as Carolina edged Virginia 14-13. John Sprunt Hill officially made the presentation of the stadium to Governor A.W. McLean who accepted on behalf of the University and state.

Carolina won its first state championship since 1925 during the 1928 season. Its 5-3-2 record that year included a 65-0 win over Wake Forest in the season opener. That still stands as the largest margin of victory in UNC history. President Calvin Coolidge attended the Carolina-Virginia game in Charlottesville that year and saw the Tar Heels pull out a 24-20 win. It was the first time a U.S. President had ever attended a game in the South.

Collins' first great team was the 1929 edition which went 9-1 and outscored its opponents 346-60. The only loss of the year came to Georgia and only Southern California scored more points during the course of the season. Ray Farris was the captain of that UNC team and was a unanimous All-Southern Conference choice at guard. Carolina was called the "Team of a Million Backs" and drew a record attendance of 139,500.

The 1931 team, coached by Collins, went 4-3-3 and won the state championship. The Carolina-Duke game went big time for the first time that year as a crowd of 20,000 in Durham watched the two teams play to their second straight scoreless tie. Johnny Branch, a great all-purpose runner, was the star of that squad.

The quiet Dutchman, Carl Snavely, came to Chapel Hill in 1934 from Bucknell to take over the coaching reins of the Tar Heels. It would be the first of two tours of duty for Snavely as head coach. The 1934 team went 7-1-1 and was led by George Barclay, UNC's first All-America in football, at guard. Carolina lost only to Tennessee and it tied N.C. State that season. The Carolina-Duke game drew state and Kenan record crowds as the Tar Heels eked out a 7-0 victory.

Charlie Justice (left) and Art Weiner both earned All-America honors in 1948 and 1949. Justice was twice a runner-up for the Heisman Trophy.

The 1935 team also proved to be a great one as Snavely led his squad to an 8-1 record. Carolina won its first seven of the season and there was talk that the Tar Heels were headed to the Rose Bowl. But arch-rival Duke made sure that didn't happen on Saturday, November 16 in Durham as the Blue Devils played an errorless game, winning 25-0. That game drew a new Southern attendance record of 47,000 and in total 149,500 saw UNC play during the course of the year, another record. After losing to Duke, UNC came back to pummel Virginia 61-0 and ended up eighth in the final Associated Press rankings. Ace passer Don Jackson was named a second-team All-America.

Ray Wolf came to Carolina in 1936 to coach after Snavely had gone on to Cornell. Wolf had six successful seasons at UNC, producing winning teams the first five. The 1936 team went 8-2 and lost only to Tulane and Duke. That squad was led by end Andy Bershak, who was a second-team All-America in 1936 and a first teamer a year later. Wolf's teams continued their success, going 7-1-1, 6-2-1, 8-1-1 and 6-4 in subsequent years. Some of Wolf's outstanding players were Jim Lalanne, Paul Severin and George Stirnweiss.

The World War II years were an unsettled time in Carolina athletic history. From 1942 through 1944, UNC had three different head coaches who put makeshift teams through the paces against adjusted schedules which included some military teams. Jim Tatum, an outstanding player at Carolina in the 1930s, coached the 1942 unit. He would return for another coaching tenure later.

Snavely returned to Chapel Hill in 1945 and during the next five years produced some of the best teams in Carolina football history. His 1948 team finished third in the AP poll, the highest final ranking ever for the Tar Heels.

An Omaha, Neb. native, Snavely was a 1915 alumnus of Lebanon Valley College. He had coached Carolina teams in 1934 and 1935 to a 15-2-1 record and returned in 1945 after nine years at Cornell. In fact, at Cornell in 1940, Snavely was involved in an infamous contest which would be recounted repeatedly some 50 years after the fact. Snavely was the coach who, upon learning it had taken a fifth down for his Big Red to defeat Dartmouth, wired the opposing coach Red Blaik and relinquished the victory.

His 1945 team did well, finishing 5-5 after winning only one game the previous season. Then the incomparable Charlie Justice arrived a year later, and with his compatriots, UNC went to three major bowl games and won two Southern Conference titles in the period from 1946-49.

Snavely's 1946 team was 8-2-1, won the Southern Conference championship and lost to Georgia, 20-10, in the Sugar Bowl. The 1947 team was probably the best of the four. It finished 8-2, winning its last seven, but went uninvited in the post-season. The 1948 unit had only a regular-season tie with William & Mary to mar its record. It went on to lose to Oklahoma in the Sugar Bowl. Finally, the 1949 team was unbeaten in the conference and finished 7-4 overall, losing to Rice in the Cotton Bowl.

Justice was not the only star of those Snavely teams. Art Weiner and Ken Powell were tremendous ends on those teams and Hosea Rodgers was a great rugged fullback of the era.

But Justice was the main attraction. He ran and passed for over 4,000 yards in his four-year career and he averaged over 42 yards a punt. He had only two punts blocked in his career and both of those were in the first game of his freshman year. When he was done after the 1949 season, Justice had established NCAA records in total offense and punting and was considered the greatest punter of all time.

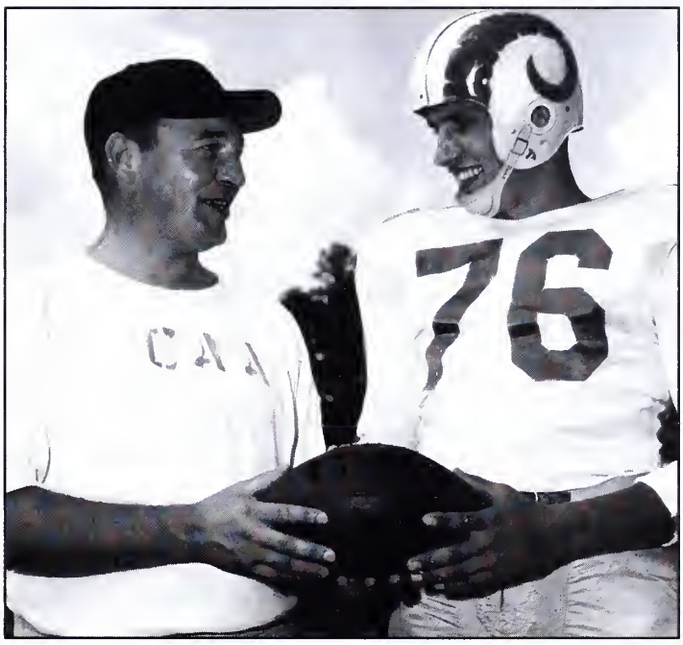
As a triple-threat All-America halfback, Justice captured the imagination and fancy of the football fan as no one else ever had. He was idolized and the attention he received from the fans and the media was almost unheard of in that time.

A native of Asheville, he had served in the Navy in World War II and was already 26 years old by the time of his senior year in 1949. He capped his amazing career by being named the Most Valuable Player in the 1950 College All-Star Game in Chicago.

The departure of Justice from campus coincided with a 20-year drought in UNC's football fortunes. Snavely, despite all his earlier successes, could not produce a winning team after the Justice era. George Barclay, Carolina's first All-America player back in 1934, was brought in as head coach, but he encountered little success in his three years of running the program. That's when Carolina successfully lured Jim Tatum baek to the fold. Tatum was a great UNC player in the 1930s and had coached the Tar Heels during World War II in 1942. He had since been at Maryland, where he led the Terrapins to the national championship in 1953.

Tatum's first season back in Chapel Hill, in 1956, was rather undistinguished. The Tar Heels went 2-7-1 with victories over Virginia and Maryland. In 1957, in Tatum's first return trip to College Park where he had enjoyed so much success, the Carolina-Maryland game was marked by the appearance of Queen Elizabeth II. The queen and her entourage watched the Terrapins beat the Tar Heels 21-7. But that 1957 team finished 6-4 as did the 1958 team under Tatum's steady leadership.

It appeared Carolina had the corner turned when Tatum died suddenly in the summer of 1959 from Rocky Mountain Spotted Fever. He was replaced by assistant Jim Hickey whose teams did not meet with a great deal of success in his eight seasons as head coach. Hickey produced only one winning record, that in 1963 when the Tar Heels finished 9-2 and shared their first Atlantic Coast Conference title. That team went on to post the school's first win in a bowl game, a 35-0 decision over Air Force in the Gator Bowl. That 1963 squad was led by the running of Ken Willard, the passing of Junior Edge and Gary Black and the pass receiving of Bob Lacey. Linebacker Chris Hanburger was a stalwart on defense for the Tar Heels.



Former head coach George Barclay (left), a two-time All-America for the Tar Heels in 1933 and 1953, chats with 1953 captain Ken Yarborough. Barclay was the first letterwinner to ever coach Carolina.

After Hickey resigned after a 2-8 season in 1966, UNC looked to Bill Dooley to revitalize its football fortunes. The choice proved to be a wise one. Dooley's teams won 69, lost 53 and tied two in his 11-year tenure. ACC championships were won under Dooley in 1971, 1972 and 1977. Bowl trips became a regular feature — six in all during the Dooley years.

After three rebuilding seasons, Dooley's first good team was in 1970. It finished 8-4 and went on to play Arizona State in the Peach Bowl. Tailback Don McCauley, who had gained 1,092 yards rushing in 1969, returned for a 1,720-yard season in 1970. He was the first of UNC's 23 1,000-yard rushers. The Garden City, N.Y. native broke what was then O.J. Simpson's single-season NCAA rushing standard.

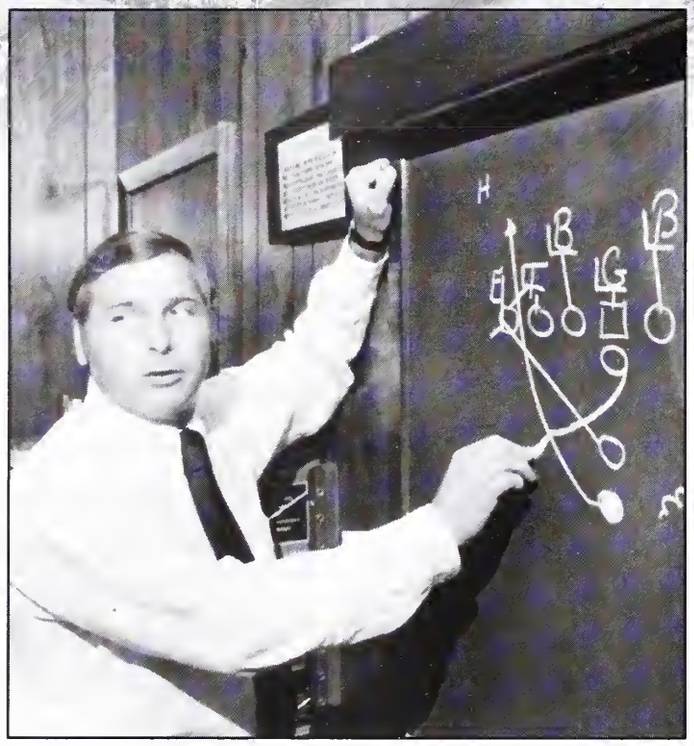
Dooley's teams won back-to-back ACC titles in 1971 and 1972. The '71 team lost to Georgia 7-3 in the Gator Bowl in a matchup of coaching brothers, Vince Dooley being the head mentor of the Bulldogs. The 1972 team had an 11-1 record marred only by a loss at Ohio State. It won a thrilling 32-28 decision from Texas Tech in the Sun Bowl.

The mid-1970s brought more success as UNC made bowl appearances in 1974 (Sun), 1976 (Peach) and 1977 (Liberty). Sammy Johnson was a 1,000-yard rusher for Carolina in 1973, as was James Betterson in 1974. But the outstanding offensive player of this era was Mike Voight who gained over 1,000 yards in 1974, 1975 and 1976, including 1,407 yards in '76. Voight was named the ACC Player of the Year in both 1975 and '76 for his efforts.

The 1977 team would prove to be Dooley's last at UNC. It won the ACC title and earned a berth opposite Nebraska in the Liberty Bowl. A rugged defense led by All-America tackle Dee Hardison helped Carolina lead the nation in scoring defense that season. UNC allowed only 81 points in 11 regular-season games. The new offensive star was a freshman tailback named Amos Lawrence, who rushed for 1,211 yards and was named ACC Rookie of the Year.

Dooley resigned in January 1978 to accept the dual role of head football coach and athletic director at Virginia Tech. At that time, Carolina turned to the "Cradle of Coaches" at Miami University in Oxford, Ohio, to find its new head coach. Dick Crum.

Crum had just completed an outstanding four-year run at Miami. His 10 years as head coach at UNC were equally brilliant. The winningest coach in Tar Heel history, he compiled a 72-41-3 ledger at the UNC helm.



Head coach Bill Dooley led Carolina to back-to-back ACC titles in 1971 and 1972.

Don McCauley was inducted into the National College Football Hall of Fame in 2001. He was presented his Hall of Fame plaque by Chancellor James Moeser at halftime of the East Carolina game that season.

He took six of his 10 UNC teams to bowl games, winning on four occasions, and the 1980 squad won the ACC championship.

After a 5-6 record in 1978, Crum's teams from 1979 through 1983 went to five successive bowls and won 45 games. UNC posted four consecutive bowl wins over national football powers, beating Michigan in the 1979 Gator Bowl, Texas in the 1980 Bluebonnet Bowl, Arkansas in the 1981 Gator Bowl and Texas again in the 1982 Sun Bowl.

In 1980 and 1981, UNC became the first team in league history to finish in the Top 10 of both wire service polls in successive years. The 1980 team was 11-1 and ranked ninth by United Press International and 10th by Associated Press. The 1981 unit was 10-2 and rated eighth by UPI and ninth by AP. Two more Carolina teams coached by Crum would later go to bowl games, the 1983 team to the Peach Bowl to face Florida State and the 1986 corps to the Aloha Bowl for a meeting with Arizona.

There was a plethora of outstanding players at Carolina during the Crum era and the Tar Heel football record book was being constantly updated. In 1980, linebacker Lawrence Taylor was named the ACC Player of the Year and he went on to All-Pro status with the New York Giants. That season, Taylor led what was one of the greatest defenses in ACC history. Other great defensive players at UNC included linebacker Buddy Curry, defensive tackle Donnell Thompson, linebacker Darrell Nicholson, defensive back Steve Streater, defensive tackle William Fuller and outside linebacker Mike Wilcher. All of those players were All-ACC selections and several went on to have distinguished pro careers. Fuller made four first-team All-America squads in 1983.

Although Crum's teams were known for their rugged defense, Carolina also excelled offensively, leading the ACC in total offense four times in the 1980s and ranking sixth nationally in 1986.

There were several reasons behind the offensive fireworks. First, there was a succession of outstanding running backs. Five different players gained 1,000 or more yards rushing in a season a total of 10 times under Crum's tutelage. After his brilliant freshman year, Lawrence went on to gain 1,000 yards three more times. He is one of only four players in college football history to gain 1,000 yards rushing in each of their four seasons. Kelvin Bryant overcame an injury-marred career to gain 1,000 yards on three occasions. Ethan Horton turned the trick twice in his career and Tyrone Anthony and Derrick Fenner had one 1,000-yard rushing season each.

A second reason behind UNC's offensive success was the presence of some outstanding linemen in the '80s, four of whom gained first-team All-America status – guard Ron Wooten in 1980, guard David Drechsler in 1981 and '82, tackle Brian Blados in 1983 and tackle Harris Barton in 1986.

Carolina's offense also became more diversified in the Crum era and the passing section of the Carolina record book was basically rewritten at that time by a string of accomplished starters at quarterback– Matt Kupec, Rod Elkins, Scott Stankavage, Kevin Anthony and Mark Maye.

At the conclusion of the 1987 season, Crum resigned to return home to his native Ohio and was replaced by Tulane head coach Mack Brown, whose first two teams struggled to 1-10 records. Center Jeff Garnica was a third-team All-America and the Jacobs Blocking Trophy recipient in 1988 as the best offensive lineman in the ACC. Offensive guard Pat Crowley became only the second offensive lineman in ACC history to be named All-ACC in three successive years when he accomplished that feat in 1989.

The blocking of those two players was instrumental in tailback Kennard Martin leading the ACC in rushing in 1988 with 1,146 yards.

The Tar Heels turned things around in 1990, however, and put together a solid 6-4-1 record and even returned to the Top 25 at one point in the season. Inside linebacker Dwight Hollier led the ACC in tackles for the second consecutive season and rookie tailback Natrone Means capped a stellar second half of the season with a 256-yard, three-touchdown effort vs. Duke. Along the way, Carolina tied Georgia Tech 13-13; the stalemate proved to be the only blemish on the Yellow Jackets' otherwise-perfect national championship ledger.

In 1991, Means became the 11th Tar Heel to rush for more than 1,000 yards. Means ran for 1,030 yards and topped the 1,000-yard plateau on an electrifying, 68-yard scamper in the Tar Heels' 47-14 rout over Duke. Means, inside linebacker Tommy Thigpen and offensive guard Brian Bollinger each were first-team All-ACC selections.

1992 was another filled with great players, spectacular plays and electrifying memories. The Tar Heels won nine games, including a 21-17 victory over Mississippi State in the Peach Bowl, and finished the season ranked in the Top 20 in both major polls.

Means rushed for 1,195 yards, the 21st 1,000-yard rushing season in Carolina history. He had a 249-yard day at Maryland and once again dramatically crashed the 1,000-yard club with a 76-yard touchdown run against the Terrapins.

The Tar Heels defeated Top 20 opposition on consecutive weekends in mid-season, the first time in the program's history the team accomplished that feat.

Carolina accepted a bid to play in the Peach Bowl and provided one of the year's most entertaining bowl games. Trailing Mississippi State by two touchdowns in the third quarter, UNC rallied for a 21-17 win. Means, a repeat first-team All-ACC selection, gained 128 yards and was named the game's Offensive MVP. Strong safety Bracey Walker tied the game when he blocked a punt, his second of the game, and returned it 41 yards for a score.

Walker, the game's Defensive MVP, set up the game-winning touchdown when he forced an interception with a jarring fourth-quarter hit. Cornerback Cliff Baskerville picked the loose ball out of the air and raced 44 yards for the winning touchdown.

The 1993 Tar Heels provided one of the most entertaining seasons in Carolina history. UNC won 10 games for the first time in a dozen years, finished second in the ACC, 19th in the Associated Press poll and played in a bowl game for a second consecutive season.

UNC set nearly 40 team and individual records, including most points, points per game and total offense. Walker was named first-team All-America by several organizations and was a first-team All-ACC selection along with tailback Curtis Johnson and offensive tackle Ethan Albright.

Johnson and red-shirt freshman tailback Leon Johnson each rushed for 1,000-plus yards. Curtis rushed for 1,034 yards and set a school record with a 90-yard score vs. Maryland; Leon was named the ACC Rookie of the Year as he rushed for 1,012 yards and led the conference with 16 touchdowns and 100 points.

Quarterback Jason Stanicek set UNC single-season records for total offense (2,284 yards), total yards per game (190.3), completion percentage (64.1) and pass efficiency rating (145.79).

Corey Holliday concluded his brilliant career as Carolina's all-time leading pass receiver. Twice selected a captain by his teammates, Holliday finished his four years with 155 receptions for 2,447 yards and caught a pass in an ACC-record 45 consecutive games. He had nine receptions, a UNC postseason record, versus Alabama in Carolina's 24-10 loss in the Gator Bowl.

In 1994 Carolina went 8-4, losing to Texas, 35-31, in the Sun Bowl in an exhilarating contest. Stanicek concluded his career as the school's all-time total offense leader. Stanicek passed "Choo Choo" Justice's mark, which had stood since 1949, in the fifth game of the season and finished his standout career with 5,497 yards. Stanicek also set UNC career records for most pass completions (372), attempts (622), yards (4,683) and completion percentage (.598). He tied Matt Kupec's school mark for most wins by a starting quarterback with 24.

Marcus Wall set a Tar Heel record for most touchdown catches in a season with nine and added a touchdown catch in the Sun Bowl. He also returned a kickoff for a score against Duke, returned a punt for a touchdown against Texas and had a rushing touchdown against N.C. State.

Carolina beat Duke 41-40 in one of the most exciting games in the storied history of that rivalry. The Blue Devils scored a pair of quick touchdowns in the fourth quarter to go ahead, 38-34, with less than 3:00 to play. Mike Thomas quickly connected with freshman Octavus Barnes on a short crossing route and Barnes raced past the entire secondary for a 71-yard game-winning score.

Barnes established an ACC record for receiving yards in a season by a freshman with 609. He had 165 yards on receptions, the third-highest single-game figure in Carolina history, in the regular-season finale at Duke and again in the Sun Bowl against Texas.

The 1995 Tar Heels rebounded from an 0-2 start to post a winning season for the sixth consecutive year and received an invitation to the Carquest Bowl in Fort Lauderdale, Fla. Defensive tackle Marcus Jones was the ACC Defensive Player of the Year and became the first UNC player in nine years to be named consensus first-team All-America. Jones topped Lawrence Taylor's career UNC sack record as he concluded his four years with 24, three more than Taylor.

Mike Thomas set numerous single-season total offense and passing records, including most yards of total offense (2,489), most yards passing (2,436), most pass attempts (332) and most completions (185). He threw for more than 200 yards in each of the first six games and concluded his career with nine 200-yard outings.

Tailback Leon Johnson and split end Octavus Barnes each surpassed the previous school record for pass receptions in a season. Johnson led the team in rushing with 963 yards and added 54 receptions. Barnes had 53 catches for 970 yards.

Johnson rushed for 195 yards and a touchdown in the 20-10 win over Arkansas in the Carquest Bowl. That is the highest rushing total in Carolina postseason history. Barnes established a UNC record with four 100-yard receiving games. He caught three touchdown passes and totaled 211 yards receiving, the second-highest figure in school history, in a 62-0 rout of Ohio.

Marcus Jones was named first-team All-America by the Associated Press, the American Football Coaches Association, the Walter Camp Foundation and United Press International.

1996 was one of the finest seasons in Carolina history. The Tar Heels went 10-2, won the Gator Bowl and finished 10th in both national polls. Mack Brown was named the ACC Coach of the Year as he directed a new-look offense to record-setting heights.

Seven Tar Heels earned first-team All-ACC honors led by quarterback Chris Keldorf, a junior college transfer, who set UNC single-season passing records for completions (201), yards (2,347) and touchdowns (23).

Leon Johnson set all-time UNC records for scoring (306) and touchdowns (50) and established the all-time ACC mark with 5,828 all-purpose yards. He earned All-ACC honors as a kick returner.

The Tar Heel defense, coached by National Defensive Coordinator of the Year Carl Torbush, led the country in scoring and was second with 225.6 total yards per game. Redshirt freshman cornerback Dre' Bly led the country in interceptions with an ACC-record 11 and was a consensus first-team All-America. Bly was just the fifth freshman in history and the first freshman defensive player to be named an AP All-America.

The year began with a 45-0 win over Clemson and included a 52-20 rout over N.C. State. Carolina went to Syracuse in the second week and beat the No. 9-ranked Orangemen, UNC's first road win over a Top 10 team since 1966.

The Tar Heels tied for second in the ACC. They played West Virginia in the Gator Bowl without Keldorf, who suffered a fracture dislocation of his left ankle in the last regular-season game. Oscar Davenport came off the bench to win MVP honors as he completed 14 of 26 passes for 175 yards and passed and ran for scores.

The 1997 season may go down as the most memorable in Carolina football history. The Tar Heels went 11-1, won the Gator Bowl for the second year in a row and finished fourth in the final coaches' poll and sixth in the final Associated Press poll. UNC lived up to lofty preseason predictions and spent the entire year in the Top 10.

The Tar Heels were once again led by a stifling defense. UNC allowed just 209.3 yards per game, the second-lowest figure in the NCAA and the lowest total by an ACC team since 1963. It was the fewest yards allowed by Carolina since 1948. The defense featured three first-round draft picks (defensive end Greg Ellis, defensive tackle Vonnie Holliday and linebacker Brian Simmons), a Butkus Award finalist (linebacker Kivuusama Mays) and three first-team All-Americas (Ellis, Simmons and Bly).

Bly became the first UNC football player in history to earn consensus first-team All-America honors in more than one season. He had five interceptions to lead a secondary that was third in the country in passing yards allowed.

Carolina was the only defense in the country to have finalists for the Lombardi (Ellis), Butkus (Mays) and Thorpe (Bly) Awards.

2003 CAROLINA FOOTBALL HISTORY

Tar Heels to come-from-behind wins over Stanford, Virginia and Georgia Tech. His season ended in the ninth week when he suffered a broken ankle in the loss to Florida State. That game featured the second-ranked Seminoles and fifth-ranked Tar Heels and was played in front of 62,000 fans, the largest crowd ever at Kenan Stadium.

Keldorf began the fall as the reigning All-ACC quarterback, lost his starting job, and finally replaced an injured Davenport late in the season. He set a single-game UNC record at Texas Christian by throwing for 415 yards, set the school record for career passing touchdowns with 35 and finished his career with sensational performances in wins over Clemson, Duke and Virginia Tech. Keldorf engineered the Tar Heels' 17-10 win at Clemson, Carolina's first triumph in Death Valley since 1980. Keldorf wrapped his remarkable two-year career with an MVP performance in win over the Hokies in the Gator Bowl as he threw for 290 yards and three touchdowns.

The 1997 season was the last for Mack Brown as head coach. He resigned on December 5th to become the head coach at Texas. Brown finished his 10-year career at Carolina with a 69-46-1 record. The 69 wins equal the second-most in UNC history.

Athletic director Dick Baddour promoted defensive coordinator Carl Torbush to head coach on December 8, 1997. Torbush, defensive coordinator since 1988, directed the Tar Heels to a 42-3 win over Virginia Tech in the Gator Bowl.

The 1998 season began with three straight defeats, but Torbush rallied the Tar Heels to six wins in the last eight regular-season games. That earned Carolina an invitation to the Las Vegas Bowl, where the Tar Heels beat San Diego State, 20-13.

Davenport was injured on the first series in the season opener. That injury forced the debut of freshman Ronald Curry, who would establish UNC single-season freshman records for passing yards (975), touchdown passes (six), completions (66) and total offense yards (1,394). Curry had a 48-yard touchdown run and was named Offensive MVP of the Las Vegas Bowl.

Na Brown tied his own school record with 55 receptions for 897 yards and became Carolina's all-time leading receiver with 165 catches. His most memorable grab was the game-winning touchdown pass from Davenport in overtime to beat NC State, 37-34. The game was played in Charlotte, N.C., before a record crowd of 68,797. It was the most people to ever see a college football game in North Carolina.

Ebenezer Ekuban set a single-season UNC record with 23 tackles for losses, earned the ACC's Top Senior Student-Athlete Award and was named first-team All-ACC. Ekuban was joined on the All-ACC squad by Bly, who set the conference career record for interceptions with 20.

Bly was named first-team All-America by the Walter Camp Foundation and became the only player in ACC history to be named first-team All-America in three different seasons.

Carolina was beset by injuries early in the 1999 season but improved throughout the course of the year. The Tar Heels did not allow a touchdown in the final 10 quarters of the season. UNC defeated rivals Duke and NC State, with the win over the Wolfpack coming via a classic goalline tackle by Errol Hood and David Bomar that preserved a 10-6 win.

Brian Schmitz set an ACC and UNC record by averaging 47.8 yards per punt and was named a first-team All-America by The Sporting News. Schmitz's career punting average of 44.4 yards per kick is best in ACC history.

The 2000 season was full of ups and downs as the Tar Heels opened the season 3-1 only to lose four consecutive games before defeating Maryland and Duke to finish 6-5 overall.

Despite a winning record, Carolina did not receive a bowl invitation for the second straight year and Carl Torbush was dismissed as head coach. He was replaced by former letterwinner John Bunting on December 11, 2000. Bunting was an All-ACC linebacker at Carolina in 1971 and played on two bowl teams.

Individually, defensive end Julius Peppers led the nation with 15 sacks, just one shy of the UNC record, and was named a first-team All-America. Peppers did establish a school record with 24 tackles for losses, breaking the mark set by Ekuban in 1998.

Led by Peppers, Carolina's defense posted a school-record 53 sacks and had at least three sacks in every game.

Bunting's first season was one of the most exciting in Carolina history as the Tar Heels' turned around an 0-3 start to win eight of their last 10, including a 16-10 win over Auburn in the Peach Bowl. The eight wins were the most ever by a first-year head coach at UNC.

Perhaps the most thrilling win was Carolina's 41-9 upset of No. 6 Florida State, who had lost just twice in conference play since joining the league. The Tar Heels trailed 9-7 at the half, but shut out the Seminoles in the second period and rallied for 34 unanswered points. The win set off a wild on-field celebration as Bunting notched his first win at his alma mater.

Peppers, who was the second overall pick in the NFL Draft following the season, became the first Tar Heel to win a major college football award, bringing home the Lombardi Award as the nation's top lineman and the Bednarik Award as the nation's top overall defensive player.

Carolina's defensive line in 2001 featured three players who were selected in the 2002 NFL Draft, including first round dralt picks Ryan Sims (above) and Julius Peppers.

CAROLINA'S FIRST-TEAM ALL-AMERICAS

GEORGE BARCLAY
Guard, 1934

Barclay was Carolina's first football All-America. The 5-11, 185-pound guard and linebacker was a three-year standout for Chuck Collins and Carl Snavely. A fine blocker and an extraordinary tackler, Barclay lined up in the offensive interior next to tackle Jim Tatum. He was captain of the 1934 team which went 7-1-1. Barclay later served as head coach at Carolina for three seasons, from 1953 to 1955.

ANDY BERSHAK
End, 1937

A 185-pound end, Bershak was a two-way performer for the Tar Heels. He was a fine receiver, but was even better on defense. He played two years for Carl Snavely and one for Ray Wolf. Bershak, an honor student, was also a basketball starter. He was selected to the Order of the Golden Fleece and served as president of the Carolina Athletic Association.

Tackle, 1938

Maronic was a two-way tackle for the Tar Heels and team co-captain in 1938. He was an "iron man," playing almost 60 minutes in every game that season. He turned in two of his best performances in front of the New York media against NYU at Yankee Stadium and Fordham at the Polo Grounds. Those games solidified his All-America chances. Maronic also was a place-kicker and hit 13 straight PATs in his final season.

PAUL SEVERIN
End, 1939-40

Severin was a two-time All-America selection by the Associated Press (1939 and 1940) and made most of the all-star teams in his senior season. His career was filled with big plays—a touchdown catch to tie Tulane in 1939, two scoring catches against Penn that same season and a touchdown-saving tackle from behind of Duke's great Steve Lach in a 6-3 win over the Blue Devils in 1940.

CHARLIE JUSTICE
Halfback, 1948-49

Twice a runner-up for the Heisman Trophy, Justice is rated by many as the best all-around player in the history of Southern football. He was a true triple-threat performer, leading Carolina in rushing, passing and punting from 1946 to 1949. He sparked Tar Heel teams which appeared in the Sugar Bowl twice and the Cotton Bowl once. He was the school's all-time total offense leader with 4,883 yards for more than 40 years and also ranks as the Tar Heels' fourth-leading career scorer, eighth-leading rusher and 18th-leading passer. He had a career punting average of 42.6 and averaged 14.2 yards on punt returns and 26.6 yards on kickoff returns. In 1948 he received the national player of the year award from the Washington Touchdown Club and was recipient of the Walter Camp Memorial Trophy. Justice is a member of the College Football Hall of Fame.

KEN POWELL
Defensive End, 1949

Powell teamed with Art Weiner to give UNC a formidable pass receiving threat in the post-Wold War II "Justice Era." He was outstanding the 1947 Sugar Bowl against Georgia and earned first-team All-America honors at defensive end in 1949 by NEA. That organization named Powell to its All-America Team on defense, the first time it selected All-Americas on both offense and defense. He finished his career with 23 receptions for 324 yards and three touchdowns.

ART WEINER

A great all-around end, Weiner led the nation in receiving in 1949 with 52 catches. He had been seventh nationally in receiving the previous year with 31 catches. His 106 career catches are the ninth-most in school history and until 1997 he held the UNC career record with 18 touchdown receptions. Many remember him best for a game-saving defensive play on the last snap of the 1949 Duke game. Weiner was named the most outstanding lineman in the Senior Bowl. Weiner was inducted into the College Football Hall of Fame in 1992.

IRV HOLDASH
Center, 1950

While Carolina's football fortunes slipped in the years immediately following the Charlie Justice Era, Holdash still received national attention for his outstanding play. A center on offense and linebacker on defense, Holdash was a three-year regular who never missed a game during his varsity career. He perhaps sealed All-America honors in 1950 with a sensational performance in a 14-7 loss at Notre Dame. Irish quarterback Bobby Williams called him "the best I've played against."

AL GOLDSTEIN
End, 1958

An outstanding two-way end, Goldstein earned All-America honors in 1958 by making 24 catches for 490 yards, averaging an amazing 20.4 yards per reception. Adept at making the seemingly impossible catch, he had a 68-yard TD reception at Virginia. He also starred defensively and had a 46-yard interception return for a touchdown against Maryland.

BOB LACEY
End, 1963

Lacey led the Atlantic Coast Conference in receiving in 1963 with 48 catches for 533 yards. His pass-catching was a key factor as Carolina rolled to a 9-2 record, defeating Air Force, 35-0, in the Gator Bowl. Lacey was also the team's top receiver in 1962 with 44 catches. He was the first Tar Heel player to have at least 40 catches in two seasons. His career total of 102 receptions is the 10th-best in school history.

DON McCAULEY
Halfback, 1970

McCauley shattered the Carolina and the Atlantic Coast Conference record books with a dazzling senior season in 1970. He rushed for 1,720 yards and scored 21 touchdowns, setting marks which still stand. His 1,720 yards was an all-time collegiate high at the time, breaking O.J. Simpson's NCAA record. McCauley led the nation in all-purpose running that season. He was twice the ACC Player of the Year and still ranks fifth in career rushing at UNC. He had a lengthy professional career with the Baltimore Colts. He was inducted into the College Football Hall of Fame in 2002.

RON RUSNAK
Offensive Guard, 1972

Rusnak was a unanimous All-America selection in 1972 as Carolina posted an 11-1 record. At 6-2 and 220 pounds, he did not have the size to play professional football, but Rusnak was a great college player. He was a two-time All-Atlantic Coast Conference choice, starting on teams which combined for a 20-4 record. In 1972 he won the Jacobs Blocking Trophy as the best blocker in the ACC.

KEN HUFF
Offensive Guard, 1974

Huff was a key man on one of the most explosive units in Carolina history. He was the leader of an offensive line which helped the Tar Heels accumulate 4,691 yards, at the time a school record, in 1974. The 6-4, 255-pound Huff won the Jacobs Blocking Trophy as the best blocker in the Atlantic Coast Conference. Sparked in great part by his play up front, the Tar Heels had two backs rush for over 1,000 yards in the same season. Huff was the third player selected in the NFL draft by the Baltimore Colts.

CHARLES WADDELL
Tight End, 1974

Waddell rates as one of the best all-around athletes in Carolina history. He won three football letters, two in basketball and one in track. Not only was he a fine receiver at tight end, but he was also a dynamic blocker. He set a school single-game record in 1974 with three touchdown catches against Clemson. He had 41 career catches for 518 yards and seven TDs. His professional career was cut short by a knee injury.

DEE HARDISON
Defensive Tackle, 1977
A two-time All-Atlantic Coast Conference selection, Hardison played on one of the top defensive teams in Carolina history. UNC led the nation in scoring defense in 1977, giving up just 7.4 points a game. The Tar Heels led the ACC in total, rushing, passing and scoring defense. A big reason was the play of Hardison, a 6-3, 252-pound tackle who dominated the line of scrimmage all season. After leaving Carolina he began a lengthy NFL career with the Buffalo Bills.

RICKY BARDEN
Defensive Back, 1979
One of the top defensive backs in Carolina history, Barden was a repeat All-Atlantic Coast Conference selection in 1978 and 1979. Barden made nine career interceptions. He started at cornerback for two years and then was shifted to strong safety for his final year where he broke up nine passes and was the third-leading tackler on the team. His 156 yards on interception returns are the third-most in school history.

LAWRENCE TAYLOR (abave)
Outside Linebacker, 1980
From midway in his junior season until the end of his senior year in 1980, Taylor dominated the football field as few defensive players ever had. Now regarded as the finest outside linebacker in the history of the game, Taylor had a remarkable senior season which featured a school-record 16 quarterback sacks and six other tackles for losses. In Carolina's only close games in an 11-1 season, Taylor made the game-saving defensive plays against Texas Tech and Clemson. He was a runaway selection as ACC Player of the Year.

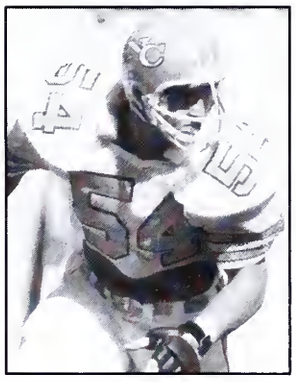
RON WOOTEN
Offensive Guard, 1980
Wooten won the Jacobs Blocking Trophy in 1980 as the best blocker in the Atlantic Coast Conference. He was the leading vote-getter in the offensive line on the All-ACC team. He was one of the leaders of an offensive line which helped the Tar Heels lead the ACC in total offense and which also helped produce two 1,000-yard backs. He went on to become a starting guard with New England in the NFL.



DAVID DRECHSLER
Offensive Guard, 1981-82
Drechsler became Carolina's first two-time All-America since Charlie Justice and Art Weiner when he earned first-team honors in 1981 and 1982. He played every position in the offensive interior during his Carolina career, but settled in at guard. The 6-4, 253-pound Drechsler played on Tar Heel teams which were 37-10-1 and were unbeaten in four bowl games. He also was the winner of a post-graduate scholarship from the NCAA. Drechsler went on to become a starter with the Green Bay Packers until a back injury forced him to give up the game.

WILLIAM FULLER
Defensive Tackle, 1982-83
Fuller is one of just six Carolina players to win first-team All-America honors twice. Although powerfully built at 6-3 and 250 pounds, Fuller's greatest asset was his quickness. He used that quickness to make 13 tackles for losses and six sacks in 1982 and 17 tackles for losses with five sacks the following year. He was the only unanimous choice on the 1983 All-ACC team and is one of just three defensive linemen ever to make All-ACC for three straight years.

BRIAN BLADOS
Offensive Tackle, 1983
When two Carolina tailbacks ran for over 1,000 yards in 1983, much of that yardage came behind Blados. The 6-6, 305-pound left tackle dominated the line of scrimmage as Carolina set a school total offense record and finished seventh nationally in yardage. Blados was named on 90 of 100 ballots in voting for the All-Atlantic Coast Conference team. He was a first round choice by the Cincinnati Bengals in the NFL draft.

HARRIS BARTON
Offensive Tackle, 1986

Barton was a four-year starter for the Tar Heels, first at center and then at tackle. With so many teams playing even-man front defenses, Barton was moved to tackle in 1984 to take better advantage of his skills. He excelled at left tackle, the key blocking spot in the Carolina passing game. As a senior, he led an offensive line which helped the Tar Heels rank first in the Atlantic Coast Conference and sixth nationally in total offense. An excellent student, he was chosen for a post-graduate scholarship by the National Football Foundation and was a first-round selection in the NFL draft.

PAT CROWLEY
Offensive Guard, 1989

Crowley was a standout offensive guard and a leader of the first of Mack Brown's teams. He won first-team All-Atlantic Coast Conference honors in 1987, 1988 and 1989 and became only the second offensive lineman in conference history to win three all-league honors (Virginia's Jim Dombrowski was the other). He started every game in his college career and helped open the way for a pair of 1,000-yard backs (Derrick Fenner in 1986 and Kennard Martin in 1988). He is one of three Tar Heels to be named first-team All-ACC in three seasons.

BRACEY WALKER
Free Safety, 1993

The first Carolina defensive back to ever receive first-team All-America honors by a major organization, Walker burst onto the scene in 1992 when he was one of the stars of the Peach Bowl win over Mississippi State. Walker blocked two punts in that game, returned one of them for a tying touchdown and set up the game-winning interception with a jarring collision. He was the Defensive MVP of the Peach Bowl. In 1993 he led the Tar Heels with 100 tackles and was the co-leading vote-getter on the All-ACC first team defense. He also blocked four more punts, two of which were recovered in the end zone by Carolina, and was named the National Special Teams Player of the Year by Sports Illustrated.

Defensive Tackle, 1995

Jones became the first Tar Heel to earn consensus first-team All-America honors since Harris Barton in 1986 and the first defensive lineman since William Fuller in 1982-83. Jones had 25 career sacks and finished with 222 tackles. That included 46 behind the line of scrimmage. He broke Lawrence Taylor's school record for sacks and held that mark until Greg Ellis broke the record in 1997. He was named the Atlantic Coast Conference Defensive Player of the Year in 1995 and earned first-team All-ACC honors for the second straight season. He became the first Tar Heel defender to repeat all-conference selections since Tim Goad in 1986-87. As a senior he had a career-high 94 tackles, despite facing constant double- and triple-team efforts. He registered an ACC-leading 19 tackles for losses for 74 yards, seven of which were quarterback sacks. He was hampered in the first half of the season by a knee sprain. Over the last five weeks, however, he averaged 10.8 tackles per game and had 16 tackles for losses for 65 yards, including six sacks for 41 yards, and pressured the quarterback 13 times. Quite fittingly, Jones capped his career by sacking Arkansas quarterback Barry Lunney on the Razorbacks' final offensive play in Carolina's 20-10 win in the 1995 Carquest Bowl.

DRE' BLY
Cornerback, 1996-97

The first freshman in ACC history to earn consensus first-team All-America honors, Bly became just the fifth freshman in NCAA history to be named to the Associated Press All-America first team in 1996. He was also a first-team All-America selection by the Walter Camp Football Foundation, the Football Writers Association of America, The Sporting News and Athlon Sports and a finalist for the Jim Thorpe Award as the National Defensive Back of the Year. He earned Atlantic Coast Conference first-team honors and was the league's Rookie of the Year. He is the only UNC freshman to earn first-team All-America honors. He made two second-half interceptions, broke up two passes and had seven tackles against West Virginia in the 1997 Gator Bowl. Bly led the nation in interceptions and interceptions per game. He set an ACC single-season interceptions record with 11, one more than Bob Sullivan of Maryland had in 10 games in 1965. The Chesapeake, Va. native had three multi-interception games, including three against Georgia Tech, two at Florida State and two at Virginia. In 1997, Bly became the first player in UNC history to repeat consensus first-team All-America honors. He had five interceptions, including one he returned for a touchdown in a comeback win over Virginia. In 1998, he set the ACC all-time record with his 20th interception (not counting the two he had in the Gator Bowl). He was named first-team All-America by the Walter Camp Foundation. Bly is the only player in ACC history to earn first-team All-America honors on three occasions.

GREG ELLIS
Defensive End, 1997

A defensive end from 1994-97, Ellis is the Tar Heels' career leader in quarterback sacks. The Wendell, N.C., native had 32.5 sacks for 253 yards in his career. He anchored a defense that was second in the country in total yards allowed in each of his final two seasons. Carolina posted a 21-3 record in that span and had consecutive Top 10 finishes in the polls. Ellis is one of only four players in Carolina football history to be named first-team All-ACC three times. He was voted by his teammates as a team captain and the best overall senior. He was the eighth selection in the first round of the 1998 NFL Draft by the Dallas Cowboys.

BRIAN SIMMONS
Outside Linebacker, 1997

An outside linebacker from 1994-97, Simmons was a major contributor in Carolina's rise to the Top 10 in his final two seasons. A first-round draft selection of the Cincinnati Bengals, Simmons had 317 tackles over his last three seasons. He was named first-team All-America as a senior by the Associated Press, Walter Camp Foundation and Football News and was a first-team All-ACC selection and second-team AP All-America as a junior. The New Bern, N.C., native finished his career with 36 tackles for losses and 11 sacks.

BRIAN SCHMITZ
Punter, 1999

Schmitz was named a first-team All-America in 1999 after averaging 47.8 yards per kick, an ACC and UNC record. He led the ACC and ranked second in the nation in punting average. Schmitz also set the ACC career record for punting average at 44.4 yards per kick. He had at least one 50-yard punt in all 11 UNC games in 1999 and 32 kicks of over 50 yards. He had 63 punts of 40 yards or more in 72 attempts on the season. Schmitz and backup punter Derrick DePriest combined to establish an NCAA single-season record for team punting average at 47.7 yards.

JULIUS PEPPERS
Defensive End, 2000-01

One of the top two-sport athletes in Carolina history, Peppers became the first Tar Heel to win a national college football award by winning both the Lombardi Trophy as the nation's top lineman and the Bednarik Award as the nation's top defensive player. In just three seasons, Peppers finished second at Carolina in career sacks and tackles for loss. In 2000, he led the nation with 15 sacks and established a school record with 24 tackles for losses. The following year, Peppers led a defense that finished first in the ACC and 15th in the nation in total defense. He became just the second Tar Heel and the first since Lawrence Taylor to earn unanimous All-America honors. A forward on Carolina's basketball team, Peppers averaged 7.1 points and 4.0 rebounds to help the Tar Heels claim a share of the 2001 regular-season ACC championship. He was the second overall pick in the 2002 NFL Draft by the Carolina Panthers.

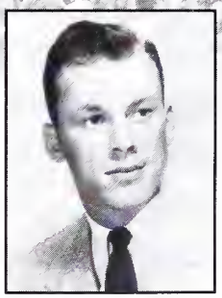
CAROLINA GREAT: CHARLIE "CHOO-CHOO" JUSTICE



Charlie Justice was more than just a great football player. He was a bonafide superstar...a hero...a legend in his own time. He had an impact on his home state that no other athlete had ever had before or few have had since.

During his four years in Chapel Hill, from 1946 to 1949, Justice helped guide the Tar Heels to three major bowls. For one week during the 1948 season Carolina was ranked as the nation's No. 1 college football team. The Tar Heels ended that year rated third, the best finish in school history.

It is no wonder then he was held in great esteem by everyone in the state. Certainly, the time was right for a hero like Charlie Justice. World War II had just ended and people wanted to turn their attention to more pleasant things. They wanted someone to help them forget the trauma they had just suffered. So they looked for heroes and they found Charlie Justice.

In his book, They Made the Bell Tower Chime, Bob Quincy summed up Charlie Justice's college career quite succinctly. An excerpt is repeated here:

The Justice era of 1946-49 was the most exciting in Carolina's football history. Charlie was the ringleader of a circus of thrills. He set the pace, but his backing was superb.

The Tar Heels operated from the single wing with the kinds of variations that at times resembled the Harlem Globetrotters' pre-game ball-handling act. The four seasons netted 32 victories, seven losses and two deadlocks, plus three major bowl appearances.

The 170-pound Justice was one of the nation's most sought-after players when he enrolled at Carolina. Some called him the hottest property in the history of football at that time. He had been a standout at Asheville's Lee Edwards High, leading the Maroons to two unbeaten seasons. He was All-Southern two years at Asheville, and as a member of the Shrine Bowl football team in 1942 he scored three touchdowns against South Carolina, a record that still stands.

The Navy became home for Charlie during the war years, and he became a phantom on a pro-studded Bainbridge Navy Squad. After two years of romping for Bainbridge against opponents across the country, he was a target for pro offers from the Philadelphia Eagles and Washington.

Charlie wanted an education, and scouts stayed in pursuit. He chose Chapel Hill after seriously considering South Carolina and Duke. An off-hand remark by Snavely—"I hope he comes out for football"—became a classic understatement.

In the Virginia game his freshman year he gained 170 yards in 17 carries with runs of 18, 40, and 56 yards. He had seen little practice because of a leg injury, but the Cavaliers were certain he carried a spare appendage.

Choo Choo (he acquired the name at Bainbridge when a gob remarked, "He runs along just like a choo choo train,") was excitement. He was all eagerness on the sidelines and all business when he moved into the tailback slot. He thrived on duty, and he was a master of the quick kick, a devastating rusher, a good passer, and a fake artist who could charm a cobra.

Jack Fitch, a thick-legged back who occasionally shared duty with Justice when not playing on the wing, sized up Charlie's style by noting, "Justice has the ability to be running at full speed, stop suddenly, and then be back at full speed almost instantly. He was never regarded as fast in terms of a track man. He had a change of pace that couldn't be matched, and he knew how to follow blockers as well as any back I've ever watched."

The Snavely system called for a spinning fullback, fakes and counter fakes, fullback pass plays and reverses. It was a dashing brand of football made more exciting by players' ability and maturity to accept Snavely's often complicated maneuvers.

A book, "Choo Choo", documents the career of Charlie Justice. He was a folk hero and deserved the special treatment. The great Benny Goodman and the late Johnny Long recorded the Campbell-Beebe song, "All The Way Choo Choo." It sold by the thousands.

Typical of Justice was the Georgia game of 1948. He scored three times against the Bulldogs in a 21-14 triumph, the climax being an 84-yard punt return. At mid-way point that season, the Tar Heels were ranked No. 1 in the nation.

Justice erased more records than a company of auditors during his four years at UNC. He scored 234 points and passed or ran for 64 touchdowns. As a ball carrier he accumulated 2,634 yards.

His total offense record of 4,883 yards lasted for 45 years until quarterback Jason Stanicek broke the mark in 1994. Justice, graciously, was on hand to congratulate Stanicek.

Justice seemed to peak when the traditional games were being played. He led the Tar Heels to four straight wins over Duke. He was an All-America mention as a freshman and made many of the major teams as a junior and as a senior. He was runnerup for the Heisman Trophy to Doak Walker of SMU in 1949.

Charlie's finest moment came in the College All-Star Game of 1950 at Chicago's Soldier Field. He was voted the MVP of the game for good reason. The All-Stars walloped the Philadelphia Eagles, led by Steve Van Buren, 17-7. Justice gained 133 yards individually, or 48 more than the Eagles posted as a team. He set up a touchdown on a 60-yard pass from Eddie LeBaron.

In a ribbon-cutting ceremony last year, the Kenan Football Center's first floor memorahilia room was named the Charlie Justice Hall of Honor and a special section was devoted to his accomplishments.

CAROLINA'S HONORED JERSEYS

Eighteen former University of North Carolina football players have been honored in a special fashion as their names and jersey numbers have been placed on the facade of Kenan Stadium's upper deck. Eight new players will have their jerseys honored this fall, including Harris Barton, Brian Blados, Irv Holdash, Bob Lacey, Julius Peppers, Paul Severin, Kelvin Bryant and Amos Lawrence.

The men honored include five who have already had their jersey numbers retired, Carolina's consensus first-team All-Americas and any athlete who was named Atlantic Coast Conference Player of the Year. Consensus All-Americas are those players who made the majority of the first-team selections in any given year. This past year, the Athletics Council and Athletic Director Dick Baddour voted to also honor five first-team Associated Press All-Americas and two players who were among the ACC's greatest 50 football players.

The players whose names and numbers are honored in Kenan Stadium are:

GEORGE BARCLAY #99

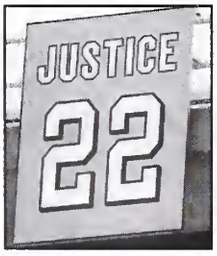
A guard and linebacker from 1932 to 1934, whose number has been retired. He was the school's first football All-America and is a member of the state of North Carolina's Sports Hall of Fame. A guard and linebacker at 5-11, 185 pounds, Barclay was a standout for three seasons under coaches Chuck Collins and Carl Snavely. A tremendous blocker and ferocious tackler, he was captain of the 1934 team that went 7-1-1. Barclay later served as UNC's head coach from 1953 until 1955.

ANDY BERSHAK #59

A great two-way end from 1935 to 1937 who was a consensus All-America in 1937. His number also has been retired. Bershak was a brilliant defender and his team's top receiver. He also was a starter on the basketball team and an honor student. Bershak was selected to the Order of the Golden Fleece and served as president of the Carolina Athletic Association.

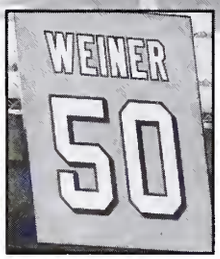
BILL SUTHERLAND #46

A blocking back on the 1946 Sugar Bowl team, whose number has been retired. He died in an auto accident after his freshman year, stunning his teammates and Coach Carl Snavely. Sutherland was named one of the Tar Heels' three captains for what would have been his sophomore season and Snavely worked to ensure that his number would be retired.



CHARLIE JUSTICE #22

One of the most famous and popular athletes in the history of the state. Justice was a consensus All-America and twice runner-up for the Heisman Trophy. During his four seasons, 1946-49, Carolina went to the Sugar Bowl twice and the Cotton Bowl once. A single-wing tailback, he still holds many of the school's total offense records. In addition, he was a sensational punter and kick returner. He was the 1948 National Player of the Year.



ART WEINER #50

An outstanding two-way end from 1946 to 1949, whose number has been retired. Weiner won All-America honors in 1948 and 1949 and was the nation's leading receiver as a senior. He teamed with the legendary Charlie Justice to form perhaps the most potent offensive duo in school history. Voted the top lineman in the Senior Bowl, Weiner is a member of the National Football Hall of Fame. He is still ninth in UNC receptions with 106.

DANNY TALBOTT #10

A star quarterback from 1964 to 1966 and the 1965 ACC Player of the Year under Head Coach Jim Hickey. Talbott led the league in total offense and scoring that season. He had 318 yards of total offense in one game against Georgia, at the time a school record.

DON McCAULEY #23

The ACC Player of the Year as a junior and senior and a consensus All-America in 1970, his final season. McCauley was the first of Carolina's NCAA-record 23 backs to rush for 1,000 yards. He twice led the ACC in rushing with 1,092 yards in 1969 and 1,720 in 1970. That latter total at the time broke O.J. Simpson's single-season NCAA record. He also led the nation in all-purpose running as a senior and his 126 points that year still is the league record.

RON RUSNAK #62

An offensive guard on three bowl teams from 1970 to 1972 who won unanimous All-America honors in his senior season. At 6-2, 220 pounds, Rusnak wasn't as big as some linemen, but had great technique. He was the cornerstone of the offensive front on the 1972 team, which went 11-1. Rusnak was a two-time All-Atlantic Coast Conference choice on teams which combined for a 20-4 record. He won the Jacobs Blocking Trophy in 1972 as the best blocker in the ACC.

KEN HUFF #68

A three-year starter at offensive guard from 1972 to 1974 and a consensus All-America as a senior. Huff was a dynamic blocker at 6-4 and 250 pounds. He was the key figure on the 1974 line which helped Carolina boast a pair of 1,000-yard backs and lead the ACC in total offense, rushing and scoring. Led by Huff, UNC accumulated 4,691 yards, at the time a school record. The Tar Heels were fifth nationally in total offense and ninth in scoring that season. Huff won the Jacobs Blocking Trophy as the best blocker in the Atlantic Coast Conference and was the third player selected overall in the 1974 NFL draft by the Baltimore Colts.

2003 CAROLINA FOOTBALL HISTORY

MIKE VOIGHT #44

A hard-running tailback from 1973 to 1976 who was the ACC Player of the Year as both a junior and senior. Voight is second in Carolina history in rushing with 3,971 yards and third in scoring with 254 points. He had three 1,000-yard seasons and twice was the top ground-gainer in the ACC. In 1976 he scored 110 points and ran for 1,407 yards, including 261 in his final game —a dramatic 39-38 shootout with Duke.

DEE HARDISON #71

A defensive tackle from 1974 to 1977 and a consensus All-America as a senior. Hardison was the star of one of Carolina's greatest defenses in his final year. He dominated the line of scrimmage all season long as the Tar Heels led the nation in scoring defense in 1977, giving up just 7.4 points a game. Carolina also topped the ACC in total, rushing and pass defense that year. No team would lead the league in all four again until Florida State in its 1993 national championship season.

LAWRENCE TAYLOR #98

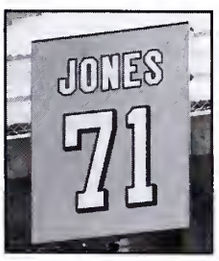
An outside linebacker from 1977 to 1980 who is regarded as the greatest player of all time at that position. Taylor was a consensus All-America and the ACC Player of the Year in 1980. He had a Carolina-record 16 quarterback sacks that season for losses totaling 127 yards. Sparked by his play, the Tar Heels went 11-1 in 1980 and won the ACC championship.

WILLIAM FULLER #95

A defensive lineman from 1980 to 1983 who was a consensus All-America as a senior. Also honored as a first-team All-America as a junior, he is one of only six Tar Heel players to be named first-team All-America twice. Fuller, who utilized his tremendous quickness to slice through offensive lines, had 22 tackles for losses in both 1981 and 1983. He is one of only three defensive linemen ever to make the All-ACC team three times.

ETHAN HORTON #12

The Associated Press ACC Player of the Year as a senior, Horton rushed for 1,247 yards in 1984 after a 1,107-yard performance in 1983. He was named the game's co-MVP in UNC's 1981 Gator Bowl win over Arkansas and was the MVP of the 1982 Sun Bowl.



MARCUS JONES #71

A defensive end/tackle from 1992 to 1995 who was a consensus All-America and the ACC Defensive Player of the Year as a senior. Jones had 24 career quarterback sacks to break Lawrence Taylor's school record. A two-time first-team All-ACC selection, Jones led a Tar Heel defense which had the ACC's No. 1 rated total defense in 1995. He finished his career with 222 tackles, including 46 for losses. Jones helped Carolina to four straight bowl invitations and wins in the 1993 Peach and 1995 Carquest Bowls.

GREG ELLIS #87

A defensive end from 1994 to 1997, Ellis is UNC's all-time leader in quarterback sacks. The Wendell, N.C., native had 32.5 sacks for 253 yards in his career. He anchored a defense that was second in the country in total yards in each of his final two seasons. Carolina posted a 21-3 record in that span and had consecutive Top 10 finishes in the polls. Ellis is one of only four players in Carolina football history to be named first-team All-ACC three times. He was voted by his teammates as a team captain and the best overall senior. He was the eighth selection in the first round of the 1998 NFL Draft by the Dallas Cowboys.

BRIAN SIMMONS #41

An outside linebacker from 1994 to 1997, Simmons was a major contributor in Carolina's rise to the Top 10 in his final two seasons. A first-round draft selection of the Cincinnati Bengals in '97, Simmons had 317 tackles over his last three seasons. He was named first-team All-America as a senior by the Associated Press, Walter Camp Foundation and Football News and was a first-team All-ACC selection and second-team AP All-America as a junior. The New Bern, N.C., native finished his career with 36 tackles for losses and 11 sacks.

DRE' BLY #31

The Chesapeake, Va., native is the only player in Atlantic Coast Conference history to earn first-team All-America honors in three different seasons. Bly became the first freshman defensive player in college football history to earn consensus first-team All-America honors in 1996. When he repeated consensus honors in 1997, he became the first two-time consensus All-America in UNC football history. In 1998, he set the all-time ACC record for interceptions with 20 and was named first-team All-America by the Walter Camp Foundation. Bly led the nation as a freshman with 11 interceptions in the regular season and added two more pass thefts in the Gator Bowl win over West Virginia. Bly was named first-team All-America in 1996 by the Associated Press, The Sporting News, the Football Writers and the Walter Camp Foundation. In 1997, Bly added five more interceptions and was named All-America by the Associated Press, the Walter Camp Foundation, the Football Writers and Football News.

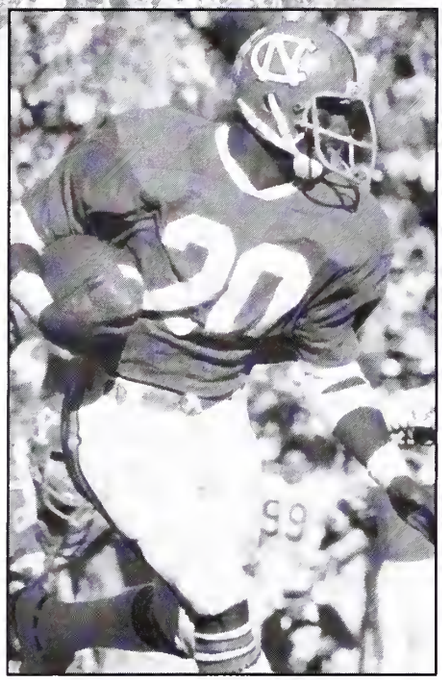
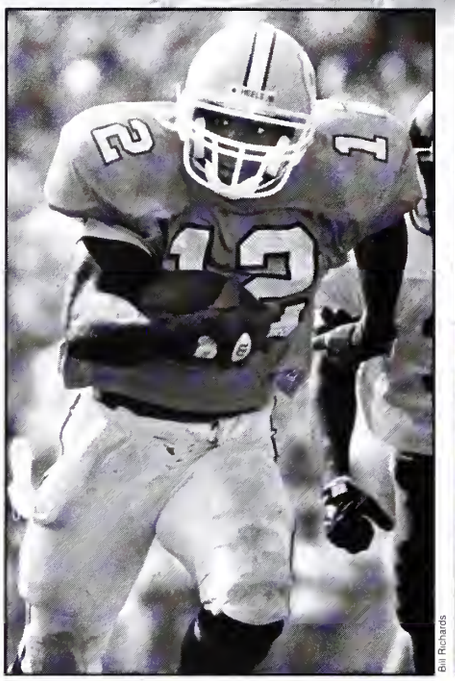
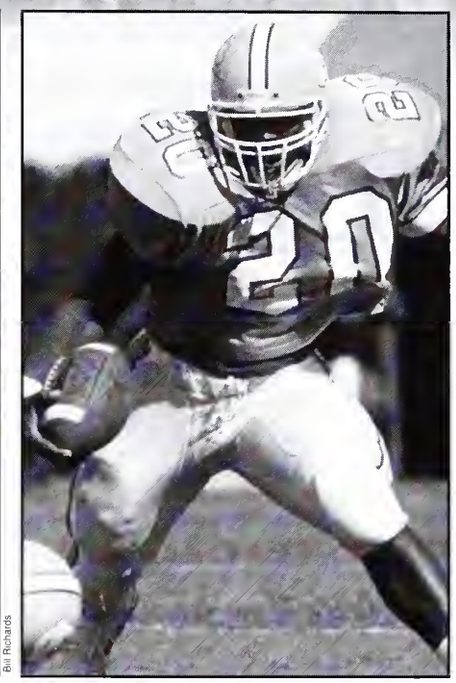
CAROLINA'S 1,000-YARD RUSHING TRADITION



Amos Lawrence is one of only four players in NCAA Division I history to rush for 1,000 yards in each of his four seasons.



Leon Johnson, the ACC's all-purpose yardage leader, rushed for 1,012 yards in 1993.



Natrone Means rushed for over 1,000 yards in 1991 and 1992.

When Jonathan Linton rushed for 199 yards in Carolina's 50-14 win over Duke in the 1997 regular-season finale, he became the 14th Tar Heel running back to rush for 1,000 yards in a season. Linton finished that 11-1 season with 1,004 yards. UNC players have accomplished the feat 24 times, an NCAA record. The University of Southern California is second with 21.

Those 24 1,000-yard seasons have been achieved in the last 33 years, beginning with Don McCauley, who had back-to-back 1,000-yard campaigns in 1969 and 1970. Linton was the fourth different Tar Heel back to gain 1,000 yards in the 1990s. Natrone Means had 1,030 yards as a sophomore in 1991 and 1,195 yards in leading UNC to nine wins in 1992. In '91, Means topped 1,000 yards on his final carry of the season, a 68-yard touchdown run versus Duke. He vaulted past 1,000 in similar fashion a year later as he reached the magical figure on a wild, 76-yard scoring scamper at Maryland.

Means entered the NFL Draft after his junior year, but Curtis Johnson and Leon Johnson responded with tandem 1,000-yard seasons in 1993. That was the fourth time in UNC history that not one, but two, players topped the 1,000-yard mark.

Carolina's 24 1,000-yard seasons are more than the next two ACC schools have combined. Virginia is second in number of 1,000-yard seasons with 12 and Clemson is third with 10. NC State has nine, Wake Forest has eight, Florida State has seven, Georgia Tech and Maryland each have six and Duke has four.

In a 12-year period from 1973 to 1984, Carolina had at least one player break the 1,000-yard mark each season. Three times in that era, the Tar Heels had two tailbacks get 1,000 yards in the same season. It has been rare in college football for a school to produce two 1,000-yard backs in one year. When it has happened it has generally been with option attacks– the veer or the wishbone. But, on all four occasions when Carolina has had a pair of 1,000-yard rushers, the players actually shared the same position– tailback in an I-formation.

Carolina and USC have each had two players rush for 1,000 yards three times– Mike Voight and Kelvin Bryant of the Tar Heels and the Trojans' Charles White and Anthony Davis.

In addition, Carolina's Amos Lawrence had an amazing four 1,000-yard seasons. Lawrence, Pittsburgh's Tony Dorsett, New Mexico State's Denvis Manns and Wisconsin's Ron Dayne are the only major college players ever to hit the 1,000-yard mark four times. Lawrence rushed for a career-high 1,211 yards in 1977 as he earned ACC Rookie of the Year honors. Lawrence didn't even play in the first game that year and still managed to run for over 1,200 yards in just 10 games. He was eighth in the nation in rushing and became the first freshman to ever lead the ACC in a major offensive category.

Lawrence, from Norfolk, Va., added 1,043 yards in 1978, 1,019 yards in 1979 and 1,118 yards and a career-high 11 touchdowns in 1980.

McCauley rushed for 1,720 yards in 1970. At that time it broke O.J. Simpson's all-time NCAA single-season yardage record. McCauley's 1970 season is one of the finest in ACC history. His 1,720 yards, 19 rushing touchdowns, 10 100-yard rushing games, 2,021 all-purpose yards and 126 points all were single-season ACC records. The first UNC back to earn consensus All-America honors since Charlie Justice, McCauley capped his brilliant career with a memorable game against Duke as he rushed 47 times for 279 yards and five touchdowns in a 59-36 win over the Blue Devils. One local sportswriter wrote of McCauley's final Kenan Stadium effort, "McCauley's performance against Duke was the greatest one-man show since King Kong climbed the Empire State Building."

Another scribe from the Charlotte Observer wrote, "Don McCauley may be the finest football player the Atlantic Coast Conference has ever seen."

McCauley is one of only two

Tar Heel 1,000-yard backs from outside the ACC's geographic area. He is a native of Garden City, N.Y. Linton, from Catasauqua, Pa., added to that short list in 1997.

Bryant, Tyrone Anthony, James Betterson, Ethan Horton, Sammy Johnson, Kennard Martin, Means, Curtis Johnson and Leon Johnson are all North Carolinians. Lawrence and Voight grew up in Virginia, and Derrick Fenner is from Maryland.

Many of Carolina's 1,000-yard rushers went on to successful careers in the professional ranks. McCauley played with the Baltimore Colts for 11 seasons and broke many of the club's rushing and scoring records set by Alan Ameche and Lenny Moore. Bryant was the USFL's Player of the Year in that league's first season. He joined the Washington Redskins in 1986.

Means led the Chargers to the Super Bowl in 1994 and was named to the Pro Bowl. He set the single-season rushing record for the Chargers in just his second season when he compiled 1,350 yards in 1994. Means was second in the AFC and fourth in the NFL in rushing yards and he set a Charger record with five consecutive 100-yard games. He was the offensive spark which led Jacksonville to the AFC Championship Game in 1996 in the franchise's second year of existence.

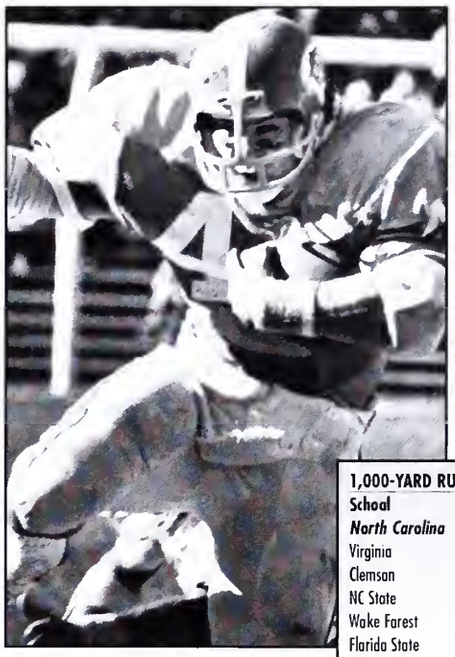
Horton, Sammy Johnson and Leon Johnson were recruited as quarterbacks. All of the others were high school running backs, although McCauley was more highly regarded as a defensive back.

Fenner set the ACC rushing record in 1986 by gaining 328 yards against Virginia, although that mark was surpassed by Wake Forest's John Leach in 1993 against Maryland. Martin had 291 in 1988 against Duke. Lawrence had 286 against Virginia in 1977 and McCauley gained 279 against Duke in 1970. Then comes Voight's 261 against the Blue Devils in 1976. In 1990, Means rushed for 256 yards in the season finale vs. Duke.

Two of the top single-season efforts ever in the ACC are McCauley's 1,720 yards in 1970 and Voight's 1,407 in 1976. McCauley and Voight are the only Carolina players to be named ACC Player of the Year in two seasons. McCauley was the top ACC player in 1969 and 1970 and Voight earned that award in 1975 and 1976.

Ethan Horton is the only other UNC player to be named ACC Player of the Year in the same season he rushed for 1,000 yards.

Leon Johnson is the only player in Atlantic Coast Conference history to be in the top five in career all-purpose yards, top five in career touchdowns, top five in career scoring, top 10 in career rushing yards and top 10 in career receptions.



Mike Voight had three straight 1,000-yard rushing seasons from 1974-76.

He is first in all-purpose yards in league history, second in touchdowns and fifth in scoring. He scored 50 touchdowns in his career, just one shy of the all-time ACC record held by Ted Brown of N.C. State. He scored 306 points, one of just four players in league history to top the 300-point mark. He and Brown are the only two non-kickers to accomplish that feat.

Linton alternated for much of his career between tailback and fullback. He was a reserve behind Leon Johnson for several years, but then became a standout as a senior. Linton became the first player in Carolina history to rush for 100 yards and catch passes for 100 yards in the same game. He rushed for 138 yards and added 137 receiving yards in Carolina's 16-13 win at Georgia Tech. Despite suffering a knee injury days before the Gator Bowl, Linton rushed for 68 yards and caught six passes for 81 yards in UNC's 42-3 win over Virginia Tech.

CAROLINA'S BOWL GAME HISTORY

The University of North Carolina has played in 24 postseason bowl games, including eight in the last 11 years heading into the 2003 season. The Tar Heels are 12-12 all-time in bowl games and are 6-2 since 1990.

UNC is second behind Clemson in bowl appearances among schools that were charter members of the Atlantic Coast Conference, and the Tar Heels have the most appearances of any charter school since the league was formed in 1953.

North Carolina won its fifth consecutive bowl game with a 16-10 victory in the Chick-fil-A Peach Bowl in 2001. Carolina is the only team in the country to win its last five bowl games. Carolina won the 1995 Carquest Bowl (20-10 vs. Arkansas), the 1997 Gator Bowl (20-13 vs. West Virginia), the 1998 Gator Bowl (42-3 vs. Virginia Tech), the 1998 Las Vegas Bowl (20-13 vs. San Diego State) and the 2001 Chick-fil-A Peach Bowl (16-10 vs. Auburn).

Beginning with the Sugar Bowl in 1947, Carolina has played in 10 different bowl games. The Tar Heels are 5-2 in the Gator Bowl, 2-2 in the Sun, 1-0 in the Bluebonnet, 1-0 in the Carquest, 2-3 in the Peach, 0-1 in the Cotton, 0-1 in the Liberty, 0-1 in the Aloha and 0-2 in the Sugar.

A description of every Carolina bowl game can be found on the next 12 pages.

1947 SUGAR BOWL

New Orleans, La.
Georgia 20, Carolina 10
January 1, 1947

The 1947 Sugar Bowl, which matched Carolina against Georgia, is one of the most famous Tar Heel games of the Charlie "Choo Choo" Justice years and produced one of the most controversial plays in bowl history.

Carolina was leading 7-0 in the third period when Bulldog defensive right end Joe Tereshinski intercepted a Tar Heel pass at the Georgia 24-yard line. He then flipped a lateral to Dick McPhee who raced 52 yards to the Carolina 14.

The Tar Heels argued the lateral was a forward one and the play should have been called back. However, the officials ruled differently. Georgia went on to score the tying touchdown on a quarterback sneak by Johnny Rauch.

Carolina's lone touchdown came on a Walt Pupa two-yard run following an interception by Tar Heel guard Bob Mitten.

The Tar Heels' last lead at 10-7 came on a Bob Cox field goal.

The Georgia game-winner came on a 67-yard touchdown pass from Trippi to Dan Edwards less than three minutes after the UNC field goal.

1949 SUGAR BOWL

New Orleans, La.
Oklahoma 14, Carolina 6
January 1, 1949

The Tar Heels returned to the Sugar Bowl in 1949 and were defeated 14-6 by the University of Oklahoma, representing the Big Seven Conference. A record crowd of 85,000 turned out to see the Charlie Justice-led Tar Heels battle Bud Wilkinson's Sooners.

Carolina threatened early, advancing via a Justice to Art Weiner 23-yard pass play to the OU 15. Justice's next pass, however, was intercepted by linebacker Myrle Greathouse who rumbled 59 yards to the Carolina 13. Sooners' quarterback Jack Mitchell scored the first points of the day on a two-yard run.

The Heels capitalized on an OU fumble later in the first quarter and Justice marched the team down to the two, from where Hosea Rodgers scored. The conversion was wide right.

Carolina advanced to the OU eight late in the first half, but could not score.

The Sooners regained the lead for good in the third quarter. Quarterback Darrell Royal connected for 37 yards with Frankie Anderson and two plays later, Lindell Pearson ran it in from eight yards out.

Justice was brilliant, rushing for 84 yards and passing for another 57.

1950 COTTON BOWL

Dallas, Texas
Rice 27, Carolina 13
January 1, 1950

Charlie Justice had another great day in the 1950 Cotton Bowl, but it just wasn't enough as the Tar Heels fell to fifth-ranked Rice, 27-13. The Owls had a 9-1-0 record, while Carolina came in at 7-3 and was ranked 16th.

Rice and Carolina played to a scoreless draw in the opening quarter, but Rice opened the scoring in the second quarter when quarterback Tobin Rote hooked up with Billy Burkhalter for a 44-yard touchdown. Bobby Lantrip's three-yard run built a 14-0 halftime lead, and the Owls kept right on rolling i n the third quarter.

On its second possession of the second half, Rice traveled 77 yards in six plays, capped by Rote's 17-yard scoring pass to "Froggie" Williams. Burkhalter made it 27-0 with a 12-yard fourth quarter score.

The Tar Heels got two touchdowns in the final eight minutes. Justice hit Paul Rizzo for a two-yard touchdown pass and then Rizzo ran it in from two yards.

Justice managed 59 yards rushing and another 63 in the air, while Art Weiner led the Tar Heels with five receptions for 41 yards. Billy Hayes topped the UNC rushing attack with 107 yards on 19 carries.

The 1950 Cotton Bowl marked the end of the "Choo-Choo" Justice era that began in 1946. The Tar Heels went 32-9-2 in that time and played in three major bowl games.

1963 GATOR BOWL

Jacksonville, Fla.
Carolina 35, Air Force 0
December 28, 1963

It had been 13 years since Charlie Justice had led Carolina to the 1950 Cotton Bowl, so when the Tar Heels got a chance to play in the 1963 Gator Bowl, they made the most of it. The Tar Heels walloped the Air Force, 35-0.

Ken Willard was the hero of the day. He ran for 94 yards on 18 carries and scored the first touchdown which keyed the runaway victory. When Willard wasn't running in this rout, he did his share of the offensive blocking.

Joe Robinson scored on a five-yard pass and also caught a two-yard conversion to give the Tar Heels a 20-0 lead at intermission.

Coach Jim Hickey's Tar Heels had 23 first downs to the Academy's 14, and piled up 370 yards in total offense compared to 260 for the Falcons.

Gary Black completed all six of his passes for 71 yards and one touchdown and he rushed for another score. Junior Edge was good on five of his nine throws for 42 yards.

Carolina finished the season 9-2, its best record in Hickey's eight years at the helm.

1970 PEACH BOWL

Atlanta, Ga.
Arizona State 48, Carolina 26
December 30, 1970

The Tar Heels exploded for 26 second quarter points but couldn't hold off Arizona State in the final two quarters as the Sun Devils rallied for an exciting 48-26 victory before 52,126 fans at Grant Field.

Carolina spotted unbeaten ASU 14 points on a pair of touchdowns runs, from eight and 33 yards, by Bob Thomas.

Don McCauley got the Tar Heels on the scoreboard with a one-yard plunge set up by a long pass from Paul Miller to Ricky Lanier. ASU scored on its next series, though, on a 67-yard TD catch by J.D. Hill.

Carolina then scored the final three touchdowns of the first half to go into the intermission with a 26-21 lead. First, Miller passed 37 yards for a score to Tony Blanchard. Then McCauley rushed in from 17 yards out. And finally, the All-America McCauley scored again from four yards.

Arizona State dominated a second half which was played in a heavy Atlanta snowstorm and without Miller, who left with an injury.

Monroe Ely scored twice and Thomas reached the end zone for the third time in the Sun Devils' 27-point second half.

1971 GATOR BOWL

Jacksonville, Fla.
Georgia 7, Carolina 3
December 31, 1971

For the first time since 1950, the Tar Heels were playing in a bowl game for the second consecutive season. This time, the Tar Heels would fall, 7-3, to the Georgia Bulldogs.

The game produced a bowl first — brothers coaching against each other. Bill Dooley led the Tar Heels and older brother Vince coached the Dawgs.

The game was a defensive struggle with all the points coming in the third quarter.

In the opening half, Carolina had the best chance as linebacker Jimmy Webster, voted the Tar Heels' MVP this day, blocked a punt out of bounds at the Georgia 24. A fumble, though, denied Carolina any points.

A pair of long runs by Lewis Jolley brought the Tar Heels down to the Georgia 16 on UNC's first possession of the second half. But a procedure penalty forced the Heels to settle for a 35-yard field goal by Ken Craven.

A 31-yard pass play from Andy Johnson to Roy Hunnicutt set up the Georgia touchdown. Jimmy Poulos, on the very next play following Hunnicutt's catch, took it in for a score from 25 yards. Poulos rushed for 161 yards on the afternoon and was named the Georgia MVP.

1972 SUN BOWL

El Paso, Texas
Carolina 32, Texas Tech 28
December 30, 1972

Carolina capped an 11-1 season in the 1972 Sun Bowl by defeating Texas Tech, 32-28. Quarterback Nick Vidnovic brought the Tar Heels from behind with a late scoring drive which he capped by tossing a 13-yard touchdown pass to wingback Ted Leverenz.

That play, with a minute to go in the game, gave UNC a 30-28 lead. Carolina added two points moments later as Ronnie Robinson sacked quarterback Joe Barnes in the end zone.

The Tar Heels led 9-0 in the second quarter on a field goal by Ellis Alexander and touchdown run by Dick Oliver. The Red Raiders rallied, however, for the next 21 points and a 21-9 lead. Vidnovic hit Leverenz for a 62-yard touchdown and Billy Hite carried it in from three yards to reestablish a 24-21 Carolina lead. Tech gained the advantage, 28-24, with 7:41 to play in the game.

Vidnovic completed 14 of 26 passes for 215 yards and two touchdowns. Ike Oglesby rushed for 71 yards and Sammy Johnson added 52.

The Red Raiders had a touchdown called back in the second quarter. All-America guard Donald Rives ran a blocked punt back for an apparent score, but Tech was flagged for unsportsmanlike conduct and the points were nullified.

1974 SUN BOWL

El Paso, Texas
Mississippi State 26, Carolina 24
December 28, 1974

Despite mounting 402 yards in total offense, the Tar Heels dropped a 26-24 decision to Mississippi State in a record-setting Sun Bowl.

Terry Vitrano's two-yard touchdown with 3:41 remaining was the game-winner. That capped a 16-play, 80-yard drive which lasted nearly seven minutes.

Carolina had taken a 24-20 lead with 10:26 to play on an Ellis Alexander field goal.

The Bulldogs totaled a Sun Bowl record 499 yards in total offense — 455 of those yards came on the ground via the veer offense. Walter Packer rushed for 189 yards, Vitrano added 164 and quarterback Rockey Felker gained another 69.

The Tar Heels also got big ground gains from Mike Voight and James Betterson. Voight picked up 90 yards on 19 carries and Betterson chipped in with 84 on 17 rushes. But Voight was stopped a yard shy of a first down on Carolina's last offensive play of the game. Chris Kupec, who led the nation in pass completion percentage, connected with Jimmy Jerome for 29 yards and a touchdown.

1976 PEACH BOWL

Atlanta, Ga.
Kentucky 21, Carolina 0
December 31, 1976

Playing without an injured Mike Voight, the Atlantic Coast Conference Player of the Year, the Tar Heels managed just five first downs and 108 yards total offense in a 21-0 loss to Kentucky.

Voight, who had rushed for 1,407 yards, injured his ankle in practice two days before the game when he stepped in a hole going out on a pass play. Ironically, Voight had caught just four passes the entire season.

The teams battled to a tie at the half, but Carolina thought it had put up points in the first quarter. On the Tar Heels' opening drive, Matt Kupec hit split end Walker Lee with a 50-yard touchdown pass, but officials ruled the Tar Heels offside and the play came back.

Early in the third quarter, Kentucky defensive end Bud Diehl knocked the ball from Kupec's grasp and the 'Cats recovered at the UNC 21. That set up the first of three rushing touchdowns by fullback Rod Stewart.

Stewart, who finished with 104 yards and the game's MVP trophy, added fourth quarter scores from 13 and three yards.

Subbing for Voight, freshman Doug Paschal led the Tar Heels with 41 yards rushing.

1977 LIBERTY BOWL

Memphis, Tenn.
Nebraska 21, Carolina 17
December 19, 1977

Thirteenth-ranked Nebraska scored two fourth quarter touchdowns and rallied for a 21-17 victory over 13th-rated North Carolina.

Reserve quarterback Randy Garcia came off the Cornhuskers' bench in the final period to toss a pair of touchdown passes, including a 33-yard game-winner to Tim Smith with 3:16 left in the game. That came six plays after Nebraska recovered a fumble at the UNC 43.

Tar Heel quarterback Matt Kupec, voted the game's Most Valuable Player despite the loss, had led the Tar Heels to a 17-7 lead in the third quarter. Kupec, who connected on seven of his 11 passes, threw touchdown passes to Brooks Williams and Bob Loomis. Tom Biddle added Carolina's final points with 4:17 left in the third on a Liberty Bowl record 47-yard field goal.

Carolina led the nation in scoring defense in 1977, allowing just 7.4 points per game through the regular season. Nebraska was the only team to score more than 14 points against UNC all season.

Bill Dooley resigned in January 1978 to accept the dual position of head football coach and athletic director at Virginia Tech.

1979 GATOR BOWL

Jacksonville, Fla.
Carolina 17, Michigan 15
December 28, 1979

Matt Kupec completed 18 of 28 passes for 161 yards and one touchdown and Amos Lawrence rushed for 118 yards to lead North Carolina to a 17-15 win over Michigan.

Trailing 9-0, the Tar Heels rallied for the next 17 points and then held off a Michigan threat late in the game to post the first of Dick Crum's four consecutive bowl wins.

Carolina had two chances early on to score first, but high winds knocked down a pair of Jeff Hayes field goal attempts. Michigan did score first following a turnover and added a 53-yard touchdown reception by Anthony Carter to move ahead 9-0.

Doug Paschal put the Heels on the board with a two-yard touchdown. Early in the third, Kupec engineered a 16-play, 97-yard touchdown drive which culminated in a 12-yard pass to Phil Farris. Hayes added a 32-yard field goal in the fourth for a 17-9 UNC lead.

Michigan, thwarted once already in the fourth when Lawrence Taylor scooped up a loose ball, did manage another Carter touchdown with 1:28 left, but the two-point conversion pass to Carter fell short.

Kupec and Lawrence were named co-Most Valuable Players.

1980 BLUEBONNET BOWL

Houston, Texas
Carolina 16, Texas 7
December 31, 1980

Amos Lawrence rushed for 104 yards and one touchdown and the Tar Heel defense allowed just two first downs and 36 total yards in the second half as Carolina played error-free football to defeat Texas, 16-7, in the Bluebonnet Bowl.

Lawrence, the game's Most Valuable Offensive Player, scampered 59 yards for a touchdown on the Tar Heels' fourth play from scrimmage for a 7-0 lead. Following a Texas touchdown in the second quarter by Mike Luck, Carolina regained the advantage for good on a one-yard run by Kelvin Bryant.

Jeff Hayes converted a fumbled punt snap by the Longhorns into a 31-yard field goal with 2:03 to play in the third quarter.

The defense, which allowed 224 yards and 11 Texas first downs in the opening half, dominated the second 30 minutes. UNC safety Steve Streater was named the defensive MVP as he had an interception, recovered a fumble and also boomed a 63-yard punt, longest in Bluebonnet Bowl history.

Carolina's 11-1 record matched the best season in UNC history. The Tar Heels finished ranked eighth by the Associated Press and ninth by UPI.

1981 GATOR BOWL

Jacksonville, Fla.
Carolina 31, Arkansas 27
December 28, 1981

Kelvin Bryant rushed for 148 yards and Ethan Horton added 144 to lead the Tar Heels to a 31-27 victory over Arkansas in the Gator Bowl.

Bryant and Horton shared Most Valuable Player honors, but it was a key defensive stop by seldom-used freshman Ronnie Snipes which saved the night for Carolina.

After building a 31-10 lead midway through the fourth quarter, Carolina watched as Arkansas rallied for two touchdowns and had the ball again inside Tar Heel territory with less than a minute to play. But on third down, Snipes, who had played just two previous downs in the contest, sacked quarterback Brad Taylor for a 17-yard loss.

The game was deadlocked at 10-10 at the half, but Carolina came right out to open the third quarter and put together a 13-play, 85-yard drive which was capped by Horton's one-yard scoring run.

UNC quarterback Rod Elkins scored on a one-yard sneak on the Tar Heels' next drive. He was set up by a 21-yard run by Horton and a 13-yard scamper by Bryant.

Horton then churned out 42 yards on six plays and went in from four yards out to give the Heels a 31-10 lead with 7:29 to play in the game.

The Razorbacks scored with 5:05 to play, recovered an onside kick and scored again with 2:44 left. UNC punter Jeff Hayes took an intentional safety with 1:44 to play. That gave the ball back to Arkansas and set up Snipes' defensive gem.

1982 SUN BOWL

El Paso, Texas
Carolina 26, Texas 10
December 25, 1982

North Carolina scored the final 23 points of the game in the final quarter and held seventh-ranked Texas to 48 total yards in the second half as the Tar Heels became the first ACC team to win four consecutive bowl games.

Ethan Horton was the offensive star of the game, rushing for 119 yards in the second half as Carolina won 26-10. He replaced injured starter Kelvin Bryant, who totaled 45 yards before leaving the game with an injured ankle.

Trailing 10-3 after three quarters, the Tar Heels vaulted into the lead via three consecutive field goals. Sophomore walk-on Rob Rogers, who had connected from 53 yards in the second quarter, hit a 47-yard field goal with 14:51 to play to narrow the Texas lead to 10-6. Brooks Barwick was then successful from 24 and 42 yards, the latter putting the Heels into the lead at 12-10 with 4:56 left.

Horton tacked on a three-yard touchdown with 2:17 remaining and Mike Wilcher fell on a loose ball in the end zone for another touchdown with 1:35 to play.

The defensive series of the game came five minutes into the third quarter with Texas leading 10-3 and with the ball, third-and-goal at the Carolina one. Two times, Texas fullback Ervin Davis tried to find the end zone, but twice he was hurled back. First, it was Wilcher who made the hit and then on 4th-and-goal, Greg Poole made the stop which changed the game.

The Christmas Day affair was played with intermittent snow flurries and a wind-chill reading that hovered around 12 degrees.

1983 PEACH BOWL

Atlanta, Ga.
Florida State 28, Carolina 3
December 30, 1983

Florida State scored the first two times it had the ball and penalties and turnovers cost the Tar Heels dearly, as the Seminoles whipped Carolina 28-3 in a miserably cold and half-empty Peach Bowl.

Played before only 25,648 fans in low-20 degree temperatures, the Peach Bowl loss snapped the Tar Heels' consecutive howl- game winning streak at four.

The Seminoles held the Tar Heels' running game to just 32 yards and three first downs. One thousand-yard rushers Ethan Horton and Tyrone Anthony were held to 30 and 27 yards, respectively.

Florida State quarterback Eric Thomas, making his first start, connected with Weegie Thompson on touchdown passes on the 'Noles first two series.

Midway through the second quarter, the Tar Heels fumbled away a punt at their own 16 and FSU converted via a 1-yard touchdown run.

Carolina put up its only points of the day on Brooks Barwick's 36-yard field goal.

The loss was the fourth in the final five games of the season and ended a season in which Carolina had been ranked third in the nation.

1986 ALOHA BOWL

Honolulu, Hawaii
Arizona 30, Carolina 21
December 27, 1986

Arizona converted four North Carolina fumbles into 20 points and then held off a furious Tar Heel rally in the fourth quarter to win the 1986 Aloha Bowl, 30-21.

Carolina dug itself a 30-0 hole and did not put points on the board until freshman tailback Torin Dorn broke a 58-yard touchdown run with 2:19 left in the third quarter.

The Tar Heels fumbled five times in the first three periods and the Wildcats turned them into two touchdowns and two field goals.

Following Dorn's electrifying run, the Tar Heels quickly moved back within striking distance with two more touchdowns in the next seven minutes.

Mark Maye hit Randy Marriott with a six-yard touchdown pass after a Norris Davis interception and then followed a Davis punt block with a two-yard scoring run of his own to narrow the margin to 30-21 with 9:10 to play.

That, however, was as close as Carolina could challenge. A couple of dropped passes thwarted two more Carolina drives.

Dorn was the game's leading ground-gainer, rushing for 101 yards on only seven carries. Maye completed 17 of 34 passes for 171 yards; he hooked up with Eric Starr a game-high seven times for 53 yards.

1993 PEACH BOWL

Atlanta, Ga.
Carolina 21, Mississippi State 17
January 2, 1993

Defensive MVP Bracey Walker blocked consecutive third-quarter punts, returning one of them for the tying touchdown, and forced a fourth quarter interception which Cliff Baskerville returned 44 yards for a touchdown to lead Carolina to a 21-17 Peach Bowl win over Mississippi State.

Walker's heroics capped a fierce second-half comeback in which the Tar Heels came from 14 points behind to score three times, although just once on an offensive possession.

MSU took a two-touchdown lead in the first quarter and had two more scores in the second quarter called back due to holding penalties.

Carolina regrouped at halftime, however, and cut the lead to 14-7 just six plays into the third quarter. Mike Thomas connected with Bucky Brooks for a 53-yard completion on the fourth play of the half and Natrone Means scored from a yard out two snaps later.

Means led the Tar Heel offense with 128 yards rushing and was named the game's Offensive MVP.

Later in the third quarter, Walker blocked a punt but Carolina's field goal try was unsuccessful. On the next series UNC again forced the Bulldogs to punt and this time Walker blocked the kick, picked up the loose ball and raced 24 yards untouched for the tying score.

Early in the final quarter Walker forced a midair loose ball with a jarring hit and Baskerville plucked the ball out of the air and sprinted 44 yards down the left sideline for what proved to be the winning score.

Carolina held off two late MSU rallies to hang on to the lead. Linebacker Kerry Mock's interception stopped one threat at the UNC 17 with 2:32 to play and a fourth-down incompletion with just six seconds left halted the Bulldogs at the Carolina 21-yard line.

1993 GATOR BOWL

Jacksonville, Fla.
Alabama 24, Carolina 10
December 31, 1993

Quarterback Brian Burgdorf threw for two touchdowns and ran for another to lead 18th-ranked and defending national champion Alabama to a 24-10 victory over 11th-ranked Carolina in Outback Steakhouse Gator Bowl.

Corey Holliday caught nine passes for 125 yards and was UNC's MVP.

After a scoreless first period, Alabama took the lead on a 22-yard field goal by Michael Proctor. Carolina quarterback Jason Stanicek then led a seven-play, 80-yard touchdown drive in just 1:36 to take the lead, 7-3, on the ensuing possession. Stanicek hit Holliday with completions of 29 and 22 yards and executed one of his trademark option pitches to freshman tailback Leon Johnson for an 18-yard gain. William Henderson plunged in from a yard out for the lead.

The Crimson Tide went up 10-7 Burgdorf scored from 33 yards out on a quarterback draw.

With 1:44 left before intermission, Stanicek led what would be the final Tar Heel scoring drive. He hit Holliday with passes of 12 and nine yards and Curtis Johnson ran twice for 20 yards before the drive stalled and Tripp Pignetti hit a 23-yard field goal to tie the game at 10.

The Alabama defense was the key to the game, holding UNC to a season-low 42 net yards rushing on 25 carries. Carolina could only muster 40 total yards and four first downs in the second half.

1994 SUN BOWL

El Paso, Texas
Texas 35, Carolina 31
December 30, 1994

Priest Holmes rushed for 161 yards and four touchdowns, including the game-winner with 1:17 to play, to lead Texas to a 35-31 win over the Tar Heels before a Sun Bowl record crowd of 50,612.

Holmes' four-touchdown performance wrestled away MVP honors from UNC quarterback Mike Thomas, who had the finest passing day of his career. Thomas completed 23 of 39 passes for 298 yards and two touchdowns. He set UNC bowl game records for completions and yards and tied the mark with two scoring tosses. He was 15 for 19 in the first half and completed 20 of 29 before a final desperation drive.

Wide receivers Marcus Wall and Octavus Barnes were two more standouts for the Tar Heels. Wall was selected the game's Most Valuable Special Teams Player. He gave the Tar Heels a 24-21 lead in the fourth quarter when he returned a punt 82 yards for a touchdown.

Barnes set UNC bowl game records for most catches and yards with nine receptions for 165 yards and one score. The 165 yards were also the most in Sun Bowl history.

With Carolina up, 31-21, Texas quickly went on a 68-yard touchdown drive in only 2:38. On the next series, Texas took over at its own 32 and drove 68 yards in 10 plays for the winning score. Holmes carried the last three plays on the drive for nine, two and finally the five yard touchdown run.

1995 CARQUEST BOWL

Miami, Fla.
Carolina 20, Arkansas 10
December 30, 1995

Leon Johnson rushed for a Carolina bowl record 195 yards and Mike Thomas threw for two scores as the Tar Heels knocked off Arkansas, 20-10, in the Carquest Bowl.

Johnson's 195-yard effort topped the previous high of 148 yards by Kelvin Bryant, also against Arkansas, in the 1981 Gator Bowl. Johnson had just 23 yards on eight carries in the first half, but exploded for 172 yards in the second half.

All-America tackle Marcus Jones capped his career with four tackles for losses, including a quarterback sack on Arkansas' last play from scrimmage - his final collegiate play.

Trailing by a touchdown the Tar Heels quickly moved into position to tie the game. On third-and-long quarterback Mike Thomas rolled right, threw back across the field to Ashford, who sprinted around the left flank into the end zone.

The Razorbacks managed to take a 10-7 lead in the third quarter on a 26-yard field goal by Latourette. Two series later Carolina went into the lead for good. On third-and-eight from the 28, Thomas ran the option around the right corner, turned upfield and then pitched the ball to Johnson, who was trailing the play perfectly. Johnson ran untouched for a 28-yard, go-ahead score.

1997 GATOR BOWL

Jacksonville, Fla.
Carolina 20, West Virginia 13
January 1, 1997

Oscar Davenport, starting in place of injured first-team all-conference quarterback Chris Keldorf, completed 14 of 26 passes for 175 yards and one touchdown as Carolina defeated West Virginia 20-13 in the 52nd annual Toyota Gator Bowl. Davenport, who also rushed for one touchdown, was named the game's MVP.

Carolina broke the scoring drought early in the second quarter when Davenport found Octavus Barnes in the back corner of the end zone on an 18-yard pass. As time was running down in the first half, Davenport and Leon Johnson led the Tar Heels on a five-play touchdown drive. Johnson caught a pass for 13 yards and rushed twice for 19 yards in the drive. Davenport scored on a 5-yard option keeper for a 17-3 lead.

West Virginia opened the second-half scoring with a 34-yard touchdown pass to close within seven points. A fumble recovery by Greg Williams ended one WVU threat, but West Virginia had one last chance to tie the game late in the fourth quarter. Carolina stopped the Mountaineers on 4th-and-6 at the UNC 24 with just under two minutes remaining.

Dre' Bly, Carolina's consensus first-team All-America, picked off two second-half passes. Carolina's defense forced four West Virginia turnovers; the Mountaineers had 10 in 11 regular-season games.

1998 GATOR BOWL

Jacksonville, Fla.
Carolina 42, Virginia Tech 3
January 1, 1998

Chris Keldorf threw for 290 yards and three scores and Carolina's defense and special teams added touchdowns as the Tar Heels pounded Virginia Tech, 42-3, in the Toyota Gator Bowl.

The victory, UNC's most lopsided in a bowl game, secured a No. 4 final ranking in the coaches' poll for the 11-1 Tar Heels. The game was Carl Torbush's first as Carolina's head coach. Torbush, UNC's defensive coordinator the past 10 years, was elevated to head coach on December 8th after Mack Brown accepted the same position at the University of Texas.

Keldorf completed 17 of 28 passes, including touchdown throws of 62 and 14 yards to wide receiver Octavus Barnes and four yards to fullback Jamie Carrick.

Carolina amassed 427 total yards and held the Hokies to just 185 yards. Leading 3-0, Keldorf hit Barnes with a 62-yard bomb down the left sideline for a 10-0 lead. Later in the first quarter, Carolina forced Virginia Tech to punt deep in Hokie territory. Quinton Savage blocked the punt and Dre' Bly scooped it up at the 6-yard line and scored for a 16-0 UNC advantage.

One minute and 10 seconds after Bly's touchdown, Ellis fell on a loose ball in the Tech end zone for another touchdown. Carolina scored 16 first-quarter points in the entire regular season, but scored 16 in the first quarter of the Gator Bowl and six more just seven seconds into the second quarter.

The 42 points were the most in UNC postseason history and the three touchdown passes by Keldorf set a UNC bowl game record. Barnes concluded his career with 16 receptions and four touchdowns in four postseason games.

1998 LAS VEGAS BOWL

Las Vegas, Nev.
Carolina 20, San Diego State 13
December 19, 1998

Ronald Curry rushed for a season-high 93 yards and a touchdown, punter Brian Schmitz was outstanding despite windy conditions and the Tar Heel defense did not allow a TD in the last 59 minutes as Carolina defeated San Diego State, 20-13.

Curry, the game's Most Valuable Offensive Player, gave Carolina the lead for good with a 48-yard touchdown run on the final play of the opening quarter. He rushed for 93 yards on 10 carries and accounted for 96 of Carolina's 196 total offense yards, despite playing just four series.

The game was played winds gusting to 47 miles per hour. Passing was almost impossible. In fact, Carolina won the game despite completing just four passes for 33 yards.

Schmitz averaged 44.0 yards on five punts and pinned the Aztecs inside their own 11-yard line four times. Late in the second quarter, Schmitz unloaded a 66-yard punt into the wind.

San Diego State took an early 7-0 lead in the first minute of the game before the Tar Heels scored 20 unanswered points to close the first half. After two second-half field goals cut it to 20-13, the Aztecs had one final chance to tie the game. With just over a minute left, Dre' Bly broke up a pass in the end zone. On the following play, Brandon Spoon tipped Brian Russell's pass in the air and the ball was intercepted at the goal line by Keith Newman with 59 seconds remaining.

2001 PEACH BOWL

Atlanta, Ga.
Carolina 16, Auburn 10
December 31, 2001

Willie Parker rushed for 131 yards and Ryan Sims led a spirited defensive effort as North Carolina won its fifth consecutive postseason bowl appearance with a 16-10 victory over Auburn in the Chick-fil-A Peach Bowl. The win capped off the greatest turnaround in school history as Carolina completed the season by winning eight of its last 10 games after starting 0-3.

Parker, who started his first game since September, was spectacular, scoring on a 10-yard run in the first quarter and setting up a second-quarter field goal with a 43-yard dash. Parker had the fifth-best rushing day in UNC bowl history and it was the 11th time a Tar Heel had rushed for more than 100 yards in a bowl game.

Parker's touchdown was set up by Carolina's defense, which allowed just 32 total rushing yards and shutout Auburn for three quarters. In the first quarter, cornerback Michael Waddell forced a fumble at the Auburn 26-yard line that defensive end Joey Evans picked up and rumbled to the Auburn 8-yard line. Two plays later, Parker's touchdown gave Carolina a 7-0 lead.

Curry, who was named the game's Offensive MVP, scored on an incredible touchdown run in the third quarter to give Carolina a 16-0 advantage.

Defensively, Carolina came up with several big plays throughout the game and held off a furious Auburn comeback in the fourth quarter. Sims, the Defensive MVP, had six tackles, including two sacks and was constantly disrupting the Auburn backfield.

After scoring twice in the fourth quarter, Auburn attempted an onside kick, but UNC's Richard Moore covered the ball and the Tar Heels ran out the clock.

WHERE ARE THEY NOW? .... A LOOK AT SOME OF CAROLINA'S LETTERMEN

Here is a look at some of Carolina's distinguished lettermen and their current professions. Unfortunately, space restraints do not allow us to list every lettermen and his current occupation. This is an ongoing project and lettermen are encouraged to update their whereabouts with the UNC Football Office. Lettermen also can fill out the on-line survey on TarHeelBlue.com. Go to the football page and click on the link for "UNC Football Lettermen."

2003 CAROLINA FOOTBALL MEDIA

ATHLETIC COMMUNICATIONS

Football media services are coordinated by Assistant Communications Directors Kevin Best. Please direct interview, information and photo requests to Best.

Best's office is located on the second floor of the Kenan Football Center. The Athletic Communications Office is located on the main level of the Dean E. Smith Center, less than one mile from Kenan Stadium. The office is on Level 2 directly across from the men's basketball office.

CREDENTIALS

Requests for working press credentials at Carolina home football games should be made in writing on station/newspaper/magazine letterhead to Associate A.D. for Communications Steve Kirschner. The mailing address is P.O. Box 2126, Chapel Hill, N.C. 27515. Requests may be sent via fax (919-962-0612) or e-mail (skirschner@uncaa.unc.edu), but all requests should be sent so they reach the Athletic Communications Office at least one week prior to the game.

Because of the demand for credentials, media agencies that cover Carolina and the visiting school on a regular basis will receive top priority.

The University does not discriminate based on age, gender, orientation, race or religion.

Credentials generally will not be mailed. They may be picked up before 5 p.m. on Friday at the Athletic Communications Office. Those credentials not picked up by 5 p.m. on Friday will be left for Saturday pickup at Kenan Stadium Will Call at Gate Six (6), directly beneath the press box. Will Call opens two hours prior to kickoff.

RELEASES

Carolina Football media information may be obtained by legitimate news agencies in a variety of ways. Information is available at www.TarHeelBlue.com (UNC's official web site), at www.mediateamlink.com (the ACC's official media service provider), may be e-mailed to you or may be sent by regular postal service.

PRESS BOX SERVICES

Programs, flip cards, statistics and notes will be provided before each game. Statistics and a play-by-play will be distributed at the conclusion of each quarter. Halftime statistics also will be available. Complete team and individual statistics, a scoring summary and coaches' quotes will be provided after the game. A light meal will be served before each game. Soft drinks, coffee and snacks will be available throughout the game.

SIDELINE POLICY

Photographers will not be allowed on the sidelines without a UNC-issued photographer's vest. Vests will be distributed in the press box beginning 90 minutes prior to kickoff. Each photographer must sign in for his/her own vest. Under NCAA and Atlantic Coast Conference guidelines, photographers are not allowed between the 25-yard lines and must remain outside the restraining lines surrounding the field. Credential holders not working will be asked to leave the sidelines. A representative of the Athletic Communications Office will be on the field to handle any questions and serve as field liaison to press box officials. We ask, for the safety of others, that equipment not be left unattended on the sidelines. If you are shooting with a tripod, please keep a safe distance from the playing field.

GAME DAY PARKING

Requests for parking passes should be made well in advance to Steve Kirschner. Single-game parking passes will be mailed.

Parking is located in the lot on the corner of Gravely Drive and Manning Drive or in the Craige and East Drive parking decks across the street from that lot. Each location is a five-minute walk to the stadium.

POSTGAME INTERVIEWS

Following a brief cooling-off period, requested UNC players will head directly to the interview area in the player's lounge on the second floor of Kenan Football Center for a 20-25 minute interview period. The Tar Heels' locker room is closed. Representatives from the Communications Office will take player requests from the media during the fourth quarter. Local television media who are on the field during the game, should make player requests prior to the end of the game to the on-field Communications representative.

Head coach John Bunting will conduct a short interview with Woody Durham for the Tar Heel Sports Network's live broadcast while the players are in the interview area. Bunting will begin his postgame press conference in the Hall of Honor, approximately 15 minutes after the players have begun their interview period.

After night games, Bunting and the players will be available simultaneously due to deadline demands. Quotes will be gathered from both Bunting and several players for distribution in the press box. Away game procedures will vary, depending on available facilities.

Please note: Bunting is contractually obligated to do a short postgame interview with the Tar Heel Sports Radio Network. After night games, great care will be taken to get Bunting to the general media as quickly as possible. We understand everyone has deadline pressures after late games and will do our best to provide access to Bunting as quickly as possible.

PHONES

The Department of Athletics furnishes approximately 12 telephones along press row for media to file stories. All long distance calls must be by credit card, collect or billed to a third number. Anyone desiring a private phone should contact Southern Bell at least two weeks prior to the game. If you are calling from within the 919 area code, dial 780-2800. However, if you are calling from outside the 919 area code, then you must dial 1-800-919-2800.

Two analog lines and 12 ethernet lines are available for use by photographers only in the main press area. Associated Press photographer Grant Halverson and Athletic Communications photographer Jeffrey Camarati coordinate the photographer's work area.

Note: The on-campus building number for the press box at Kenan Stadium, for which you will be asked, is #519. List Steve Kirschner as the stadium contact for placing the phone.

Two fax machines are available for media use. Media should make a representative of the Athletic Communications Office aware of their fax needs prior to the end of the game.

INTERNET AVAILABILITY

Media have access to the internet via several ethernet jacks installed throughout the press box at Kenan Stadium. Please see a representative of the Athletic Communications Office for assistance in locating the ethernet jacks on game days.

INTERVIEWS WITH HEAD COACH JOHN BUNTING

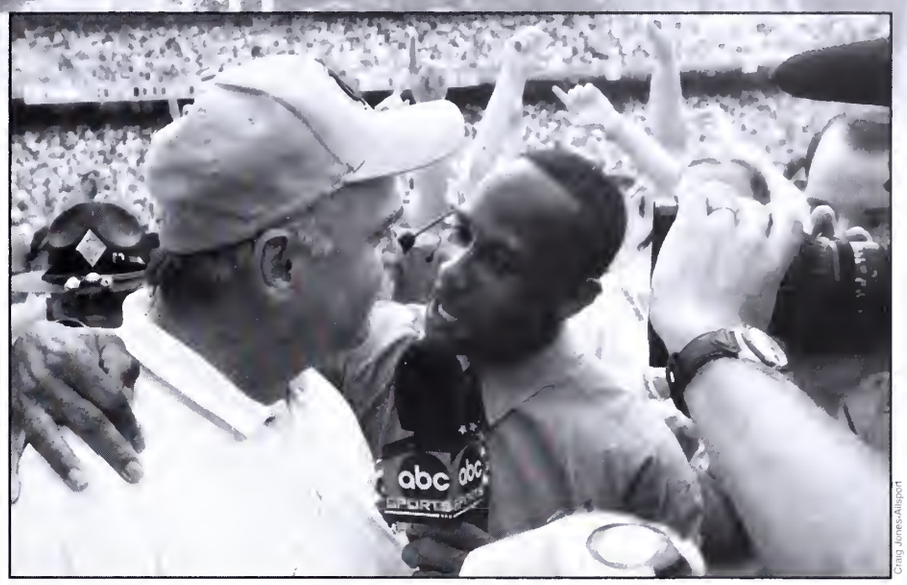
John Bunting will meet with the media at 11 a.m. each Tuesday prior to a game. Bunting will meet with the print media for approximately 30-40 minutes and then meet with the TV media for approximately 15 minutes. Out-of-town media may access the print portion of the press conference by phone. You can listen and ask questions, time permitting, by using this service. Contact Kevin Best for the phone number.

Bunting will conduct TV interviews inside the Stadium Club on the second floor of the Football Center. The print media portion of the press conference will be in the John Swofford Auditorium on the second floor of the Football Center.

Interviews with Bunting at other times during the week can be set up by contacting Kevin Best or Teresa Vanderford, Bunting's secretary in the football office. If he is unavailable at the time of your call, he will make every effort to return the call as soon as possible. Staff meetings are conducted during the morning. Vanderford's number is (919) 962-9144.

Bunting is also available on the weekly ACC Teleconference on Wednesdays at 11:30 a.m. Contact Brian Morrison at the ACC or Best for the phone number. Bunting will also be available via teleconference for 15 minutes on Sundays (day after games only) at 5 p.m. Contact Best for the number.

Bunting will also be available after practice on the field on Wednesday and Thursday for 10 minutes.



Craig Jones-Allsport

John Bunting talks with Lynn Swann on the field following Carolina's 41-9 victory over Florida State in 2001.

PLAYER INTERVIEWS

All player interviews should be arranged through Best. Players have been instructed not to grant an interview request unless they have been set up in this manner. The interviews will generally be conducted at the conclusion of practice at the practice field or Football Center. All interviews are to be conducted on Tuesday, Wednesday or Thursday.

Each week at least one player will be made available at the Tuesday press conference.

Telephone interviews are conducted at the player's convenience. Usually they are handled by players returning calls immediately after practice (between approximately 6:30 and 7:30 p.m.). No home numbers for players will be given out and players have been told not to accept calls from anyone asking football-related questions.

Please do not show up and wait for players unannounced on campus, at players' housing or the Football Center. The players have been instructed to politely decline the request and refer the person to the Communications Office.

Players may do taped radio interviews but will not be available for live call-in radio shows.

Note: Due to the overwhelming number of all-sports radio talk stations, players will generally not be available to appear on these shows. Hometown stations, stations in that week's opponent's market or national shows may be accommodated. Internet sites requesting interviews must be legitimate media sites and interviews will be granted at the discretion of the Communications Office.

PRACTICE COVERAGE

Subject to change, Carolina will practice each Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday beginning at 4 p.m. on the practice fields located directly across the street from the baseball stadium and adjacent to the UNC School of Law.

Tuesday practices are open to the media for the first 30 minutes.

On Wednesdays and Thursdays, please wait at the tunnel (field side) leading into the lockerroom at the Kenan Football Center. Players and coaches are available to meet with the media after practice on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

Once the team goes into pads in the fall, photographers (still and video) will be allowed to shoot warm-ups, stretching and the first 30 minutes of work on Tuesdays. Team meetings after practice are private and are not to be taped.

Once the school year starts, practice generally begins with stretching exercises at 3:45 p.m. and the first period of drills at approximately 4 p.m. The team, in general, does only light running and stretching on Sunday and does not practice on Monday, except after an open date.

DIRECTIONS TO MEDIA PARKING

• From Eastern North Carolina and/or Raleigh/Durham International Airport: Take I-40 West to Chapel Hill. Stay in the left or middle lane because I-40 splits about five miles past the airport (the right lane heads to Durham). Stay to the left and follow I-40 West to Exit 273-B. Follow NC-54 West for approximately three miles. Exit right onto Route 15-501 South/54 West and follow for one mile. Turn right at the traffic light onto Manning Drive. Go up the hill, stay straight through the intersection. The next traffic light will be at the intersection of Manning Drive and Gravely Drive. Press parking is either in the Craige or Dogwood Decks on the left-hand side of the street or in the lot at the corner of Manning and Gravely on the right-hand side.

• From North of Chapel Hill: Take I-85 South to Durham. I-85 will split at exit 174. The right-hand lane takes you to I-40 and Greensboro. Stay in the left-hand lane and take exit 174 (a left-hand exit) for 15-501 South. Stay on 15-501 South to Chapel Hill. Stay to the left on 15-501 Bypass until you turn right onto Manning Drive. See above.

• From Charlotte and West of Chapel Hill: Take I-85 North to I-40 East. 85 and 40 split in Hillsborough, just west of Chapel Hill. Take I-40 to exit 270 and exit onto Route 15-501 South. Stay on 15-501 South to Chapel Hill. Stay to the left on 15-501 Bypass when it splits into 15-501 and Franklin Street. Follow 15-501 to Manning Drive and turn right. See above.

• From South of Chapel Hill: Take I-77 North to I-85 and then follow the same directions as from Charlotte. Or take I-95 North to I-40 West. 95 and 40 converge just north of Benson, N.C. Then take I-40 all the way to Chapel Hill and follow the directions from the airport. See above.

TAR HEEL SPORTS NETWORK

Learfield Communications begins its third full year as the official media rights holder for the University of North Carolina athletic teams, primarily football and basketball.

Based in Jefferson City, Missouri, Learfield purchased Tar Heel Sports Marketing in October 1999, adding the UNC property to 13 other schools under the Learfield umbrella. Among those for which Learfield also owns the rights are Alabama, Clemson, Colorado, Oklahoma, Indiana, Miami (Fla.), Missouri, South Carolina and Wisconsin.

"Our goal is to continue and add to the tremendous tradition and fan following at Carolina," says Gary Sobba, the General Manager for Tar Heel Sports Marketing. Sobba moved to Chapel Hill from Dallas, where he worked in the Learfield national sales office.

"I have worked on various college campuses for more than last 16 years," adds Sobba, "and if there is a better athletic program in the country than this one, I don't know where it is."

Carolina football can be heard on the Tar Heel Sports Network with Woody Durham and Mick Mixon.

Tar Heel Sports Marketing is in its 10th year as UNC's multimedia rights holder. All Carolina fans have heard of the Tar Heel Sports Network, which broadcasts the play-by-play of football and basketball games, but that is only one facet of the operation.

Tar Heel Sports Marketing is a full-service agency overseeing production and sales of all the University of North Carolina's football and basketball entities including television, print products, interent and radio.

THSM brings you a variety of ways to follow the Heels during the athletic season. Simply, listen to your radio on Thursday nights for the head coaches on their radio call-in shows or watch game highlights Saturday mornings on "Inside Carolina Football and Basketball," and on "Tar Heel Football Review Show" in the Triangle. When you are at Kenan Stadium pick-up the official game program.

The Tar Heel Sports Network continues to bring the great tradition of Carolina sports into your home.

Woody Durham, beginning his 33rd year as the "Voice of the Tar Heels," and Head Coach John Bunting give fans an opportunity to phone in and talk with the Coach every Thursday evening during the football season on the "John Bunting Live" call in show.

Durham also will visit with Coach Bunting on "Inside Carolina Football", a daily five-minute program featuring conversations with the Tar Heels' Head Coach. Both of these shows are heard on stations throughout North Carolina and beyond.

"Inside Carolina Football with John Bunting," hosted by Durham, is a half-hour television program seen each week Fox Sports South. The show features highlights of the previous game, interviews with current and former Tar Heel players and a preview of upcoming action.

Woody Durham

- Play-By-Play
- "The Voice Of The Tar Heels"
- 33rd Year At UNC

The 2003 season will be Woody Durham's 33rd year as the "Voice of the Tar Heels."

Since September 1971, Durham has broadcast nearly 1,500 Carolina football and basketball games, and the Tar Heels have won a majority of those contests.

A native of Mebane, N.C., Durham grew up in Albemarle, N.C., where he began his broadcasting career with WZKY Radio at age 16. He graduated from UNC in 1963 with an AB degree in Radio, Television and Motion Pictures, and spent 19 years as a TV sportscaster with stints in Greensboro and Raleigh-Durham-Chapel Hill.

In 1981, Durham joined Tar Heel Sports Marketing, which produces the Tar Heel Sports Network, on a full-time basis, and in 1984, he permanently moved his family to Chapel Hill.

He and his wife of 40 years, Jean, are the parents of two sons. Wes, 37, a former Georgia Sportscaster of the Year, is in his ninth year handling play-by-play duties at Georgia Tech. Taylor, 30, is a network recruitment manager with International Sports Properties in Winston-Salem. Wes and his wife, Lynn, presented Woody and Jean with twin grandchildren--Emily and Will--in April 1999.

Durham has been named North Carolina Sportscaster of the Year on 11 different occasions, most recently in 2002. In 1993, he was inducted into the Stanly County Sports Hall of Fame. In 1994, he received the Priceless Gem Award from the UNC Department of Athletics. The following year, the General Alumni Association presented him with its Distinguished Service Medal. In November 2000, the UNC Board of Trustees honored him with the William R. Davie Award. During the 2002 ACC Basketball Tournament, he received the Marvin "Skeeter" Francis Award for special services to the ACC. Most recently, Durham was honored by the North Carolina High School Athletic Association, along with former Carolina football coach Bill Dooley, with the Russell Blunt Legends Award for being a true legend in athletics.

In addition to his play-by-play duties, Durham also visits with Coach John Bunting on "Inside Carolina Football," a daily five-minute radio program. He is with Coach Bunting every Thursday evening during the football season for "John Bunting Live," a radio call-in show which originates from Lucy's in downtown Chapel Hill. And, he hosts "Inside Carolina Football with John Bunting," a weekly half-hour TV show on Fox Sports South.

Mick Mixon

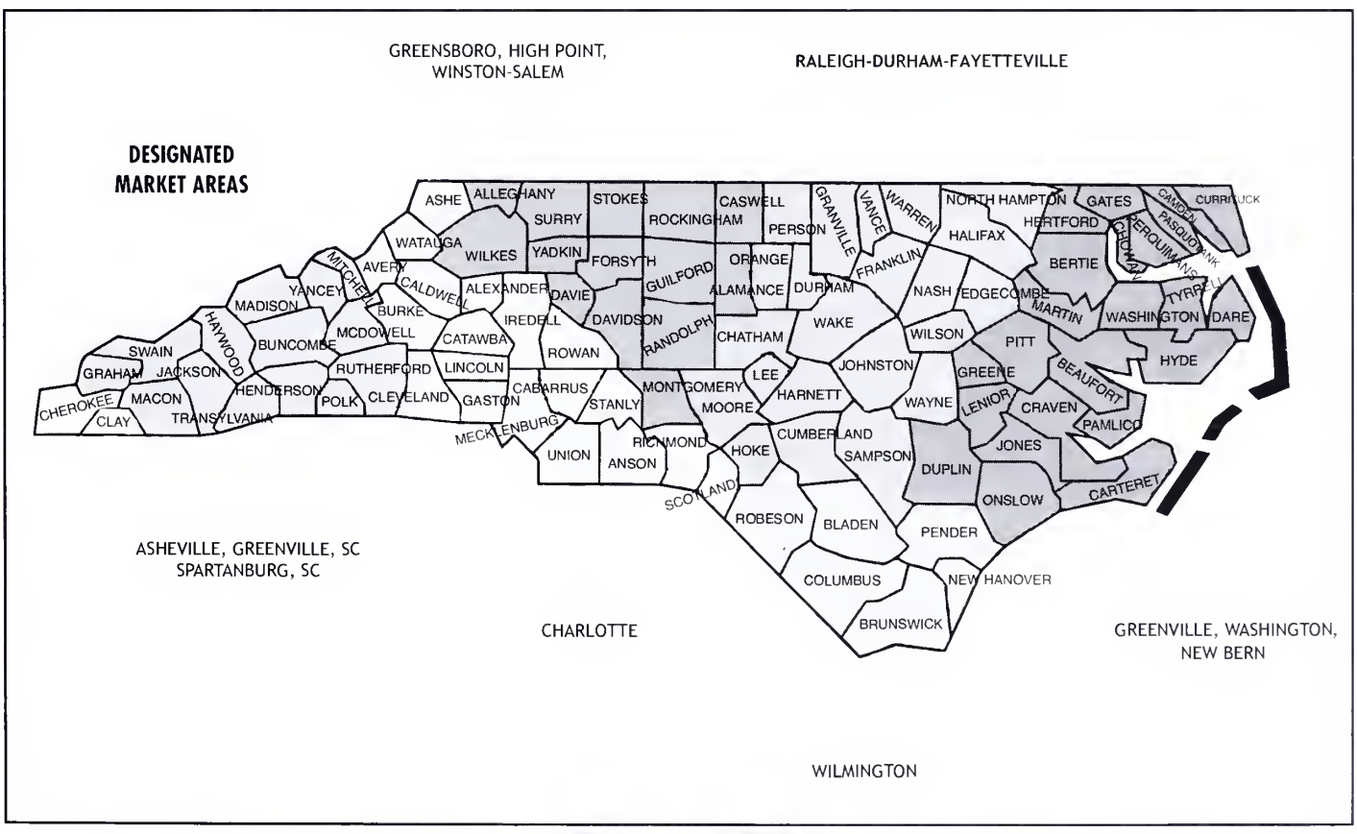
- Analyst
- 15th Year At UNC

This fall, Forest Orion (Mick) Mixon III begins his 15th season as Color Analyst for football and men's basketball on the Tar Heel Sports Network.

Mixon, 44, graduated from UNC in 1980 with a degree in Broadcast Journalism. In 1999, he married Kristin Lyn Tucker (AB Journalism, 1990). A native of Chapel Hill, Mixon teaches in the UNC School of Journalism and Mass Communications, broadcasts some ACC baseball games for Fox Sports Net and writes for Tar Heel Monthly.

Mixon was named the North Carolina Sportscaster of the Year in 1999 and is an honorary member of the ACC Football Officials Association.

Mixon joined the network in 1989 from Columbia, S.C., where he was sports director at WIS Radio. He also has served as play-by-play voice of the Maine Guides of the Class AAA International League and as sports director of WCGC Radio in Belmont, N.C.



TAR HEEL TRADITIONS

WHY TAR HEELS?

University of North Carolina athletic teams are known as the Tar Heels because North Carolina is "The Tar Heel State."

One legend has the nickname being applied to the state's residents as long ago as the Revolutionary War. According to this story, the troops of British General Cornwallis were fording what is now known as the Tar River between Rocky Mount and Battleboro when they discovered that tar had been dumped into the stream to impede their crossing. When they finally got across the river they found their feet completely black with tar. Their observation that anyone who waded North Carolina rivers would acquire tar heels led to the nickname first being used.

Others say the nickname was acquired during the Civil War. During one of that war's fiercest battles a column supporting North Carolina troops was driven from the field. After the battle, the North Carolinians who had successfully fought it out alone, happened to meet the regiment which had fled to safety and were greeted with the question, "Any more tar down in the Old North State, boys?"

"No, not a bit," shot back one of the North Carolina soldiers. "Old Jeff's bought it all up," he went on, referring to Jefferson Davis, President of the Confederacy.

"Is that so? What's he going to do with it?"

"He's going to put it on you'ns heels to make you stick better in the next fight."

Upon hearing of the incident, Robert E. Lee smiled and said to a fellow officer, "God bless the Tar Heel boys."

A letter found in 1991 by State Archivist David Olson lends credence to another more direct theory. A letter from Maj. Joseph Engelhard describes a fight involving men from North Carolina in which Lee was heard to have said, "There they stand as if they have tar on their heels."

The letter, dated August 24, 1864, told the tale of a battle on the outskirts of Petersburg, Va. Engelhard was elected secretary of state for North Carolina in 1876.

RAM MASCOT

Since Carolina's nickname is Tar Heels, it might seem strange to have a ram as a mascot. It is. But, there is a good explanation. It's offered by Vic Huggins, Carolina's head cheerleader back in 1924.

"In 1924 school spirit was at a peak," Huggins once explained. "But something seemed to be missing. One day it hit me. Georgia had a bulldog for a mascot and State a wolf. What Carolina needed was a symbol."

Two years earlier the Tar Heels had posted a brilliant 9-1 record. The star of that 1922 team was a bruising fullback named Jack Merritt. Merritt was nicknamed "the battering ram" for the way he plunged into lines. It seemed natural to Huggins to link a mascot with Merritt's nickname.

"Charlie Woollen, the athletic business manager at that time, agreed with the idea and gave us $25 to purchase a fitting mascot," said Huggins.

Rameses the First was shipped in from Texas, arriving just in time to be introduced at a pep rally before the VMI game. Complete with a monogram blanket on his back, Rameses helped make the pep rally one of the school's greatest.

Then the ram was taken to Emerson Field where Carolina was an underdog to a strong VMI team. But, for three quarters the Tar Heels battled the visitors to a scoreless tie.

Late in the fourth period Carolina's Bunn Hackney was called upon to attempt a field goal. Before taking the field he stopped to rub Rameses' head for good luck.

Seconds later Hackney's 30-yard dropkick sailed between the goalposts, giving the Tar Heels a 3-0 victory and a legendary mascot.

SCHOOL COLORS

The adoption of light blue and white as UNC's colors dates back to the 19th Century. When the University reopened following the Civil War, most social activities were directed by two literary societies, the Dialectic and Philanthropic. The official color of the Di was light blue and that of the Phi white.

On public occasions the student officers, marshals and ball managers were chosen equally from the membership of the two societies. It had long been the custom of each society for its members to wear its color on such occasions. However, the chief marshal and chief ball manager, one from the Di and the other from the Phi, wore combination light blue and white regalias and rosettes signifying that they represented the whole student body.

So it seemed only natural for the fans to adorn themselves with the same combination as that used by the chief marshals and ball managers, colors which represented not membership in a society, but a University student body.

CAROLINA FIGHT SONGS

• HERE COMES CAROLINA

Here comes Carolino-lina
Here comes Caralino-lino
We hail from NCU.
We've got the spirit in it
We've got the team to win it
We wear the colars White and Blue –
So it's Fight! Fight! for Caralina
As Davie did in days of old.
As we gather 'round the 'Well
Cheer thot Tar Heel team like hell –
For the glory of NCU.

• CAROLINA VICTORY MARCH

There'll be a Carolina victory,
When cross thot field the foe has fled.
Cheer thot team to victory,
For we are Tar Heels born and bred.
Rah! Roh! Roh!
Glory, glory, UNC.
Our hearts will live with thee
Fight! Fight! Fight!
For the Blue & White ore rolling to victory.

• ALMA MATER

Hark the sound of Tar Heel voices
Ringing clear and true,
Singing Carolina's praises, Shouting "NCU."
(chorus)
Hail to the brightest star of all!
Clear its radiance shine
Carolina, priceless gem,
Receive all praises thine.
(refrain)
For I'm a Tar Heel born
I'm a Tar Heel bred,
And when I die I'm a Tar Heel dead.
So it's – Rah, Rah, Caralina-lina
Rah, Rah, Caralina-lina
Rah, Rah, Carolina!
Rah! Rah! Rah!
